CLEAR PATH FOR TAXES

Revision Plan to Be Taken up

House Republicans Fail to Draft Cause to Fight Democrats

Mellon Proposal for Board of Appeals Materially Changed

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The way was practically cleared today for revision of income tax rates by the House Ways and Means Committee, but Republican members in two meetings failed to map out a course to pursue against the united stand of Democrats for higher surtaxes than those recommended by Secretary Mellon.

Clearing up some of the other sections of the bill, the committee upheld Mr. Mellon's proposed rate of 25 per cent reduction on "earned" income, but changed materially his suggestions for a Board of Tax Appeals.

Approval was given for creation of such a board to hear contested cases between the Internal Revenue Bureau and tax payers, but the board was taken entirely out of the jurisdiction of the Treasury Department when the President was given power to appoint board members instead of the Treasury Secretary.

CHAMBER IS IN SESSION

Eleven Western States Meet

Co-operative Marketing and Transportation Needs Are Discussed

Taxation, Immigration and Foreign Trade Will be Taken Up Today

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 30.—The first regional meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of eleven western States opened today at the St. Francis Hotel, with more than 250 delegates present in addition to several hundred business men of California, who came to hear what the meeting had to offer on five of the larger national problems—transportation, taxation, immigration, foreign trade and cooperative marketing.

Many other matters will come before the meeting tomorrow, the subjects being presented through various resolutions offered to the convention. Among these questions are rate reductions, water transportation, light wines and beer, the Mellon plan for tax reduction, Federal aid in highway construction through sparsely settled States, national commercial aviation, and the Hawaiian "Bill of Rights."

The regional convention represents California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico. All of these States had delegates present, either officers of the Chambers of Commerce in the larger cities or members interested in various phases of western problems. The gathering was the first since the Chamber of Commerce of the United States adopted the plan of decentralization. As the result of that plan four meetings have been held in different parts of the country, San Francisco being the last.

PRESIDENT SPEAKS

Julius H. Barnes of Duluth and New York, president of the national organization, and John H. Fahey of Boston, former president and now director of the International Chamber of Commerce; D. A. Skinner, national secretary, and others arrived in San Francisco this morning to attend the convention after having been present at regional meetings in Philadelphia, Chicago and New Orleans. Barnes and Fahey made brief addresses before the convention, joined the general discussion of the chief topics, spoke at a luncheon given in honor of the visitors at the Commercial Club, and were the chief speakers at the banquet held in the evening at the St. Francis.

Today's session was devoted to transportation and co-operative markets. Paul Shoup, vice-president of the national body, presided, with Paul Clagstone as secretary.

Transportation matters were brought before the meeting with an address by William Sproule, president of the Southern Pacific. He detailed in general the transportation problems that faced western lines with their needs for fast seasonable service to handle perishable freight, requirements for new equipment, double tracking, etc.

MARKETING TOLD

He said the greatest menace of the railroad situation was "railroad baiting."

Seth Mann, manager of the traffic bureau of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, presented a paper upon transportation from the public standpoint. He agreed with President Sproule that he railroads must be given a square deal and helped to regain a solid financial standing as elements that demanded public support.

The discussion of transportation took up the greater part of the day.

Co-operative marketing in its relation to business was discussed by Ralph Merritt, president of the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers of Fresno. He told of the success made by that organization and was followed by Dwight B. Heard of Phoenix, Ariz., who recounted the success of the cotton growers of his State in obtaining and holding their markets and getting a fair price for the product. Heard said stabilization of agricultural and live-stock industries could be effected only through co-operating marketing.

David L. Levy of San Francisco spoke of the problems that faced the efforts to organize co-operative marketing.

MANY AT BANQUET

Foreign trade, immigration and taxation will be discussed tomorrow. Practically unanimous is the feeling for indorsing the Mellon tax plan and the immigration legislation pending before Congress. The foreign trade discussion will take up the proposed amendment to the national China trade act, putting Americans on the same

COOLIDGE NAMES SPECIAL COUNSEL FOR OIL INQUIRY

Former Atty.-Gen. Gregory and S. H. Strawn Are Selected; Denby Defies Democrats

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—President Coolidge tonight announced the selection of Silas H. Strawn of Chicago, Republican, and Thomas W. Gregory of Austin, Tex., Attorney-General in the Wilson administration, as special counsel to prosecute the government's case growing out of the naval oil inquiry.

Mr. Gregory was Attorney General of the United States from August, 1914, to March, 1919. It was said at the White House that he would leave Austin for Washington tomorrow.

Mr. Strawn is a former president of the Illinois Bar Association and of the Chicago Bar Association and is at present chairman of the committee on legal education of the American Bar Association. He conferred late today with the President, who has known him for some time.

Both are expected to confer together upon the arrival of Mr. Gregory the latter part of the week and in the light of evidence which has been adduced through the Senate investigation and in other ways determine what action shall be taken and in what form, especially as to bringing civil or criminal actions. The two will hold equal rank, and to them will be left the selection of their legal staffs.

MAY ASK CONFIRMATION

At the White House, where announcement of the appointments was made orally, it was indicated that Mr. Strawn and Mr. Gregory would serve under the resolution pending in Congress and be paid from funds provided in a special resolution in case the resolutions are adopted. In such case, it was said, Senate confirmation of the appropriations would be asked.

On the other hand, if by any chance at present unforseen, the resolutions should fail of final adoption, the two counsel, it was said, would serve probably as special assistants to the Attorney-General, operating under the Department of Justice and be paid from the funds appropriated for that department.

In the latter event, the White House view was said to be that Senate confirmation would at least be unnecessary.

STRAWN AT CAPITAL

Mr. Strawn in company with Senator McCormick, Republican, Illinois, was the guest at dinner tonight of John Barton Payne, one of the American commissioners to Mexico last year in the recognition negotiations, the two having been law partners in Chicago from 1903 to 1918. It was said that the President's invitation to become special counsel in the oil lease cases was given Mr. Strawn yesterday in Chicago. Mr. Strawn left immediately for Washington.

In his law work Mr. Strawn has engaged in general practice, he explained, although having few criminal cases. He never has been active in politics. He is 57 years of age.

WIDE EXPERIENCE

Mr. Gregory has had wide experience in antitrust prosecutions both in Texas and as a special Assistant Attorney-General of the United States before becoming Attorney-General. He is 62 years of age.

The Senate again failed to act on the Walsh annulment resolution after an all-day debate in which the demand for the resignation of Secretary Denby was renewed and a similar attack was launched against Atty.-Gen. Daugherty.

During the day Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, enlarged the area of oil fields to be recovered by introducing a resolution to assert title to sections of naval oil lands in California now in possession of the Standard Oil Company.

DENBY STRIKES BACK

Taking note of the attacks on him, Secretary Denby, after attending a two-hour session of President Coolidge's Cabinet, said he believed he had acted for the best in the oil transactions; that he would do the same thing again, and that he would not resign even if the Robinson resolution demanding that he do so were adopted.

At the Cabinet meeting the President and his advisers discussed in every detail the course of the administration.

On the floor of the Senate chamber Chairman Lenroot of the oil committee revealed that Mr. Coolidge had been informed in advance of the sensational testimony given a week ago by Archie Roosevelt relating to charges of a $68,000

DRY LEADER CONVICTED

Anderson Found Guilty by Jury

Verdict of Forgery Returned Against Chief of New York Anti-Saloon League

Freedom on Bail is Allowed Pending His Sentence; Case May be Appealed

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—William H. Anderson, State superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York, tonight was convicted by a Supreme Court jury on both counts of an indictment charging him with third-degree forgery in connection with the "splitting" of commissions with a former league fund solicitor.

Justice Tompkins announced Anderson would be sentenced Friday, February 8. Bail of $5000, in which he has been at liberty since the indictment was returned, was continued. It was understood an appeal would be taken.

The jury deliberated one hour and forty minutes.

The dry leader may be sentenced to a prison term of from two and one-half to five years for conviction under the third-degree forgery charge.

The verdict was not learned immediately by the expectant crowd that leaned forward in strained silence to catch the jury foreman's words. His voice was so low that it was not heard until the court clerk had made them known by the nature of his questions.

"What is your verdict, gentlemen?" the clerk asked.

The answer was not audible beyond the railing separating the bench, jury and attorneys from the audience, but Anderson, standing tense behind his counsel, evidently correctly interpreted the words that spelled defeat for his long fight. But the crowd's eyes were on the jury foreman, and they did not see Anderson.

"Do you find the defendant guilty as charged in the indictment?" the clerk drawled.

Again the answer was inaudible, but the whole room now knew, from the nature of the question, that the dry crusader had been declared guilty on both counts of the indictment.

There was no demonstration for the court, before the jury had filed into the box with its verdict, solemnly warned that any demonstration would meet with instant punishment for contempt.

The jury discharged, there was a departure from the usual procedure. Anderson was not required to answer the question usually put to convicted men as to their age, occupation and various other items concerning themselves. The brief scene ended with the excited crowd surging through the rooms.

Anderson was the last to leave. He walked rather dejectedly between two of his lawyers, and was last seen with them emerging from the shadow cast by the grim Bridge of Sighs that spans the street separating the court building from the Tombs.

It could not be learned tonight whether Anderson would be tried on the four indictments still pending against him, charging grand larceny and extortion. These indictments were based on the "split" commission episode and on Anderson's collection from the league payments on the $24,700 which he claims to have advanced the organization for publicity purposes.

WILL GIVE CURE FOR COLONIES

Germany Has Sleeping Sickness Remedy; Will Swap for Africa

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BREMEN, Jan. 29.—Unconditional restoration of Germany's colonies and pre-war rights, is the price demanded by the German Colonial Society for a new remedy for the prevention of sleeping sickness. The society expresses the belief that Germany in the remedy has a powerful political weapon in hand which places her in a position to force revocation of the colonial mandates executed under the Versailles Treaty.

"Germany holds the key to Central Africa in the remedy," said Dr. Zache, well known as a colonial expert. He expressed the belief that the remedy for sleeping sickness and tsetse fever is destined to convert Central Africa into a prosperous, fertile country, inhabited by an industrial people.

"No colonies, no remedy," is the defi hurled by Edouard Achelis, chairman of the Bremen section of the German Colonial Society. He suspects that this stand may provoke the charge of inhumanity, but he reminds his critics of the allied "hunger blockade" and the French Premier Clemenceau's dictum that there were "twenty million too many Germans in the world."

COMEDIAN IS DIVORCED BY FIFTH WIFE

De Wolf Hopper Again Freed of Matrimonial Harness by Decree

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—DeWolf Hopper, matrimonial expert and musical comedy star, was divorced today for the fifth time. Mrs. Elda F. Hopper, known on the stage as Hedda Hopper, was granted an interlocutory decree and custody of her 7-year-old son, Billy, by Justice Van Sicklen in the Supreme Court at Long Island City.

Mrs. Hopper instituted her suit last July. Although the actor declared then his wife's action was "a bolt from out of the sky," he did not appear to contest the suit. Testimony was taken before Seamore K. Fuller, as referee, whose report was approved today.

Mrs. Hopper, who lives at Douglaston, L.I., is to receive 30 per cent of her former husband's weekly salary as alimony, but in no event is the payment to be less than $50 per week.

DeWolf Hopper is 64. He was married first to Ella Gardiner, his second cousin; she divorced him and he married Ida Mosher of Boston, a member of the musical company, in which he played a leading role. After the next divorce, he married Edna Wallace, dainty little singer, who appeared with him in many of his stage successes. Number four was Nella Reardon Bergen, who divorced him in 1913 after living with him fourteen years. Marriage number five too place the same year.

SCHOOLS HERE LEAD STATE

All Records Broken in Orders for Books for Gigantic Increase in Los Angeles Pupils

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 29.—All records in California for school-book orders have been broken by demands made on the State text-book department by Los Angeles. Two carloads of books have just been shipped south and a third carload will go out within a few days, Will C. Wood, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, announced today.

Los Angeles recorded a gain of 42,000 pupils in its grade schools between January, 1923, and January, 1924, according to reports filed with S. W. S. Dyas, head of the text-book section in the Department of Education.

Los Angeles has three times the number of pupils in its grade schools that are enrolled in the grade schools of San Francisco, reports received by the State Department of Education show.

In Los Angeles a total of 139,088 pupils are attending the grade schools while San Francisco only reports 51,878. Up to the sixth grade Los Angeles has more than three to one pupils over San Francisco and presumably the percentage continues through the seventh and eighth grades, but reports show a falling off in the last two grades named. At the State Department of Education it is said the discrepancy is probably accounted for by reason of the fact the seventh and eighth grade pupils in Los Angeles are sent to junior high schools.

A year ago Los Angeles school authorities reported 97,000 pupils in the grades. In the January report, just received here, a total of 139,000 pupils are said to be enrolled in the grades.

The San Francisco schools show only a small gain.

TRADE IN AMERICAS GROWS

Great Britain Again Best Customer of United States; Russian Imports and Exports Drop

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Great Britain was again the best customer of the United States in 1923, it was shown today in Commerce Department figures for the twelve months ending December 31, 1923, but Canada and the Latin-American countries recorded marked improvement in their trade relations with this country. Russian participation in American trade was considerably reduced.

Exports to Great Britain were $882,333,850 against $855,825,991 in 1922. United States imports from Great Britain were less than half of the exports, amounting to $404,114,419 in 1923 as compared with $356,867,428 in 1922.

CANADIAN TOTALS GROW

Canada was a close second to Great Britain, taking $651,920,821 of exports and being the source of $415,981,082 of United States imports for the year. In 1922 exports to Canada were $576,686,799, and imports were $364,024,797.

In spite of the general disorganization in Germany during 1923, the trade between the United States and that country expanded materially, imports from that country being $161,347,569 against $117,497,692 the year before. Exports to Germany were $316,837,544 against $316,113,877 in 1922.

Total exports to Russia for the entire year were only $3,547,055, compared with $19,684,533 in 1922. Imports from Russia were $1,248,882 against $266,225 in 1922.

MORE BUSINESS TO SOUTH

The United States was particularly marked as a consumer for South American products, importing during the year goods worth $466,816,692, against $358,762,874 in 1922. On the export side the United States shipped to South America $269,318,004 in general commodities against $226,074,981 in 1922.

DAWES ARRIVES IN BERLIN

No Program of Deliberations by Reparations Committee Has Been Agreed Upon as Yet

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BERLIN, Jan. 29.—The first expert reparations committee under its American chairman, Brig.-Gen. Charles G. Dawes, reached Berlin from Paris tonight. There was no official reception at the railway station when the delegates alighted from the regular express, and the committeemen immediately motored to their hotel.

Germany's hopes of reaching a tolerable and final solution of her reparations problem center in the forthcoming discussions here of the committee and the second body of experts, expected from Paris shortly, with Germany's official spokesmen.

No program for the deliberations to be carried out in Berlin by Gen. Dawes's committee has been agreed upon, although in official quarters it is assumed that further discussion of the projected bank of emission will constitute the first topic on its agenda.

In addition to Dr. Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, the committee will immediately summon Dr. Luther, the Minister of Finance, Dr. Hamm, the Minister of Economics, and Dr. Oeser, the Minister of transportation.

While the reorganization of Germany's system of railways will constitute one of the main problems up for discussion in connection with the German budgetary reform, official and banking circles view the proposed organization of a gold bank as the more paramount and urgent issue, asserting that the whole range of Germany's financial and economic ills can be directly traced to the uncertain state of her currency.

FRENCH TAXES CAUSE BATTLE

Cabinet of Deputies Hurls Attack at Poincaire

Charges of Negligence Are Made by Members

Federal Settlements Face Combined Protest

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, Jan. 29.—The debate on the Government's demand for new taxes and economies amounting to six billion francs developed in the Cabinet of Deputies this afternoon into a vigorous assault upon the Poincare cabinet. The Socialists, who have been prolonging the discussion by multiplying the side issues and drawing out their speeches, took the offensive on the question of war damages and brought direct accusations of negligence against M. Reibel, Minister of Liberated Regions.

Documents supporting the charges of swindling on a big scale in connection with war damages in the devastated regions, which were presented, impressed the chamber, and the deputies almost unanimously demanded a full explanation, after the chamber of the sub-committee on speculation in the Liberated Regions had declared that M. Reidel refused to collaborate with the committee.

The question finally went over until tomorrow, when the debate will be resumed on authorization of the Government to issue decrees as amended by the provision for a revision of war damages. M. Tardieu and M. Herrot are expected to attack the Government tomorrow or Thursday.

Premier Poincare accepted an amendment enlarging the proposed revision of the devastation damages after the opposition attack had aroused the entire chamber to shouting demands for full explanation. M. Enghels, deputy from Lille, mentioned a number of prominent persons, and the amounts they had received, and told of alleged influence used by men in public life to obtain Federal settlements for their friends.

FEDERALS WIN ROUTE TO GULF

Martinez states that the battle was the most severe in which he has served. Military experts here compare the fight with the famous battle between Obregon and Pancho Villa at Celaya on April 7, 1915, when Obregon with 20,000 men defeated Villa's army of superior forces, thus establishing his military supremacy.

FIVE GENERALS TAKEN

The War Office report adds that all day Sunday and yesterday Martinez waged a stubborn and continuous battle along a sixteen-kilometer stretch between El Carmen and Esperanza, slowly advancing in face of rifle fire and light artillery barrage from Sanchez troops established on the heights.

The report states that rebel forces concentrated at Esperanza were commanded by Sanchez himself, assisted by Maycotte, Cesario Castro and Alfonso De la Huerta, a brother of the rebel chief. Sanchez used 2000 troops recently moved from Tabasco to defend Esfanza, and these bore the brunt of the Federal attack. The frontal attack on Esperanza was led by Martinez, while Gen. Juan Andrew Almazan advanced along the Mexicano Railway from San Marcos. Five rebel generals are reported among the Federal captives.

PLAN AMERICAN LOAN

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 29.—Formal negotiations for a loan of $1[illegible],000,000 to the Mexican government have been opened between Finance Minister Pani and a group of American bankers represented by J. M. Buckner, after a series of informal meetings, according to the newspaper Excelsior. The loan will be divided into four installments of $25,000,000 each, the newspaper says, and $[illegible]0,000 of the first installment will be used to pay for rifles and ammunition received from the American government.

PREMIER VENIZELOS IS AGAIN TAKEN ILL

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

ATHENS, Jan. 29.—For the second time since his return to Greece Premier Venizelos became ill today during a heated debate in the National Assembly and was obliged to leave the chamber. He was taken to his home.

CONDITION UNCHANGED

NEW HAVEN, (Ct.) Jan. 29.—The condition of Rt. Rev. Frederic W. Keator, bishop of Tacoma, Wash., who has been at a hospital here for nearly two weeks with heart trouble, was unchanged today. Last night it was said he was critically ill.

moved today to make the rate of reduction on "earned" incomes 33 1-3 per cent, but the motion was defeated on a strict party vote. Motions of Representative Young, Republican, North Dakota, to make the rate 15 or 20 per cent, also were defeated.

Representative Longworth, Ohio, Republican floor leader, conferred with majority members of the committee later in the day. He has urged that income rates be fixed in committee which would assure passage of the bill on the floor. This would force compromises with the Democrats in committee on a nonpartisan bill which Chairman Green has declared the Democrats have turned down and will not be offered again.

After the meeting Mr. Green said the full committee would proceed with the few technical features yet to be considered at the morning session tomorrow. He expected the income rates to be reached later in the day, but declared the Republicans had not yet decided whether they would attempt to fix these rates first in full committee or by themselves. Actual discussions among Republicans as to what rates they would determine upon if they wrote them in private had not taken place, leaders said.

The course of the majority, many thought, must be determined tomorrow.

The committee voted to restrict interest which cannot be deducted from gross incomes to that borrowed from nonbusiness purposes.

Secretary Mellon had recommended that interest paid during the year and losses not of a business character should be limited in deductions from gross incomes to the amount they exceeded the tax-exempt income of the taxpayer.

CHAMBER OPENS COAST SESSION

footing as other nationals: increase in the salaries of commercial attaches at foreign embassies of the United States and the question of foreign trade zones for industry at United States seaports. The three questions are offered for consideration by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

The nomination of directors will be considered tomorrow. O. M. Clark, Portland, is slated to succeed himself as ninth district director. A. S. Bent of Los Angeles and L. E. Rains of Salt Lake City will be renamed as regional directors of civic development and of the department of fabricated production.

The banquet in the evening was informal. Four hundred attended, including many women, while the balcony was filled with people who went to hear the chief speakers.

"The extraordinary development of the Pacific Coast typifies the expansion of industry in America everywhere," said Julius H. Barnes in his address. "The qualities shown in this development, of dauntless enterprise in overcoming natural handicaps of distance from markets, the resourcefulness that harnessed its mountain streams to generate power and to make the desert into garden spots—these qualities and the accomplishments make the story of American business development of special interest to the Coast."

WORLD SEES NEEDS

Barnes gave a resume of the activities and accomplishments of the national chamber since its organization twelve years ago. He said that business had become so complex that the old methods of getting the problems of business before Congress had failed, and that the national chamber had been organized to bring all business interests and problems, from those of the farmer and worker to the banker and manufacturer, closer to the legislative part of the government. He declared the efforts of the "blocks" were in violation of the spirit of the Constitution and the traditions of the country and were doomed to failure.

John H. Fahey outlined the work of the International Chamber of Commerce. He said, "that today the world understands more clearly than ever before the vital character of the service which the free operation of commerce means to the people everywhere."

That the great and grave problems of all nations had come to be more fully understood in America than ever, and that Americans appreciated the necessity for international co-operation in trade, finance and social welfare, as they never had, was Fahey's opinion after several years of close study. Regarding the after-war situation Fahey declared that the settlement of reparations must come before everything else; once that was effected, other problems would be adjusted on a more equitable basis, but would require tremendous effort and full co-operation from all nations. He said that America's unselfish efforts would in the end be fully understood and appreciated by Europe.

payment to the foreman of former Secretary Fall's ranch.

Senator Willis, Republican, Ohio, then announced that on the same day Mr. Fall and his foreman, Thomas Johnson, had been placed under surveillance by agents of the Department of Justice, who were instructed to prevent their departure from the country.

TO QUIZ FALL DOCTORS

Advised that Mr. Fall was unable to appear before it today because of a threatened nervous collapse, the oil committee decided to examine his physicians tomorrow before deciding whether to accept an invitation to question him in his sickroom.

The Senate's debat on political features of the oil disclosures, after centering most of the day about Mr. Coolidge and members of his Cabinet, finally brought into the discussion the name of President Harding. Defending Mr. Harding for transferring control of the reserves to the Interior Department, Senator Willis declared the dead President would not knowingly have acted contrary to the public interest, and the statement was accepted on the Democratic side.

FIGHT OVER DANIELS

Partisan charges and countercharges also figured in a brief House debate centering around a request by Secretary Daniels during the Wilson administration for Congressional approval of the drilling of offset wells in the naval reserves.

As the Senate proceeds with its debate tomorrow in the hope of reaching a vote before adjournment, the House naval committee will examine Secretary Denby and other naval officials and Interior Department officers with a view to determining whether Sinclair and Doheny leases are in the best interest of the government.

A resolution similar to that offered by Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, and proposing cancellation of the leases without going into the courts, was introduced by Representative Fairchild, Republican, New York. The resolution declares the leases "to be fraudulent and against the public interest."

DEMANDS RECORD VOTE

In all of these developments, the one element most frequently on the surface was the effort of the Democrats to drive from the Cabinet Secretary Denby, the one remaining officer whose signature is attached to the oil leases. In announcing he would not retire, Mr. Denby said he wanted a record vote on the Robinson resolution, and the Democratic leader told the Senate he would make every effort to obtain one as soon as possible.

Mr. Robinson also read into the record the Navy Secretary's statement that he would pursue the same course under similar circumstances and demanded to know of Chairman Lenroot of the oil committee, whether he approved Mr. Denby's action in consenting to the leases.

Senator Lenroot replied that he did not, because he believed them illegal.

In a later statement, Secretary Denby declared he was "profoundly convinced" of the legality of the actions, and also "profoundly convinced that it was for the best interests of the United States."

CONSERVATION STEP

He contended also he was carrying out the exact intent of Congress in conserving the oil, which he said otherwise would have been completely, or to a very great extent, drained.

Mr. Lenroot and other Senators took an opposite view in the debate today, contending that the lease of the reserves was a question of policy which Congress alone had power to decide.

"The principal motive that actuated me," Mr. Denby said, "was that the oil was being lost to the government. Besides, it would have taken at least six months to deliver fuel oil to the Navy from the ground to the coast. The purpose of providing for oil storage at seaboard, contemplated in the leases, was that there might be an instantly available war reserve of fuel for the fleet."

Adverting to the Robinson resolution, the Secretary said: "I do not believe there are enough votes in the Senate to pass a resolution of that character, concerning a man who, so far as I know, has not been even suspected of any crooked dealings. There has been no intimation of malfeasance that I know of."

CLEARS ROOSEVELT

He declared also that he alone assumed responsibility for the Navy Department's part in the leasing, and that no blame should attach to Assistant Secretary Roosevelt.

"Mr. Roosevelt is in no wise responsible for the action taken," he said.

Because of the turn of events which has brought him under Congressional fire, Mr. Denby has abandoned his projected trip to Panama to witness the conclusion of the winter maneuvers of the United States fleet. He said tonight he would stay in Washington, available for any call that might come to him from any Congressional committee.

Aside from the political features of the situation, the Senate's debate today, which continued for six hours, touched many times upon the legal aspects of the leasing of the reserves. Chairman Lenroot, in a careful argument that was listened to attentively on both sides of the chamber for more than three hours, contended that while the policy pursued was illegal, Congress should hesitate in making flat declarations of such an assertion in any resolution adopted, because that was a question which would have to be decided by the courts in the contemplated proceedings.

WOULD BAR POLITICS

Supporting the action of President Coolidge with respect to the initiation of annulment proceedings, Senator Lenroot declared that when it came to the rectifying of any wrongdoing, politics should stop. For that reason, he said, he resented criticism of the President for doing the very thing that Democratic Senators, through the Walsh resolution, were seeking to compel him to do.

Calling attention that the President had consulted only with Republican Senators, Senator Walsh replied that he assumed from this that the President regarded "this as a political matter."

"Because one who was a Republican official is involved in these charges," Senator Lenroot rejoined, "will not in the least degree affect the action either of the President or Senators on this side of the aisle."

Senator Heflin, Democrat, Alabama, said he regarded "the Republican party" as responsible for the present situation, and reiterated that he had the impression and the conviction that there had been an arrangement regarding the oil leases before the 1920 election.

PETTY POLITICS

This brought a sharp rejoinder from Senator Willis, who declared that there were those in the Senate and out who "will prostitute an occasion of this kind for little, petty political purposes."

Declaring that President Harding had made an error when he transferred the reserves from the Navy to the Interior Department, Mr. Willis said, he knew the late President well enough to know that he never did anything which he though was not for the good of the people.

"I cast no reflection on President Harding," said Senator Heflin. "I was fond of him. But the memory of a President, passed the way that all of us most go, cannot stifle the truth in this colossal fraud."

As the day's debate was concluding Senator Walsh introduced the new resolution, which would direct the Secretary of the Interior to institute immediately suits to assert title to Sections 16 and 36 in naval reserve No. 1 in California, now held by the Standard Oil Company of California.

As school lands these sections passed into the possession of California upon its accession to Statehood, and the Federal government sought to determine for many years whether the sections were known to have contained minerals at the time they were transferred to the State.

GOVERNMENT OVERRULED

Suits looking to the regaining of title were brought, but decisions adverse to the government were rendered in the lower courts and an appeal was not taken within the legal time limit.

A move was made late in the Wilson administration to invite new court proceeding and it has been charged in the course of the present investigation that Secretary Fall dismissed the whole case upon an ex-parte hearing granted to counsel for the Standard Oil Company, which received its lease from California State authorities.

Another resolution, offered by Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, has for its purpose the removal from the Cabinet of Atty.-Gen. Daugherty because of failure of the Department of Justice to begin prosecution both in the oil leases and against officials and others charged with wrong-doing in connection with the Veterans' Bureau investigation. The resolution recites that the Attorney-General has lost the confidence both of Congress and of the American people. The measure went over under the rules.

Just before adjournment the Senate received from the House the resolution appropriating $100,000 for the employment of counsel in the annulment proceedings and President Cummins referred it to the Appropriations Committee.

SINCLAIR WELCOMES TRIAL

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, Jan. 9.—When he has completed the business which brought him to France, Harry F. Sinclair, American oil producer, will return to the United States and "welcome the judicial determination" of the questions at issue with regard to the Teapot Dome oil concession. It is his purpose, however, to remain abroad until his business is finished.

Mr. Sinclair tonight sent a cable dispatch to United States Senator Lenroot to this effect. He reiterated that he already had appeared five times before the investigating committee and had given the committee "every fact or circumstance of a fact you have inquired about from me."

REPEATS DENIAL

The oil producer said he had told the committee that neither he nor the companies with which he is connected "have ever given Secretary Fall or any other representative of the government any money or any consideration whatsoever in connection with the Teapot Dome lease, and I again repeat I have not done so."

"I have been advised that the President of the United States has directed the institution of legal proceedings for the purpose of determining the question of fraud, if any there be, and for determining the validity or nonvalidity of the lease," Mr. Sinclair continued.

"I commend the action of the President in so doing and welcome a judicial determination of these questions in the lawfully constituted courts of our country and at the earliest date possible.

"Under these circumstances I feel and respectfully insist that if the records and books of the Hyva Corporation are pertinent to your inquiry, I and I alone, am the proper party to testify regarding these records. Any other procedure, it seems to me, is entirely unfair and not in accord with the American idea of a square deal."

WATER RIGHTS IN JEOPARDY

City Has Many Filings Along Aqueduct

Government to Cancel Unless Developed

Los Angeles is Asked What It Means to Do

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Los Angeles may lose a lot of water power filings along the aqueduct for failure to develop them. The Federal Waterpower Commission is considering the canceling of filings on about 1,200,000 horsepower, or applications that either have been filed with the commission a long time ago or were inherited from the Agricultural Department, having been filed with that body before the power commission was formed. About 600,000 of horsepower is involved in the filings within California—practically all of which is in the aqueduct territory. The other 600,000 horsepower involves filings along the Colorado River.

Letters have been mailed out by the commission to the city of Los Angeles and to some of the private power companies saying that the commission wants all these old filings or applications disposed of at once and that unless some substantial evidence can be shown by those making application for the immediate development on the applications of actual power or water plants, they will be canceled and later on awarded to either private companies or others who can immediately begin the development of real construction and the use of the water and power rights.

NOTICES SENT OUT

Notices have been sent to the Southern California Edison Company, the Sierra Power Company, the Great Western Power Company and others who have made filings and have never indicated that they are ready now to actually begin real development.

Among the filings made by the city of Los Angeles in the past and long on file with the Federal offices here in Washington are those on the following locations and streams all in the aqueduct district and in Owens Valley, California:

Two on Kern River, Baker Creek, Big Pine Creek, Rock Creek, Sawmill Creek, Division Creek, Cottonwood Creek and Morgan Creek.

The commission also wants to know about the diversion filings of the city of Los Angeles from Mona Basin to the Owens Valley on the following locations: Rock Creek, Livining Creek, Walter Creek, Parker Creek.

REPLY IS ASKED

An immediate answer has been asked on all of these filings of the city as well as from the private companies, and the commission plans to clean house and only keep alive those projects on which actual work can be started at once. The city of Los Angeles through its power department is not in a position to finance or develop additional projects, according to the information in the hands of the Federal Waterpower Commission and probably will not be able to hold alive any of these filings which were made many years ago.

MEXICO HAS SUPERTAX

New Blanket Levy of 10 Per Cent Explained for Benefit of Business Houses

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 29.—Of paramount importance to those doing business in or with Mexico, or holding real estate here, are the details recently published by the government regarding the new Federal supersurtax, which went into effect on January 1.

It is a blanket surtax of 10 per cent on all Federal duties, taxes or imports of whatever class, except the following which are exempt: Petroleum export duties; the 10 per cent of the gross receipts of the railways; the tax on wages, salaries and emoluments; the tax on profits of firms, societies and corporations; consular charges; tax on petroleum lands, and petroleum contracts or production of petroleum; all documents covering values of less than 50 pesos, such as bills, receipts and checks on banks.

COVERS PAPER

The operation of this tax, which is devoted to the service of the public debt, will most interest commerce in general where it applies to the stamp law, which affects all commercial operations, such as invoices, negotiable paper, checks, drafts and documents, and the stamp to be used on the card to cover the retail business of any kind of store.

It will also affect all who pay taxes on real property, as the Federal surtax of 25 per cent on all taxes, State or municipal, will have this supertax imposed as well.

To effect the separation of this tax from other revenues of the government, so as to show the amount devoted to the service of the public debt, it will be covered by a special issue of stamps procurable in all offices where the ordinary revenue stamps are sold.

IMPORT DUTIES

In all import duties, for instance, where the duty according to the tariff, amounts to say 100 pesos, 10 per cent must be paid of supertax on the duty and 10 per cent of the 2 per cent municipal duty levied for the aid of public works of the town where the customs office is located. The 2 per cent was made general in all ports of entry since January 1, 1923, and is computed upon all import and export duties.

So the calculation would be something like this: Duties, 100 pesos; municipal 2 per cent, 2 pesos; supertax, 10.20 pesos.

On real property, suppose that the tax is 8 per thousand; on a valuation of $12,000, the municipal tax on the property would be $96 per annum, or, per two months, would be $16; on this the regular Federal surtax of 25 per cent is $4, and the supertax is 10 per cent or 40 cents.

If the supertax comes to a fraction over 5 cents, the 5-cent stamp is added, for that fraction. A treasury circular, dated the 14th inst., has been largely distributed explaining the operation of the law.

END OF STRIKE CLEARS AIR

British Labor Ministry Saved From Possible Tight Situation by Closing of Rail Walkout

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, Jan. 29.—Settlement of the strike of the engineers and firemen on the British railways early today through private negotiations between the strikers and the railroad managers relieves the new Labor government of the necessity of intervening in an embarrassing controversy.

All political reactions from the strike are, therefore, canceled. The men return to work satisfied that they have gained their point, while the railway managers are equally satisfied that they have upheld their side of the case by refusing to put aside the agreement proposed by the National Wages Board.

As is usual, both sides claim the victory. The real sufferers were the traveling public and the industries affected by the strike. They view with grave misgiving the cost of the disrupted rail service. Besides 75,000 railway workers, who have been idle ten days, more than 250,000 workers in other industries were thrown into enforced idleness.

The miners suffered most severely, there being nearly 200,000 idle in various fields. The iron and steel furnaces at Barrow, West Hartlepool, Ebb Vale and Swansea were damped down and possibly will not be able to start up again until next week. At the seaports thousands of dock laborers are idle or on short time.

It is impossible to trace the endless ramifications of the strike reactions, but figures compiled for only a few sections of the country show that millions of pounds sterling were lost. Even for the striking engineers the cost of their fight was much larger than their gain through the settlement just reached.

VAUDEVILLE ACT CASE DISMISSED

Judge Declares Booking is Not Interstate Trade

Hart Says "Big Time" Men Barred His Players

Fist Battles in Offices Given as Tilt Cause

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—After three weeks of trial the $5,250,000 suit brought by Max Hart, the booking agent, against the B. F. Keith Theatrical Exchange, Inc., the Orpheum Circuit, Inc., and other vaudeville interests, was dismissed today by Federal Judge Augustus N. Hand.

The suit was based on charges that the defendants conspired to boycott acts booked by Hart so as to ruin his business. Judge Hand held, however, that although vaudeville actors traveled with their paraphernalia from State to State, the business of booking them did not fall within interstate commerce provisions of the Sherman antitrust law.

Several theatrical stars appeared during the trial to testify that Hart, as he asserted, had "picked them up in the sticks and put them in the big time."

The plaintiff claimed that the Keith and Orpheum circuits ultimately refused to book his stars, thus causing him to lose most of his high-salaried clients. When Hart testified he was barred from offices of the big exchanges, the defendants' attorneys brought from him admissions that he several times had engaged in fist fight with Keith and Orpheum representatives. The defendants claimed Hart's "pugnacious tendencies" were the chief cause of his disbarment from their offices.

Hart also was caused to admit that he failed in 1922 to declare on his Federal income return $17,000, which, however, he said represented "gifts and gratuities from vaudeville actors on the road."

GREEKS WIN RECOGNITION

United States Resumes Diplomatic Relations Broken in 1920 After Alexander's Death

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Diplomatic relations between the United States and Greece were resumed today when Secretary Hughes received M. Tsamados, Greek representative in Washington, as Charge d'Affaires and instructed Ray Atherton, who has been unofficially in charge of American affairs at Athens, to act as Charge d'Affaires ad interim to the Greek government.

It is expected that the accediting of a minister will await decision by Greece of the constitutional question under consideration in Athens.

Relations were severed in 1920 after the death of King Alexander and the return to Athens of Constantine.

BASED ON POWER

The regime which followed the latter was regarded as based frankly upon military power with its position unconfirmed by elections. Recent elections now, however, have resulted in the establishment of a government in such a way as to enable the United States to extend formal recognition although the question of whether a republican or monarchial form of government shall be established is yet to be decided at Athens.

In view of the special circumstances which attended Constantine's return to Athens in 1919, the State Department deemed it important before according recognition to take into account not only the part that Constantine had played in the war but also the policy of the new regime with regard to the acts and obligations of its predecessors and the attitude toward the American and Allied powers.

RECOGNITION WITHHELD

Recognition of the regime which followed Constantine was withheld because of its character and when the negotiation of a treaty of peace between the Allied powers, Greece and Turkey, was undertaken at Lausanne, it was deemed undesirable, pending the conclusion of these negotiations, for the United States to take separate action in the matter of recognition.

After the Lausanne negotiations and the ratification of peace treaties by Greece and Turkey elections were held in Greece, and as a result recognition has been extended.

NEW SEARCH NEAR HOME OF LINCOLN

Officials to Demolish Concrete Incline in Hunt for Bodies

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

AURORA (Ill.) Jan. 29.—A cement contractor late this afternoon called the attention of Police Chief Michels to a concrete incline under wooden steps leading from the yard to the cellar of the Warren J. Lincoln farmhouse. He told the Chief that Lincoln may have hidden in this support the bodies of his wife and brother-in-law, whose heads were found last Saturday imbedded in a concrete slab.

The support is of unusual construction, the contractor said, and the stairs might have been removed so that concrete could be filled in. Chief Michels ordered the support broken up.

Meanwhile a squad of pick and shovel men are digging in the pigsty where Lincoln is believed to have told Police Chief Michels he buried the headless bodies of his wife and brother-in-law.

The first dirt turned up after the icy surface had been scraped away was found to be yellow clay differing from the adjacent surface soil, and looking as if it had been turned over.

The pigsty is behind the Lincoln home on the Indian trail, and is no longer used. It was pointed out to Chief Michels by Lincoln yesterday after the confessed murderer had promised to reveal the place as soon as he could cudgel recollection of it into his befuddled brain.

FANATICS TO INVADE PROVINCES

Another Clash Expected With Philippine Forces as Recruits Are Gathered

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MANILA, Jan. 29.—About 300 fanatics having headquarters near Lake Mainit, in the extreme northern part of the Island of Mindanao, are gathering recruits with the object of invading Surigao and Butuan Provinces, the former of which recently has been the scene of clashes between other groups of fanatics and the Philippine constabulary, according to word reaching here.

The situation arising from clashes between the constabulary and the fanatics on Bucas Island, Surigao Province, where a number of both groups have been killed, is favorable, according to a wireless report received from Lieut.-Col. Clarence H. Bowers, commanding the constabulary in that section.

Col. Bowers reported that the fanatics were apparently impressed by the machine-gun fire directed against points on the island by the gunboat Sacramento, as a score of them had surrendered within the past two days. He said he expected all of them to surrender shortly.

Col. Bowers estimated that there were approximately 1000 of the fanatics.

DELUXE AUTO THIEF IS FREE

Queen of Gang Once More Escapes Law's Toils

Common-Law Mate Gets Term in Federal Prison

Girl Admits Past but Courts Can't Convict Her

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DENVER, Jan. 29.—Somewhere west of Denver, Velma Champagne, alias Brownlee, reputed queen of automobile thieves, is chuckling at her latest escape from the toils of the law.

In the Denver County Jail, Cleveland Stevenson Tippett, for five years her common-law husband, is waiting transportation to Leavenworth penitentiary to commence serving a sentence of four and one-half years, imposed in Federal Court, Tuesday, when he pleaded guilty to nineteen charges of auto theft, and shouldered all the blame for car-stealing operations of Velma Champagne and himself during the last five years.

And the State's District Attorney is wondering if he acted wisely when, a month ago, he accepted from her a plea of nolo contendere to two charges of grand larceny in connection with two of the 100-odd cars she and her husband stole in Colorado in 1923 and 1922 and sold in Kansas.

For the situation in which Velma found herself last September, when city detectives and Federal agents swooped down on their Denver home and arrested them on charges of wholesale car thefts, was not the first time she had run afoul of the law.

CAREER GAME OF TAG

Her career, since her craving for excitement caused her to leave school in Iowa eight years ago, has been a continuous game of tag with the law, according to revelations by Department of Justice agents Friday. They say they are repeating what she herself, making no endeavor to hide her past, told them.

After leaving the little town in Iowa, where, a child of one of its leading families, of high spirit, she had been the belle, Velma Smith, as she was then known, drifted down to Kansas. Here she found employment of various sorts, from stenographer to waitress. The urge for something new, something novel, sent her on from place to place. Finally she reached Topeka. Employed in an all-night restaurant, she came into contact with many members of the shady underworld.

One night the Topeka postoffice was held up and money and registered mail to a considerable amount was stolen.

ARRESTED IN THEFT OF MAIL

A few days later alert postoffice inspectors placed her and two men, known criminal characters, under arrest, charged with the robbery. The prisoners gave bonds, and in due course were indicted.

Before their trial, however, a quarrel over Velma arose between her two confederates. Guns were flashed, and when the smoke cleared she was found to be wounded seriously, so that she was unable to walk.

When the postoffice case was called for trial she was carried into court, pale, a shadow of herself, and the jury refused to convict her.

Shortly after this she met Tippett, who, as Brownlee, later confessed to car-stealing operations in twelve States, and another phase of nomadic life began.

ALD OVER COUNTRY

From New Orleans to the Dakotas and from Utah to Missouri, according to her story, which is backed up by the signed confession of Tippett, the pair journeyed, stealing cars as they went. Numberless times they came in contact with the law, escaping exposure, as she puts it, "by a ha'rpin."

Once in South Dakota, her arrest and that of Tippett was averted only when her brother-in-law arrived on the scene to recompense, in cash, a man to whom she had sold a stolen car.

Then, when installation of gear-shift locks had made wholesale stealing of larger cars more difficult, the pair transferred their operations exclusively to Fords.

A connection was established in Kansas with a dealer, Stanley Earp, who will serve the same sentence as Tippett in Leavenworth for disposing of the stolen cars, and a more settled life began for the pair.

In summer they made their headquarters in Denver, stealing cars here at the rate of four a week, driving them to Kansas to be turned over to the "fence" and returning by train. In winter they moved to the milder New Orleans climate, where, with the money obtained from the cars they bought a boarding house which they conducted.

NOT SIMPLE WORK

"Stealing cars is not so simple as it sounds," Velma told operatives of the Department of Justice. "It's harder than honest work. But once you're in on it, and the excitement of it grips you, the thrill of beating the law, it's hard to draw out.

"Many times, driving on a hot, dusty road from Denver to Kingsley, I have sworn to quit—that that car was my last. We never did, though, and here we are."

According to Clarance L. Ireland, Assistant United States Attorney, Velma can never be prosecuted in Federal Court.

"Decisions of all Federal courts, from the Supreme bench down, have established that a man's wife cannot be held responsible for crimes, unless it is clearly shown that she acted without the knowledge of her husband.

The Federal grand jury insisted on returning that indictment, but we have never issued a warrant for Velma Champagne.

"She may not be married to Tippett—but she is his common-law wife—and in the eyes of the Federal law, she is his wife."

Prediction Made Electricity from Los Angeles Will Run Cars

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

OMAHA (Neb.) Jan. 29.—Dr. Morton G. Lloyd of Washington, D. C., told delegates attending the convention of the Western Association of Electrical Inspectors that "super-power" may some day make it possible for street cars in Chicago to be operated by power from Los Angeles.

The speaker said super-power was already in operation on the Pacific Coast where various generating plants from Oregon to Los Angeles "are united by ties of transmission."

HOUSE STIRS PROTEST

Apartment Conducted by Divine Called Health Menace

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, Jan. 29.—The apartment-house conducted at 925 French street here by Rev. F. O. Linger is a fire and health menace, the Council of Santa Ana was told last night by City Attorney Z. B. West, Jr. Various officers had visited the place recently, West said. The Trustees ordered asserted unsanitary conditions remedied.

West asserted he found four adults and three children living in one room at the place. Mayor Tubbs asserted that he saw garbage cans that apparently never had been cleaned and he cited a chicken house built against the house as further evidence of purported neglect.

Fire Chief John Luxembourger added that he considered the apartment-house a fire menace, as well. Notice was to be served on the minister.

EDITOR LAUDS JAZZ

Teachers Told Modern Music Is Here to Stay Despite Critics

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, Jan. 29.—Jazz is here and it is here to stay because it possesses an element of beauty.

Frank Moore Allen, literary editor of the Illinois State Journal, Springfield, and a lecturer of national note, threw somewhat of a bolt into the ranks of Santa Ana school-teachers when he ventured the foregoing thought at their banquet here last night.

"I like good jazz," Allen continued, "and I intend to get the best there is in it."

Allen said "schools make a mistake when they emphasize intellect and submerge beauty," and that Sinclair Lewis and other writers of "modern novels" were "serving the purpose of the reformer; they are teaching lessons, but not serving the beautiful."

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

POMONA, Jan. 29.—With a total in postal receipts of $63,178 for 1923, the Pomona postoffice has made a new record for one year's business, according to Harry B. Westgate.

Last year was the first time in the history of Pomona that postal receipts have been higher than $60,000. The 1923 total was $4217.51 greater than the total for 1922 and $2117.99 greater than that for the fiscal year ending June 30. The number of pieces of mail handled, as indicated by reports not yet complete, also exceeded by far the number handled in 1922. The last quarter of 1923 showed a 25 per cent greater volume of business than during any of the first three quarters of 1922 and exceeded by 5 per cent the last quarter of 1923, which exceeded the corresponding quarter of the preceding year by 9 per cent.

BENJAMIN WINNER OVER SALVADORE

SCORES KNOCKDOWN IN SECOND ROUND OF BOUT

Two-fisted Attack of Benjamin Too Much for Salvadore; Reisler Stops Sollis in First

BY HOOKER CROOK

Joe Benjamin, flashy Stockton lightweight, won himself a lot of admirers last night when he took the decision over Phil Salvadore, Sacramento fighter, in the main event of the boxing program at Doyle's Vernon coliseum. The winner had the edge in two out of the four rounds, the first being even and Salvadore's work in the third session earning him a slight edge.

Both men boxed cautiously in the opening period, Salvadore landing a right to Benjamin's jaw for the only solid blow of the round. The Stockton fighter finished stronger than his opponent. In the second session Benjamin brought the crowd to its feet with a right to Salvadore's chin that sent that young man to the floor for a count of eight. This blow won the fight for Benjamin. Salvadore was dizzy when he got up and Benjamin rushed him all over the ring. The sound of the gong was sweet music to the Sacramento boxer.

Salvadore came back strong in the third and won a slight edge, rushing his man against the ropes. Benjamin finished with plenty to spare in the final round, however, doing nearly all of the leading. The decision was well received.

The semi-wind-up was short and exceedingly sweet—for Johnny Reisler. Mr. Reisler exchanged pleasantries with his opponent, Joe Sollis, late of Salt Lake, for about ten seconds and then suddenly the [illegible] chap found himself out on the canvas, at full length. Joe [illegible] he was hit by a crow bar but there is little to substantiate this, as such weapons are considered unethical in the fight game. [illegible] attempted to rise at the count [illegible] but the flesh was weak and he collapsed.

[illegible] O'Grady was plenty big and plenty slow and George Manley copped an easy decision, winning all four rounds. O'Grady tried hard but that's about all there was to it.

Larry Murphy did all the leading in his bout with Benny Shannon and the decision was his for his efforts. It was a good fight. The fight between Mickey Rockson and George Smith was a wild and woolly affair, with the latter getting the call without much difficulty. Smith had his man almost out in the final round, Rockson's head protruding through the ropes after an especially effective wallop by his rival.

Bert Myers subbed for Ed Savage and got a verdict over Joe Hernandez, the result bringing a continued round of lusty booing, the decision being rather unpopular. Sailor McKensie was awarded the call over Chief Anderson in the opening bout of the evening.

MIKE McTIGUE WILL MEET CARPENTIER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Mike McTigue, world's light-heavyweight boxing champion, will meet Georges Carpentier, former holder of the title, in the milk fund charity bouts here next May, according to Tex Rickard, promoter. Later in the season, Rickard stated, McTigue will meet Gene Tunney, American light-heavyweight champion.

3 years old
till looks new!

"One afternoon, some years ago, I was admiring my neighbor's car. I thought it was new until he told me it was more than two years old; and that he kept it looking new by cleaning it occasionally with Common Sense. So when I bought my car, a little later, I also got a bottle of Common Sense, and used it on the car about once every five or six weeks. My car is now three years old, and the finish is perfect; with a lustre that is richer, and if anything, more beautiful than the day I first saw it in the salesroom."

If your car looks dull, and perhaps a bit commonplace, go over it with Common Sense. It is so easy to use. You will be amazed with the quick, brilliant, lasting results. And remember, it is not a "finish" nor the false lustre of a layer of wax, but your car's own original, permanent finish, sparkling again. Repainting saved and a better job done, at a cost of only $1.00.

Your favorite Accessory dealer or Druggist can get it for you readily if you insist. Or direct from the Laboratory, postpaid, $1.00.

Where the Angels Will Train

Above we have a panorama of Recreation Park, Long Beach, showing the work in progress to get the field in shape. The lower picture shows President Harry A. RECORD IS SHATTERED IN RELAY

Mercersburg Team Bests Own Mark in One-Mile Race; West Beats East

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—One world's record was broken, the United States was victorious in two out of three international tests with Canada, and western relay stars conquered eastern rivals tonight in the outstanding events of the first night's program of the two-night Millrose A.A., track and field carnival in Madison Square Garden.

The meet has attracted a field of more than 1000 entries, representing school, club and college stars, in one of the most pretentious indoor meets ever conducted.

Mercersburg Academy shattered its own world's record for the one-mile relay, covering the distance in 3m. 33⅘s., and also hung up an international triumph by defeating Hamilton College Institute of Canada.

Women runners figured in the international contests and divided honors. Rosa Grosse, speedy Toronto miss, defeated Marion McCartie, the American record holder, in the fifty-yard dash, while the City Bank Club of New York, captured the second division of the quarter-mile relay, in which the Toronto Girls' Club was third.

Allan Woodring, Olympic 200-meter champion, carried the Millrose A.A., colors to victory as anchor man for his team in the one-mile club relay, but the former Syracuse star was extended to beat Tommy Poget, of the Loughlin Lyceum, by three feet after they had started the last quarter mile on even terms.

The summary:

One mile match relay, East vs. West: Won by West (A. E. Walters, Ray Dodge, H. M. Fitch, Vernon Ascher;) second, East (R. A. Robertson, W. C. Farley, I. S. Cook, J. W. Driscoll.) Time 3:25 4-5.

Billy Shade Outpointed by Stribling

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

ATLANTA (Ga.) Jan. 29.—W. L. ("Young") Stribling, Macon light-heavyweight, tonight outpointed Billy Shade of New York and California, in a ten-round bout here. The contest was marked by continual clinching. During the early part of the fight Stribling cut Shade's mouth and repeatedly kept the blood flowing during the ten rounds.

SPEED UP WORK ON PARK

Angel Club's Spring Training Camp at Long Beach Being Rushed to Completion

BY BILL HENRY

If the Los Angeles ball club doesn't have one of the finest training quarters in the country it won't be the fault of the bounding metropolis of Long Beach. Recreation Park, the new municipal playground of which the ball park is the first unit, is rapidly taking shape and the gang of workmen now on the job under the superintendence of E. T. Mische, expect to have the grand stand and training quarters tossed together in short order.

Yesterday President Harry A. Williams of the Pacific Coast League went down to look the place over with Business Manager Oscar Reichow of the Angels as guide and ballyhoo. Reichow pointed with pride to the concrete foundations for the grandstand, the turf infield, the rows of trees which will keep out the ocean breeze, the ideal surroundings and all the other attractions until President Williams began to suspect the Seraph business manager of trying to sell him the place.

EVERYTHING IN SHAPE

Apparently everything will be in perfect shape for the opening of Angelic spring training late in February. The grass infield was dug up from a city park and transplanted and with the recent rain has taken root and is flourishing like the proverbial green bay tree. The outfield has been cleared and rolled and the grandstand and training quarters alone remain to be erected.

The park has a rustic layout, being completely surrounded by trees which give it the appearance of being small, but Reichow swears that the field is exactly the same size as Washington Park and is willing to get out with a tape measure and prove it. The playing field is 325 feet down each foul line to the trees and the field itself, while somewhat soft, will undoubtedly be in fine shape in four more weeks when training begins.

RECREATION GROUNDS

The baseball park is part of a 400-acre project on the part of the city of Long Beach to provide recreation for its citizens and the magnitude of the plant undoubtedly indicates that there will be a Coast League franchise in Long Beach in the very near future. The park is being built under the advice of the Seraph management and promises to be an excellent place in which the Seraphic youngsters may flap their wings before the Coast League season commences.

Larry Semons in Easy Win Over Y Team

The lineup:

Larry Semon (42.)		Y.M.C.A. (22.)

GOLF GOSSIP

By CHARLES WEST

With Jimmy Ockenden doing most of the damage, the Havers-Ockenden combination defeated Scotty Armstrong and Chick Fraser yesterday afternoon in a brisk battle on the Midwick Country Club links, 4 and 3. Ockenden was playing golf well worthy of his title as French open champion, while Arthur Havers, British open champ, was slightly off form, his old trouble with his putter keeping his score up. Fraser, Midwick pro, was also erratic, while his amateur partner was playing beautiful golf.

After the match ended on the fifteenth green, the players completed the eighteen holes, Ockenden having a card of 70, two under par, Armstrong a 74, Havers a 77 and Fraser a 78.

It was Ockenden's brilliant playing against Armstrong's consistent golf that made the match interesting. Havers displayed his usual form with his long shots, outdriving the other three on practically every hole, but couldn't sink his putts. Good and bad playing mingled in Fraser's round, it being an off day for the usually accurate professional.

Armstrong had a lot of hard luck on the greens, his long putts stopping on the edge of the cup time after time. On no less than five occasions on the first nine holes his ball apparently defied the law of gravity, robbing him of birdies in each case.

Ockenden had five birdies on his round, and would have had a 68 had not he barely missed putts on the seventeenth and eighteenth greens. A thirty-foot putt on the second hole gave him a good start, and he was sinking them from any given distance for the rest of the day. It was seldom necessary for him to try for a very long putt, as his approaches were usually within ten feet of the pin.

The British professionals took the lead at the second hole, and were never headed. Ockenden's birdie two on the seventh after a perfect tee shot gave them an advantage of two holes at the turn. Armstrong cut their lead to one hole by a par 4 on the tenth, but Havers's birdie 4 on the twelfth put the Midwick players two down again. Ockenden's two birdies on the thirteenth and fourteenth holes put Havers and Ockenden 4 up, and the match ended when the next two holes were halved.

Havers and Ockenden will play in San Diego Friday, opposing a team yet to be selected, and will return for their return match with Von Elm and Hunter at the California Country Club, Saturday.

Culver City Gets a New Lease of Life—Promoter Johnson Comes to the Rescue

BY ED O'MALLEY

Ladies' day hardly proved a howling success yesterday at the Culver City track, barely 500 spectators being present. Manager Dick Ferris was sorely disappointed with the attendance and could not account for it except on the supposition that Los Angeles cared no more for the pony sport. The destinies of the present meeting hung in the balance yesterday and for a time it looked as if the pastime would be called off, but Promoter Ed Johnson came along about the fifth race and declared he would finance things for a spell at least.

The horsemen then got busy and decided to take pot luck and run their charges. Secretary Bill Finn then gave it out that the meeting would go on and immediately made preparations for Thursday's card. The next ladies' day will be Friday, when it is hoped the fair sex will turn out in more generous proportions than they did yesterday.

SPORT THRILLS

However, if the attendance was small, the sport proper was a humdinger, the judges having an eyeful all afternoon in picking out the placed horses. The feature event of the afternoon's pastime, the Famous Players Stake, a dash of one mile, went to Lone Pine, with All Bright second and Three X third. The recovering track was just to the son of Deutchland-Pepperwood's liking and he fairly flew over the course, handily staving off All Bright's determined bid at the end. Three X stood a long-stretch drive with gameness and ran his usually good race.

The other mile race, the fifth on the card, went to Madrono, which lay in second position until well into the back stretch, then went to the front with ease and simply rolled home. Bill Sparks, the old reliable, finished second and Joe Nugent third.

CLOSE FINISH

The closest finish of the day occurred in the sixth race, when Jack Lee, China Jane and Lena's Boy flashed over the line heads apart in the order named. The three were under the whip all through the last eighth and the finish was so exciting that a flock of seagulls which had taken advantage of the free gate for ladies, formed a cloud over the struggling nags and almost cawed their heads off.

Culver City racing results:

First race, claiming purse $300, 3-year-olds and up, five furlongs—Dallwood, won; St. Pierre, second; Calsar, third. Cordera, Emma Weber, Paint Drier, Fairy, Fancy Shot, Julius Caesar, Miss Nola, Mable M., Miss Ruth M., Paula, Romaldo and Steve also ran. Time, 1:02 2-5.

Second race, claiming $300, six furlongs—Laura Jane, won; Old Homestead, second; Sally Carter, third. Breggie, Meteor and Yorkshire also ran. Time, 1:18 3-5.

Third race, claiming $300, six furlongs—Kirstie Cub, won; Effie Randall, second; Dan Avi [illegible] third. Darlright, Helen, Miss Ducuta and Pa [illegible] Cards also ran. Time, 1:02.

Fourth race, claiming $200, one mile—Lone Pine, won; All Bright, second; Three X, third. Capt. Reliable, Marty Brannon and York Lass also ran. Time, 1:43 2-5.

Fifth race, claiming $300, one mile—Madrono, won; Bill Sparks, second; Joe Nugent, third. Breakfast Day, Cork, Eddie Fuller, Montana, Rayer and Tom Brooks also ran. Time, 1:44.

Sixth race, claiming $300, five furlongs—Jack Lee, won; China Jane, second; Lena's Boy, third. Miss Marion, Maxine and Tyler Jane also ran. Time, 1:02 3-5.

Midwick and Riverside Poloists in First Official Match Sunday Afternoon

FRIDAY'S TILT IS CALLED OFF

Rival Teams Rated the Best on Pacific Coast

Fred Roe and Harry East Are Visiting Stars

Local Four Practicing Hard for Big Contest

BY BRAVEN DYER

Midwick and Riverside, boasting the two strongest polo teams on the Pacific Coast, will meet at the Alhambra field Sunday afternoon in the first big match of the season for both squads. It is rather generally believed among followers of the same that one of these two outfits will cop first honors in the big tournament at Coronado during the latter part of March and the first half of April, and for this reason the contest Sunday is attracting no little interest.

Although the two aggregations were first scheduled to meet Friday, the opening game has been set for Sunday for several reasons. The ponies, although they have been through a number of practice matches, are not yet hardened enough to stand the strain of two hard contest one right after the other, which would result should the teams play Fridays and Sunday. Rather than take any chance with the animals, which are an expensive means of conveyance, both Riverside and Midwick agreed to cut out the first game and play only on Sunday.

GLAD OF CHANGE

The decision is a very welcome one to the local squad, although Carleton Burke's charges were perfectly willing to go against their rivals Friday if such was the edict. Despite the fact that they have played many practice games to date, it is a well-known fact that the locals are not passing up any chance to spend a few days working together and hence the elimination of Friday's contest is not received with any show of tears.

Capt. Burke had his men out practicing yesterday and with today, tomorrow and Friday open for team play the Midwick team bids fair to be in great shape when the gong sounds to send them against their formidable rivals. The Midwick leader, who is one of the steadiest players in the game, will play back, and will be ably supported by Arthur Perkins, whose splendid defensive work has been one of the bright features of the local season. Perkins possesses a powerful backhand drive, and it is a rare occasion when he misses a shot.

Eric Pedley and Teddy Miller, fast riders and hard hitters, will take care of the scoring end of the game for the Midwick team. The former is the flashiest of the local players and rides with all the daring and speed of a Paul Revere. Miller's drives are powerful and long, but he hasn't quite such good control of the ball as Pedley. The two will make an ideal scoring combination.

RIVERSIDE IS STRONG

Riverside is coming with a much-advertised outfit. The big guns of the opposition are Harry East and Fred Roe, both expert eastern players. Against the San Mateo Cardinals recently Roe scored ten goals, and this was in an official match. When it is considered that none of the locals has scored more than six goals in any of the practice games this year it will be seen that friend Roe is considerable of a player. East is an eight-goal man, and although small in stature possesses a terrific drive. Being rather small, his ponies carry him easily and he is able to get under way quickly.

Max Fleischmann, a veteran rider, who is famous for his strong defensive work, and Capt. Gill Ervin, a United States Army player, round out the Riverside team. Ervin plays No. 1 position.

The local field is in fine shape for a big match, and the new grand stand will take care of a large crowd. Plenty of parking space is available and if next Sunday's crowd isn't the biggest of the season we miss our guess.

FIRPO TO BOX HARRY WILLS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—A bout between Luis Angel Firpo of the Argentine and Harry Wills, American negro, both contenders for Jack Dempsey's heavyweight title, has been arranged to take place in this country July 4. Word to that effect from Buenos Aires has been confirmed by Lewis Raymond, spokesman for the syndicate which signed up the South American.

CHAMPIONS AND CHANCE

THE STORY OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST FIGHT PROMOTER

BY TEX RICKARD

Chapter XII

THE TRUTH ABOUT NELSON'S FOUL

(Copyright, 1924, in United States and Great Britain, Cuba, Japan and South America by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.)

When George Siler appeared in the ring that September afternoon eighteen years ago, and called Joe Gans and Bat Nelson to the center for final instructions, I was a much relieved man. The fight now was a certainty. I could sit back and see every blow without another worry about the preliminaries.

I was really interested in the fight itself as much as in the promotion. I wanted to see every blow.

Just as Gans was about to pull on his gloves we passed up a telegram to McDonald who in turn gave it to him. It was from Joe's old mother in Baltimore and the wording became historic. One phrase of it is today a by-word in sport. It read:

"Joe: The eyes of the world are on you. Eeverybody says you ought to win. Young Peter Jackson will tell me the news, and you bring home the bacon."

Another telegram that caused a big laugh was from John L. Sullivan: "Sorry I can't be at the fight. It ought to be a corker. My regards to all, especially the Sullivans."

Larry Sullivan was Gans's financial bacer and took an active part in the darkey's corner. He was also master of ceremonies.

In presenting the fighters to the crowd the announcer warned against disorder declaring that there were three hundred armed deputies in the crowd; if called on they would mean business. He was right too.

That crowd was a picturesque assemblage. There were miners, cowboys, bootblacks, distinguished men from all cities and fully three hundred women.

From the start these women appeared to be in sympathy with Gans. In fact he was the favorite of most everybody before the fight had gone ten rounds.

NEVER ANYTHING LIKE IT

Gans started it by jabbing Nelson with his left twice in rapid succession. From that moment the crowd saw what I regard as the greatest fight ever held in America. For sheer grit and endurance I have never seen anything like it—never expect to. It did not give me a thrill like the Dempsey-Firpo fight, for example, but for real fighting the Gans-Nelson affair stands out.

For just a minute Nelson attempted to box with Gans. His efforts were ridiculous. He might as well have attempted to box a shadow. Gans fairly peppered his face with jabs and hooks.

Seeing he had no chance at boxing, Nelson, following instructions, began boring in and hauling Gans about the ring trying to punish him with body blows. He wrestled as much as he boxed.

In addition to that ugly style of fighting Nelson used all kinds of foul tactics. After ten or twelve rounds he was intensely unpopular.

Time and time again Gans boxed Nelson off and then tried to fight him at long distance. Instantly, though, Nelson would fall back into the clinch and the mauling would start over again.

From Nelson's corner Billy Nolan kept yelling to him to keep boring in. He didn't want Nelson to attempt boxing. In that respect Nolan was wise, though very unpopular.

Gans was forced to meet Nelson at his own game. Round after round passed without a decisive incident. In the eighteenth, twenty-fourth and thirty-second rounds Nelson hit Gans below the belt. Some claimed that he had been instructed to do this from his corner. I don't know the truth about that. I do know that Referee Siler frequently warned him.

"Foul! Foul" frequently came from Gans's corner and also from the crowd.

NELSON RESORTS TO BUTTING

Then Nelson began butting. Several times he bored in and drove his hard head against Gans's chin. Joe protested but as no harm was done Siler let it pass.

The crowd was getting disgusted with Nelson. On top of his other foul tactics he struck Gans in the stomach when the negro was lifting him to his feet. There was a big hiss at this.

In the thirty-fifth round, I think it was, Nelson slipped and was almost driven through the ropes. Gans caught him and lifted him to his feet. In response to this Nelson socked his fist squarely in the darkey's mid-section.

The crowd, seeing Nelson outclassed in the boxing, began offering bets on Gans at 2 to 1 and even 3 to 1 with no takers.

In the thirty-third round Gans landed a hard punch on Nelson's jaw and broke a bone in his hand. His sign of distress was a limp. No one knew of his broken hand until afterward.

And so the fight dragged and mauled on, the two hammering at each other, Nelson's face was beaten to a pulp. The negro also was bleening from the nose and ears. It sure was a fierce scrap.

In the last round Gans led off with a straight left to Nelson's face. Bat immediately fell into a clinch. As they broke Nelson struck Gans a hard uppercut blow in the groin. Gans slowly sank to the floor in great pain.

Without hesitation or waiting for a protest, Referee Siler walked over and disqualified Nelson, declaring Gans the winner.

CHEERS FOR THE REFEREE

There is no question in my mind that the foul was deliberate. Anyway it was a foul blow that everybody in the great crowd could see. There has been much argument about this. On that afternoon, though, the whole crowd agreed with Siler. The only holler came from Nelson's seconds.

Gans's backers and seconds insist to this day that Nolan instructed Nelson to foul Gans.

Here is what Referee Siler said to me and to those near him:

"I repeatedly warned Nelson against his unfair fighting and while I don't believe he was deliberately intent upon fouling Gans in many instances, he was unquestionably guilty of one of the most apparent and uncalled for fouls that have marked the end of any battle. There is no question in my mind that he deliberately struck low, as he was making no headway against Gans."

That tells the whole story in a dignified, unprejudiced way.

Then to top off his unpopularity, imagine the final remark made by Nolan:

"It was all a matter of the betting. The referee was paid to give it to Gans."

Siler was loudly cheered. Nolan was hissed.

Yes, that was the great fight of fights.

That one taste had started me in the game, as I will show.

(Tomorrow: Jack Johnson sees some $1000 bills.)

Griffin Faces Anderson at Legion Arena

Eddie Anderson and "Dandy" Dick Griffin, two of the best featherweights in the business today, are programed for the main event at the Hollywood American Legion Stadium Friday night. They will headline what appears to be, on paper at least, the strongest and best balanced supporting cards, Matchmaker Tom Kennedy has arranged in some time.

That Griffin will put up a good scrap is as good as an established fact. In every one of his many recent starts he has delivered his best and his best has been more than satisfactory. In two bouts with Stewart MacLean he dropped one decision by the narrowest of margins, and came back in the second and earned a draw, with many fans figuring he had the edge.

Anderson has fought in the past year practically all of the best of the eastern featherweights, and incidentally numbers among his victims, Stewart MacLean, who has been a big card here of late. Pitted against a boy of Griffin's ability, he should put up a wonderful fight.

Johnny Reisler and Bobby Wallace meet in the simi-wind-up at 130 pounds; Bud Forrester vs. Joe lon tackles Abe Gordon, a recent conqueror of Frankie Grandetta, in the special event.

Other bouths: Frankie Novey vs. Checkie Herman, 115 pounds; Mushy Callahan vs. Rusty Russel, 130 pounds; Bud Forrestor vs. Joe Burns, 126 pounds; Billy Blake vs. Kid Payo, 120 pounds.

Louis Comes from Rear to Annex Feature

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 29.—Louis was in rare form at Tijuana today and came from last position in a field of eight to win by a nose from Woodie Montgomery. The latter led all the way but could not withstand Louis's last-minute spurt. Both horses were outsiders, the favorites, Madge F, and Apricot finishing unplaced.

A sleeper was uncorked in the third when Black Pat, by a furious finish got up to win by a narrow margin from Insurance, with the popular choice, Rosa Atkin, third.

My Destiny took the opener, a three-furlond for juveniles with the favorite, Girl Scout, second and Moon Child, third. Norma Talmadge, which was starting for the first time, was well backed but failed to get away with the others at the break. Summaries

First race, three furlongs: My Destiny (Conley) won; Girl Scout (Weiner) second; Moon Child (Kennedy) third. Time :36 4-5.

Second race, five furlongs: A. Lester (Wilson) won; Lemon Seth (Wood) second; Porter Ella (Ralls) third. Time, 1:02 3-5.

Third race, five and one-half furlongs: Black Pat, (Maiben) won; Insurance (Legere) second; Rosa Atkin (Barnes) third. Time 1:09 4-5.

BOXING TURNOUT IS GOOD AT CALIFORNIA

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BERKELEY, Jan. 29.—Capt. Kenney Gow of the University of California boxing team has a promising array of newcomers to add to the veterans who have returned for intercollegiate sparring. Coyne, a shifty 118-pound boxer from Utah, is one of the novices who are showing up well.

LIGHT WORK IS RULE AT U.S.C.

Trojan Basketeers Resting After Invasion

Made Good Showing Against Bears and Cards

Meet Arizona in Two Games Here Next Week

Light workouts with plenty of rest in between will be the order of the week for the University of Southern California basketball team, according to Coach Les Turner, whose Trojans made such a creditable showing against California and Stanford recently, winning a game from each institution. The U.S.C. mentor's charges are all in good shape, and he desires to keep them so, hence only light practice is the program for the next few days.

Tuesday and Wednesday of next week the Trojans meet the strong University of Arizona five in two games here. Fans who remember last season will recall that the Wildcats knocked the locals for four straight defeats, two here and a pair at Tucson. Coach Chick Stanley has three veterans from last year's quintet. They are Capt. Harold Tovrea, Bob Thomas and Sappo Clark. Tovrea is a forward, while Thomas and Clark play center and guard, respectively.

The Trojans will get some line on the Arizona team this evening for the Wildcats are scheduled to play Whittier College at Whittier. Following this game the visitors go north for two contests with California this week-end, returning here for their games with the Trojans.

Coach Turner is angling for a game for his men Saturday night, but since the recent success of the U.S.C. outfit in the north, local opponents are rather scarce. The L.A.A.C. and Larry Semon A.C. are about the only teams that will stand much chance against the Trojans, and the first of these quintets was twice beaten by the Methodists. Turner says the Semons have been dodging a game. This Saturday the Comedians draw a bye in their A.A.U. schedule and if they really want competition will do well to hook up with the Trojans.

California plays at Stanford a week from Saturday and then the Cardinals come south for two games with U.S.C., one on February 12 and the other the day following. The Golden Bears will be here February 19 and 20.

PLAN AUTO TRACK AT CULVER COURSE

At the Culver City race track yesterday Dick Ferris gave it out that he would have a meeting this morning with A. M. Young, manager of the Los Angeles Speedway, with the object in view of trying to swing the speedway's interests to the Culver City track.

According to Ferris, he (Ferris) would build a mile and a quarter board track around the mile dirt course. By this plan, he could use the board track for auto races and the dirt track for motorcycle and horse racing. If Young thinks well of the plan, Ferris declares he will have the board track built at once.

BIG OFFER TO MILTON

Great Speedster Asked to Meet Bordino at Ascot Track for $40,000 Purse; Tommy Silent

BY PAUL LOWRY

No bombshells were heaved into the local arena yesterday, Gen. Bentel of the Ascot forces resting on the laurels achieved the previous day, when he announced that Tommy Milton, one of the greatest speed kings in the automobile racing world, and wild Pete Bordino of Torino, Italy, had been offered $40,000 to appear in a match race of fifty laps at Ascot on February 25.

Bentel has a cablegram from Bordino accepting terms for the contest with Milton, but you can talk yourself blue in the face without obtaining any information from Milton as to whether he intends to accept Bentel's proposition. The Sphinx has nothing on Dangerous Tommy Milton when it comes to secretiveness.

RUN HIM DOWN

The only two-time winner of the Indianapolis 500-mile classic was run down at the Athletic Club yesterday, where he was engaged in a strenuous game of handball. Aside from admitting that he had received Bentel's offer, Tommy was glad to talk about everything else but the proposed race with Bordino. "I'm thinking about the matter," said Tommy. "But," he added quickly, "I haven't anything to say."

"Have you sent in your entry for the Beverly race?"

"No!" And he ducked for the showers.

HE DECLINED

Bordino was asked six weeks ago to race at Beverly next month by the Los Angeles Speedway Association, but the Italian replied to A. M. Young, declining the invitation with thanks. He gave as his reason that his arm, which had been broken before the Grand Prix at Monza last September and which forced him out of that race when he was in the lead, had not mended and he felt unable to stand the gaff of a long race.

However, it will be remembered that Bordino, in spite of the handicap of a bad arm, led for half of the 500-mile race at Monza, and then retired, his team-mates, Salamano and Nazzaro, on Fiats, placing first and second with Jimmy Murphy third.

MUCH EASIER

If he could do that well at Monza with a bum arm Bordino no doubt feels that he could drive fifty laps against Milton, which is slightly over thirty miles, a great deal easier than he could circulate 250 miles around Beverly.

Milton is nearly all set for a real season of racing with three racing cars in his stable. Harry Miller is finishing a new 122-cubic-inch creation for him, which will give two cars of this variety, and he is having his 183-inch motor set in a new chassis. The 1921 speed champion wants to take a fling at some of the speed marks that are now on the books with the 183 job as well as garner glory with the 122's.

Whittier Men Trim Lincoln Casaba Team

Whittier High's basketball quintet scored a lopsided victory over Lincoln yesterday afternoon in the former's gym, the final count favoring Whittier 49 to 11. At half time the Quakers had 26 points, while a lone free throw was the best Lincoln could do during the first period.

Only half of the Lincoln contingent arrived, Coach Swan and half a dozen players failing to put in an appearance. Five of the Railsplitters had all the work to do, and really made an interesting game of it in the second half.

Line-ups follow:

Whittier		Lincoln
Barmore (13)	F.	Pramwell (1)
McCaslin (16)	F.	Davis (2)
Horton (4)	C.	Christensen (8)
Young	G.	Hardin

Highes (13) for Barmore; Knox (1) for Horton, Stringfield for Young. Referee, Finch.

Dyas 4-Piece Golf Suits are Outstanding Values

California Men have been quick to learn the advantage of a four-piece Suit—for it provides apparel for Golf, Motoring, Business and Traveling!

Dyas 4-piece Suits are of the highest quality woolens in the most popular weaves—and are tailored by expert craftsmen, yet they are priced less than you would ofttimes pay for a three-piece Suit!

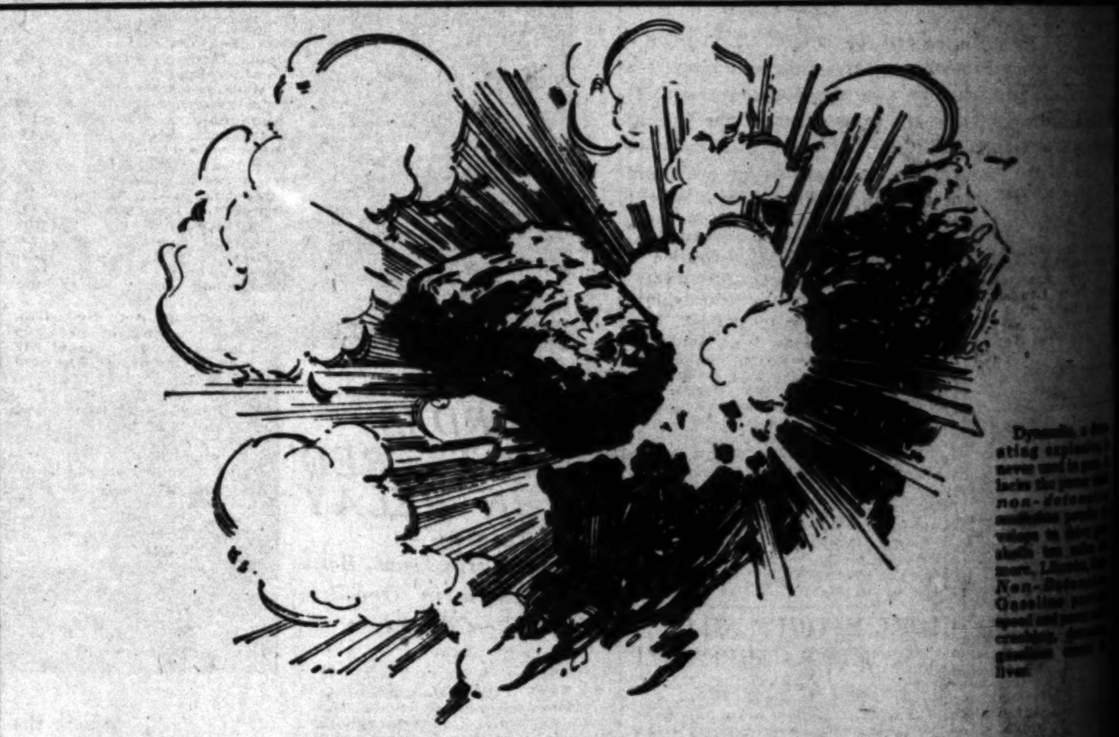
A new group of these Suits has just arrived in the Dyas Shop.

Come in TODAY—and look them Over!



Try This—See the chang

it makes in motors—Test for 50 Mile

THERE'S a treat in store for motorists who will try a simple plan. Thousands already know the results this method gives them and now they cannot be induced to change.

It smooths out motors—actually adds improvements as though the motor itself were improved.

There's an added speed on the straightaway, a new snap in the pick-up—wonderfully appreciated in traffic.

And increased power on hills enables you to take many grades on high that have always balked you in the past.

These results—improvements that every motorist seeks—are yours with a mere change of fuel. They will come to any motorist who will use Union Non-Detonating Gasoline, unmixed with any other kind.

But there is only one way for you to prove these statements. Try this plan. Even a fifty mile test will be convincing.

Why You Get These Results

There are scientific reasons underlying these results.

Union Non-Detonating Gasoline is the prod uct of 21 steps in distillation. Some g are made with but two steps.

Without any single step, however, would not be Union Gasoline, for each tributes largely to the result you get.

The perfect chain of boiling points is of importance. The explosions of Union G are progressive and sustained—not c instantaneous. That means smooth, —an uninterrupted flow.

That's what gives you the extra to command, the added snap in the pick-up makes it easy to escape congestion power on hills that eliminates of gears.

Here's new motoring pleasure for you.
is, in effect, an improved motor.
the same easy way that thousands motorists get it.

Just fill your tank with Union use it unmixed with any other kind.
fifty miles will prove the finest have ever driven. Surely that's a trying to obtain.

TAFT GETS PREP TITLE TRACKFEST

Council Awards Meet to Kern County City; Stage Event May 10

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 29.—Taft will be the scene of the 1924 California State high-school track and field meet. The award was made at Porterville by the council for the central section of the California Interscholastic Federation. This council consists of: Principal W. A. Ferguson, of the Porterville High School, and Principal C. L. Gier of the Coalinga High School. Principal J. T. McRuer, of Taft High and Coach George S. Sperry met the council in conference and asked that the meet be held in Taft.

Every four years a city in the San Joaquin Valley is allowed to promote the big State meet. This year, as Taft was the only town entering a bid, the honor of holding the meet will go to the oil city. Two years ago Taft was the scene of the valley meet and handled the affair with great success.

It is believed that more than 200 prep-school athletes from all over the State will be in attendance at the Taft meet which will be held on May 10.

Principal Ferguson has also announced that a conference meeting will be held soon to determine where the 1924, San Joaquin Valley meet will be held. It was staged here last year.

MOLLA OUT OF EVENT

Attack of Influenza Forces Former Net Champ to Withdraw; Favorites Advance in Tourney

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—The withdrawal of Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory from the Heights Casino invitation indoor tennis singles because of a severe attack of influenza and one-sided victories by remaining favorites were features of today's tournament developments.

Mrs. Bernard F. Stone of New York advanced to the third round by default of the former national champion.

Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup of Wilmington, Del., who is attempting a comeback, and Miss Lillian Scharman of Brooklyn, No. 4 in the national ranking list, won their second-round matches without the loss of a game.

Mrs. Jessup disposed of Mrs. S. F. Waring of New York, while Miss Scharman defeated Isabelle L. Mumford of Boston.

Miss Leslie Bancroft of Boston displayed powerful strokes in defeating Mrs. Walter Trumbull, also of Boston, 6-3, 6-2, but Martha Bayard of Short Hills, N. J., another ranking player, was extended to vanquish Mrs. E. W. Raymond of Hartsdale, N. Y., 6-1, 6-3.

In the first round of doubles play Mrs. Raymond and Mrs. Benjamin F. Briggs of Pelham, N. Y., defeated Mrs. J. H. Taylor and Miss Adele C. ENGEL HERE FOR MAT GO

All's set for the Miller-Engel mat engagement tomorrow night at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, and indications point to a hard battle and a big event for the fans—a regular whirlwind of action. Both boys are pepped up to the limit, and the no-draw proviso means excitement from the word go.

Walter concluded a lengthy siege of severe training yesterday noon, and declared himself ready to tackle not only one Heine but two or three, which won't be necessary. The L.A.A.C. instructor looked as fit as he announced he felt, and it was apparent that he will give his opponent plenty to do when they settle down to business. And, of course, they'll settle down the moment the gong clangs. This will be a stall-less match.

Engel jumped off the train from Dubuque as lightly as a cat on a rug, and nearly lost himself on the way uptown, so great are the changes in this metropolis since his former visit, about a year and a half ago. The Midwest boy looked like a million dollars from the athletic standpoint, and is known to be in perfect form. His one ambition is to beat Miller. He aspires to the world championship, has twice wrestled Johnny Myers to a draw, and believes he can put it over next time. If he defeats Walter, Johnny will take Heine on again in the near future. Miller couldn't get a draw with Myers, but lost the title to him.

Fred Wright and A. C. Thompson make up Flintridge's first combination, while Bud Yoakum and Ralph Reynolds form another strong combination.

Wilshire, with a stronger team than ever, will entertain Annandale in no gentle mood, there being strenuous competition between the two Class A clubs. The leading Hollywood team is in for a busy afternoon with Brentwood's representatives, but by comparative scores the Cinema City club should win out. Hollywood won from Hillcrest, 5 to 0, while the best Brentwood could do to the same club was 3 to 2.

San Gabriel and Red Hill, tied for the lead in Group 4 of Class B, will undoubtedly put on a bitter battle. The Red Hill men have been practicin faithfully for the big event, while out at San Gabriel the ten members of the team have been training for a week for the skirmish with Red Hill. The division championship hinges on San Gabriel and Capt. Arnold Statz of San Gabriel and Capt. John Howe of Red Hill realize the importance of the match.

CANADIANS SEE I.W.W. INVASION

Lumbermen Call on Premier to Ban Activities

Minor Strikes Tie Up Many of Western Camps

"Red" Literature is Found in Affected Area

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CALGARY (Alta.) Jan. 29.—Invasion of the lumber camps of the British Columbia interior and western Alberta by an advance guard of the I.W.W. from across the United States border threatens to disrupt the great western Canada lumber industry.

Declaring that the spearhead of an anarchistic raid that may spread all over Canada has been launched, lumbermen have called on the Canadian Premier to use the most harsh methods possible to crush the movement.

Minor strikes and union labor troubles in smaller lumber camps all through the interior of British Columbia have tied up dozens of logging concerns and lumber manufacturers. In every case "red" literature has been found literally plastered all over the camps and in the mills, and the whole industry is becoming honeycombed with I.W.W. agitators preaching the doctrines of anarchy in fields that have hitherto been unaffected by the virus.

TEST ON IN WEST

Western workers are being assured that thousands of their brothers in the logging camps of Ontario and other parts of the Dominion are watching this "bid for freedom," and that a measure of success in British Columbia will result in a Canada-wide attack upon industry as it is now constituted.

In every instance of labor trouble attributed to this new wave of I.W.W. propaganda, it is alleged by the employing lumberman that the drive is being launched, engineered and financed from I.W.W. strongholds in the United States, in several States of which the Red organization is outlawed.

In the Kootenay district of British Columbia the radical activity has been most pronounced, a number of strikes having almost completely tied up the field. Workmen have been driven out by means of raids and threats.

Some indication that the propaganda is already being spread to the prairies also is apparent. Here the I.W.W. have a fertile field in which to work, with thousands of harvesters left in the country from last harvest season, working for small wages in the expectation of boom times when agricultural operations are opened again in the spring.

FIRST STRONG ATTACK

I.W.W. raids have not been unknown in Canada in the past, but never has there been such an apparently concerted effort to gain a real foothold in the Dominion. The organization is not banned by law in Canada, and a member may carry a card openly so long as he does not come into active opposition to any of the Canadian laws.

The recent activity in British Columbia has led the Mountain Lumber Manufacturers' Association, embracing virtually every lumber and logging concern in the West, to forward to the Premier of Canada, the Minister of Justice and the Attorney-General of British Columbia and Alberta an appeal to have the ban of the law placed on the I.W.W. and "that immediate action be taken to rid this country of the agents of this anarchistic organization who seek to disrupt and destroy the industrial life, welfare and prosperity of our people."

BRITAIN NOT TO SELL OIL HOLDINGS

ANGLO-PERSIAN STOCK IS CONSIDERED TOO VALUABLE TO DISPOSE OF

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, Jan. 29.—Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced today that the British government was not prepared to dispose of its holdings in the Anglo-Persian Oil Company.

The Labor party has always advocated retention of the government's 5,000,000 shares in this company, which have gained considerably in value since the Royal Dutch Shell combine offered the government £12,000,000 for them.

Prime Minister Macdonald and his colleagues have maintained that the suggested sale would deprive the British Navy of one of its most valuable sources of fuel oil and would force the country to depend on the American Standard Oil Company, and the Royal Dutch Shell.

The government declined a much higher offer for its holdings in 1922 when the Anglo-Persian stock had a considerable higher market value.

BODIES FROM TACOMA EN ROUTE TO STATES

CAPT. SPARROW AND RADIO MEN WERE KILLED IN ACCIDENT

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

VERA CRUZ, Jan. 27.—Large crowds witnessed the ceremonies today attending the taking of the bodies of Capt. Sparrow of the United States cruiser Tacoma and two radio men killed in an accident aboard the vessel, to the Prometheus, which is carrying the bodies to the States.

Marines from the Prometheus received the bodies from the naval school where they had been with a guard of honor composed of naval cadets. Mexican naval officers accompanied the procession to the dock. The American Consul and a large part of the American colony were present.

A hydroplane from the Omaha scattered flowers over the procession. Capt. Ambrosio Iliades eulogized the three naval men. The Prometheus will sail Sunday midnight.

Leonard Wood today reiterated the denial he made last May that he had any information to the effect that Senators or Congressmen had received money from the Philippine independence fund. The occasion was the receipt here of the full text of the resolution offered in Congress by Representative Frear, for investigation of Gov. Wood's administration in these islands and the establishment of truth or falsity of reported assertions that information in the hands of the Governor-General disclosed such payments had been made.

They were just in time to hasten to the Imperial Palace to attend the reception for foreign diplomats given by the Prince Regent, Hirohito and his bride, who were married Saturday.

The Ambassador and Mrs. Woods boarded the President Taft again tonight and were to continue their voyage, visiting China, and the Philippines. They will return to Tokio toward the end of March.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 29.—An investigation into evidence from customs and other sources that approximately 250 Chinese who were brought into this port under bond last year, escaped in Chinatown and elsewhere and have not yet been apprehended, was started today by United States District Attorney John T. Williams. The Chinese escaped from vessels in the harbor on which they were serving as crew members, according to this evidence.

Doctor's Prescription Amazing Success Overcomes Kidney Ailments and Backache

Thousands Die Yearly Who Ought Not to Die—Kidney Troubles Kill Them. It's Guaranteed.

The small delicate sieves in the kidneys clog up—the poisons that should strain through and pass out with the water back up and get into the system—this means uremic poisoning and may mean the loss of some loved one.

Best for all of us to look the facts in the face and heed nature's plain danger signals.

The life work of Doctor Daniel G. Carey was the study of diseases of the urinary system and his famous prescription of roots and herbs known the country over as Dr. Carey's Marshroot Prescription 777 has helped others to get well—and stay well.

If you have backache or frequent headaches, if your sleep is disturbed and you get up in the night, if your eyes are puffy and palms moist, cut out this notice, take it to your druggist and say, "This is what I want: Dr. Carey's Marshroot Prescription No. 777."

You can always get it in liquid or tablet form at all druggists. Both are equally effective. The price is $1.30 and, mind you, if it doesn't help you, if you aren't glad in a week's time that you bought it, just get your money back—that's the way this successful medicine is sold.—[Advertisement.

ANCIENT CAVES ARE RESERVED

National Monument Retains Title to People

Great Structures Found in Northeast Arizona

Indian Reservation Holds Many Natural Beauties

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Under the American Antiquities Act of June 8, 1906, twenty-nine National Monuments have been established and placed under the control of the Department of the Interior. These monuments reserve to the people historic landmarks, historic and prehistoric structures, and other objects of historic or scientific interest. They are administered as part of the National Park System.

A large number of the National Monuments are off the beaten paths of travel, and a visit to them is oft times an adventurous and thrilling journey.

The Navajo Monument is within the great and little known Navajo Indian Reservation in Northeastern Arizona. It comprises three separate tracts of land, each of which contains the ruins of a remarkable prehistoric cave pueblo or cliff dwelling in a good state of preservation. These are known as Betatakin (the Navajo name of sidehill house,) Kitsil (meaning broken pottery) and Inscription House.

The latter ruin derives its name from an inscription scratched into the clay plaster of a wall. It reads: "S-hapeiro Ano Dom 1661." An intrepid early Spanish explorer probably on his way to or from the Colorado River must have entered the canyon in which this ruin is located and paused at the then long abandoned pueblo to scratch a record of his visit. It was not again visited until June, 1909.

CAVE 450 FEET LONG

Betatakin is situated at an elevation of 7000 feet, in a great cave 450 feet long with a maximum depth of 150 feet, in the side of a soft, red sandstone cliff which forms the walls of a most picresque and beautiful canyon. The cave roof projects far out over the village, which originally contained 120 rooms and occupied every foot of building space, but is so high that swirling storms have caused shrubbery to grow up to the very foundations of the ancient homes. Within the cave itself is a never-failing spring of excellent water. The gorge below is filled with tall, slender quaking aspen, alder, and birch, while the opposite slope is studded with pines.

Kitsil is the largest of the cave pueblos and is appropriately named, as the open spaces between the apartments are strewn with broken pottery of the finest type produced by the ancient cliff-dwellers. The village completely fills a cave 350 feet long and fifty feet deep. There are 148 rooms in all. Several circular ceremonial chambers of kivas at the front of the cave and below the level of its floor indicate the tribe occupying it was different from the clan that lived at Betatakin, as in the latter there are no rooms of this type. Kitsil is situated in a wooded canyon, the walls of which are warmly colored. The rich greens of the foliage and bright flowers create a picturesque setting in an atmosphere of peace and simplicity.

ROADS TO MONUMENT

The Navajo Monument is reached from Flagstaff, Ariz., on the Santa Fe Railroad, and National Old Trails Road, by a fair dirt road running northeasterly and crossing the Little Colorado River on a suspension bridge into the Navajo Indian Reservation. Just before the bridge crossing a new road from the left comes from Grand Canyon National Park, which is now also a point of departure. Tuba City is reached eighty miles from Flagstaff and about the same distance from Grand Canyon Village. Sixty-five miles farther takes one to Marsh Pass and eighteen miles farther to Kayenta, a postoffice and trading post, which is an outfitting point for the saddle and pack horse trip to the Monument.

John Wetherill of Kayenta is the custodian of the Monument and an outfitter. Indian guides are engaged for the trips. The Betatakin ruin is eight miles north of Marsh Pass; Kitsil is about seven miles from Betatakin, and Inscription House about forty miles to the west of Kitsil and Nitsie Canyon. Nitsie is formed by a series of deep-cut canyons whose courses zigzag in every direction like the tentacles of some huge devil fish, their rounded points and sides shimmering in the sunlight as though pulsating with life. At the rim one pauses in astonishment at this riot of color and form spread out below.

FEDERAL DRY EVIDENCE PURCHASE COMES HIGH

OFFICIAL TELLS COMMITTEE $205,658 SPENT FOR RUM AND DRUGS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Federal agents in their efforts last year to enforce the prohibition and narcotic laws spent $205,658 of government funds in buying "evidence."

This total was given by Assistant Prohibition Commissioner Jones in testimony before the House Appropriations Committee which today recommended that $10,629,770 be set aside for prohibition enforcement during the coming fiscal year.

"Does the prohibition agent drink whisky when he buys it?" asked Chairman Madden.

"Sometimes he does," heplied Mr. Jones, "in order to make a second buy to use as evidence."

"So the agent," remarked Madden, "is usually not a prohibitionist."

"Some of them," Mr. Jones came back, "have to drink."

BELGIUM DISCUSSES INTERNATIONAL CITY

PLAN OFFERED BY AMERICANS IS PLACED BEFORE CABINET

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BRUSSELS, Jan. 29.—The Belgian Cabinet is discussing an international city which it is proposed to erect here.

Mr. Otlet, Belgian member of the administration board of the International University, notified the government that an American organization called the World Federation League, in agreement with the Union of International Associations at Brussels, had recommended the scheme which would make the Belgian capital a center of international life, grouping an international city, university and museum.

In the opinion of its American supporters, M. Otlet said, the plans should ultimately receive a gift from the people of the United States of about $300,000,000 derived from the Inter-Allied debts account. The American friends of the project suggest that the Belgian government should offer an adequate site for an international city. Under the plan, Belgium would be under the protection of all nations represented in the international city.

PROHIBITION CHIEF EXONERATES POLICE

BERKELEY DEPARTMENT WAS ACCUSED OF USING FIRE REFUGEE'S LIQUOR

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 29.—The Berkeley Police Department was exonerated today by Q. J. Boone, Acting Federal Prohibition Director here, from a charge that it consumed most of the liquor sent by the prohibition office to refugees in the recent Berkeley fire. The charge was made by George Eldredge, former patrolman of the force who resigned recently.

"The liquor was for the use of exhausted fire-fighters and refugees, and the Berkeley police certainly were entitled to a good share of it after the way they exerted themselves," Boone said.

Boone's statement was issued after a hearing here in which Eldredge and officers of the force were examined.

DEFUNCT BANK HEAD ACCUSED OF FRAUD

TRAVELERS' CHECKS FACTOR IN CHARGE AGAINST FORMER OFFICIAL

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

OAKLAND, Jan. 29.—James W. Alexander, former vice-president of the defunct Security State Bank of Judith Gap, Wheatland county, Montana, and at present an Oakland real estate dealer, was arrested here today on a charge of forgery telegraphed by the officials of Wheatland county.

It was charged in the telegram that Alexander and Logan Fowell, cashier of the bank, issued a number of $20 travelers' checks against the institution after it became insolvent. The checks were drawn on the Bankers' Trust Company of New York.

Alexander denied the charge and said that he would waive extradition to Harlowtown, seat of Wheatland county.

MIDDLE WEST NEWS IN BRIEF

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 29.—Charges of gross misconduct on the part of E. T. Funk, 60 years of age, superintendent of the Porter County Poor Farm and father of Dr. Neil Funk of La Porte, with advice that he be discharged by the County Commissioner, were returned by a grand jury in Porter Circuit Court at Valparaiso. The grand jury charged Funk with making moonshine, intimate relations with inmates, performance of illegal operations, using of county buildings for clandestine meetings with married women from Valparaiso and inflicting undue physical punishment on aged inmates of the Poor Farm.

The proposal for a large artificial lake adjoining Fairview Park, the site of the new Butler University, faded out when the City Park Board rescinded all action on resolutions previously adopted for the acquisition of the tracts of land along White River, known as Rocky Ripple and Sunny Meade, and also an eighty-acre tract off the northwest corner of the park.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Wilson left Monday for Los Angeles to be gone the remainder of the winter.

The Fraternal and Loyal Knights of the Constitution, an anti-Klan organization with headquarters at La Porte, expects to organize in fifteen cities tributary to South Bend. Three hundred were initiated at Elkhart last night.

Production of automobiles from 200 to 300 cars a day has been announced by the Studebaker Corporation to begin next Monday, at which time the last several hundred employees not already returned to work will be called back to the South Bend plant. With the local plant operating on this schedule the corporation will again be working at a maximum capacity.

OMAHA

OMAHA, Jan. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Fish and Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson leave this week on a trip to California.

Silly wearing-apparel fads, jazz music and modern dance halls have instilled the younger generation with ideas foreign to the betterment of themselves, Frank Dineen, municipal judge, told South Omaha merchants. Shoplifters are usually girls between 16 and 20, but recently from the country, who resort to theft to obtain pretty clothes like city girls wear, the judge said.

Daily westbound passenger trains, en route to the Coast, are taking men from various labor agencies in Omaha, Des Moines, and Chicago for points in the lumber regions of the Pacific Northwest. Unprecedented demands for lumber are expected during the coming year, and it is said that many of the large lumber companies are exceeding their quota in lumber cuttings.

George Nelson, 35 years of age, former resident of Dundee, died last week at Long Beach, Cal., where he had made his home since June, it is learned by Omaha friends. Mr. Nelson was in the banking business both at Hardington and Omaha. He was connected with the Commonwealth Insurance Company here.

DES MOINES

DES MOINES, Jan. 29.—Mrs. Mary C. Erwin, 82 years of age, widow of George S. Erwin, Civil War veteran, died yesterday at her home, after a year's illness. She came to Muscatine in 1853 from New Orleans, traveling up the Mississippi River, and has lived in Des Moines for the last fifteen years.

Lake View citizens turned out to celebrate the formal opening of the new depot built by the Northwestern Railway. For more than 20 years the people of Lake View have been bringing pressure to bear upon the officials of the railway to build a new depot to replace the one erected by the pioneers forty years ago.

At Hudson more than 100 head of polled Angus cattle of the prize-winning herd of Lloyd Loonan were destroyed in a stock-barn fire. The herd had won blue ribbons in nearly every Midwest live-stock exhibit.

DETROIT

DETROIT, Jan. 29.—The "decency drive" promised by Acting Mayor Joseph A. Martin went into action with a bang yesterday with city-wide raids on blind pigs and arrests of proprietors and bartenders. A determination to put the places out of business was evidenced by the seizure not only of wet goods, but of chairs, tables, bars, screens, glasses and all other paraphernalia. Large quantities of beer and whisky and lesser quantities of gin, wines and ale were taken, together with slot machines, punch boards and other gambling devices.

Flames which firemen of two suburbs were powerless to combat, left four families homeless and destitute, drove a half-dozen other families into the street in a zero temperature, and completely razed four houses in a subdivision near Campbell, about a mile and a half east of Royal Oak. About 100 homes were threatened. What little supply of water was available froze almost before it reached the flames. Only the shifting of the wind saved the 100 homes.

Richard F. Flanagan, for more than 30 years an attorney in Detroit and Highland Park, and for many years a justice of the peace in Highland Park, died while on his way from his home to appear in a Detroit court. Mr. Flanagan, who was 70 years of age, appeared to be in excellent health when he left his home.

The body of John M. Meikele of Red Ridge, fifteen miles west of Houghton, who was lost in a severe blizzard Friday night, was found yesterday almost within a stone's throw of his home. He had lost his way in the blizzard while on the way to work. He was 59 years of age.

MINNEAPOLIS

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 29.—Mrs. Matilda Basting, widow of the late Theophil Basting, pioneer realtor of Mineapolis, yesterday filed petition in Probate Court as administratrix of her husband's estate. Mr. Basting, who died January 16, left no will. Besides the widow the heirs are Edward A. and Louis C. Basting, sons. The estate is valued at $416,480.

A trunk containing what was evidently the life savings of Heinris Foch, late of Zumbrota, $3243.07 in silver and currency, has been unearthed by appraisers making a check of the estate for the Probate Court. Some time ago the estate of Mr. Foch was entered for probate along with his will. That document gave all his belongings, real and personal to Margaret Hintz, who, although not a blood relative, was named the sole heir and legatee.

While seventy-five persons were attending a dance at a community clubhouse near Elgin, Minn., women began to faint and men to complain of being ill. Investigation led to the basement, where a gasoline engine exhaust pipe was blocked by a snowdrift, and monoxide gas was being forced back into the building. Several of the sufferers were given medical treatment.

ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 29.—Because of illness, Mrs. Alfred Clifford of Westmoreland Place will go to California early in February to remain until spring.

Details of the settlement reached by contestants of the will of the late Mrs. Mary Caroline Todd were announced yesterday. Her estate is estimated at $67,395. Approximately $25,000 of this will go to build a shelter for animals. She had originally willed the greater part of her fortune for this purpose. The nine relatives who brought the action contesting the will will receive approximately $25,000.

The Thomas E. Lee trust fund has been established at Columbia by Mrs. Elizabeth Polk McPheeters of St. Louis in honor of Thomas E. Lee, who lived in Columbia for many years and died last February. Lee had no family and willed his estate to Mrs. McPheeters, his cousin. She has placed it in the hands of the Boone County Trust Company as trustee and each year three-fourths of the net income is to go to the City Council of Columbia for the benefit of the worthy poor.

DENVER

DENVER, Jan. 29.—Denver's downtown streets are cleared of snow for the first time since the heavy snow of December 7. Yesterday the temperature rose to a height where it began melting the snow and ice and the city forces immediately chopped the frozen masses from the curbs and piled the pieces in the middle of the streets, where wagons picked them up and hauled them away.

John Hecker, former State Senator, prominent for many years in city, State and national politics and a former soldier, died of apoplexy at his home.

Charles Fischer, 76 years of age, a retired mine operator of Silverton, Colo., where he lived several years before coming to Denver twenty years ago, died at St. Luke's Hospital of heart disease, complicated by pneumonia.

LOUISVILLE

LOUISVILLE, Jan. 29.—Twenty-five mules and two horses were cremated and two automobiles, a truck and a quantity of tools and grain were destroyed by fire which burned a stable and two tool sheds in the rear of the home of John Hodgins. The loss, estimated by Mr. Hodgins, a road contractor, at $12,000, was partly covered by insurance.

News was received here of the death of Archie Cochran Speed, 69 years of age, formerly of Louisville, at Oakland, Cal. He is a brother of J. F. Speed, Louisville, treasurer of the Fidelity and Columbia Trust Company.

KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 29.—The Rev. G. B. Hassenfess of the Holy Name Church, 2201 Benton Boulevard, suffered a broken leg when he slipped and fell on an icy sidewalk.

The "two-bit" meal has returned. Anyhow one Mcberly restaurant is advertising 25-cent meals. Other restaurants have cut their prices.

James H. Black, pioneer Wichita banker, who died last week, left an estate valued at more than $500,000. He bequeathed the bulk of his property to three nieces.

THE REAL Theodore Roosevelt

AS TOLD IN THE PRIVATE LETTERS OF

Maj. Archie Butt,

Aide and Intimate of "T. R."

Copyright, 1924, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

The letter concluded in today's installment was started two days ago. It has taken the reader through a delightful Sunday with the Roosevelt family and now closes with an evening of typically scintillating conversation.

CAPT. BUTT TO HIS MOTHER

SAGAMORE HILL, Oyster Bay, July 27, 1918.

Tonight it was almost like fairyland. The air was soft and the President in a perfect gale of good humor. Hardly anyone talked but he, and he filled the evening telling of boyhood days and the fun he has had when he goes camping with children. It was almost as if Uncle Remus were among us to amuse us with stories, except that there was no dialect. He spoke of the fact that the boys never seem to remember that he is growing old and "Shame upon me to have to admit it—fat." He recounted, for instance, last summer when they had dug or burrowed holes through all the haystacks and that nothing would do but that he should go through some of them. Also he said they ran in odd directions and once he got so badly mixed up that he had to burrow a new way for himself.

"The next day Justice Moody came to visit me and I put Kermit up to taking him through them. Of course he did not want to go and saw little fun in it at best, but to please them he went, and so did I to see the fun.

JUSTICE GETS STUCK

Well, he got stuck in one hole and it was with some difficulty that he was gotten out. It was one of those circuitous routes which go up in the bay and then down.' It would have been an easy job for Fairbanks, but Moody's build was not exactly made for quite such sudden turns. Next to Phillips going in swimming with his spurs on, I think it was as funny an incident as we have had here."

He talked a great deal about his proposed African trip.

"You know," he said, "how you feel when you have all but finished one job and are eager to get at another. Well, that is how I feel. I sometimes feel that I am no longer President, I am so anxious to get on this trip."

He told us where he was going, the route he would take, and so on. He has seen many hunters and has many maps laid out.

"If I were younger," he said, "I would do so and so, but I will never be the same man I was and I will have to cut my work to my capabilities. I shall avoid now what I would eagerly have sought ten years ago."

TO HUSBAND STRENGTH

"Don't you think, Mr. President, that after you are out a month or so all your old vigor will return, and that you will be as good physically as you were in the Spanish war?" I asked.

Before he could answer, Kermit, who simply worships his father, said he felt sure that he would be as strong as ever. The President said he would like to think so, but he knew that he could not stand as much now as he could stand in the Spanish war; that he often felt inclined to stop and rest, and such a thing was unknown to him in the past. When asked by Winthrop what was the most dangerous animal he would find to hunt he promptly said the lion. He thought that most hunters thought the elephant, others the tiger and many more the hippo, but from what he had heard and read he felt that the lion was by far the most dangerous, because it was the quickest.

He said that Mrs. Roosevelt would meet him in Cairo as he came out of the desert, that he expected to be gone a year, and by that time he would be sufficiently forgotten that he could return to the United States without being a target for the newspapers. He said that he was not going near a capital in Europe, that he had decided to abandon the trip rather than be made into a peripatentic show. He was going to stay out of Abyssinia for the reason that he wanted to avoid the entertainment which he would get there.

TO DODGE ABYSSINIA

"The King of Abyssinia has already sent me a lion and cubs and other pet animals of his, and he would expect me to come laden in such fashion were I to enter his domains. No, I want to keep entirely from sight if I can. I do not presume it will prevent the papers, in the same shameless way as they did when I went West as Vice-President to hunt for game, from describing just what I had killed and what I had every night for supper. In that western trip I never saw a newspaper man and none ever saw me, yet when I came out I found that my day's doings had been heralded right along, and even such men as Cabot Lodge were so taken by the accounts that he wrote me, hoping that I would get the letter, that if it were possible to be less advertised, that it gave me the appearance of seeking too much notoriety. Yet not one of these papers ever contradicted one word of all the lies they had published."

He said that he would take only a few volumes with him, such that he could carry with ease.

"I will not come on deck with the Bible in one hand and 'Vanity Fair' in the other, as a noted statesman from Indiana did on the Philippine trip, and then proclaim them 'my favorite bits of literature.' In spite of the fact that I do not care for Shakespeare I will take him, because I can get all of him in three pocket volumes.

RATION OF SHAKESPEARE

"I don't care for dramatic poetry, but, of course, you get a lot of compressed thought in Shakespeare. I will take him just as the soldier takes the emergency ration, not for the quality, but for the largest amount of sustenance in the smallest possible space. I will see that Kermit takes his Bible, and I presume his mother will conceal the book of common prayer somewhere among his underclothes."

And so the night wore on, and I am here trying to think of some of the many things he said which made us all roar at the time, but nothing seems to come back to me. His humor is so elusive, his wit so dashing and his thoughts so incisive that I find he is the hardest man to quote I have ever heard talk. His style of narration is so peculiarly his own that it is hard to reproduce it. In fact he does not reproduce it himself in writing. He cannot follow himself with pen in hand. In conversation he is a perfect flying squirrel, and before you have grasped one pungent thought he is off on another limb whistling for you to follow. I can do all he does physically; I think that is one reason why he finds me agreeable to have about him, and I can follow him at times in conversation, even adding my share, but let him have the reins once between his own teeth fairly and squarely and he simply runs riot with the conversation. The only person I know who is his equal at all is Alfred Henry Lewis, and in conversation they remind me much of each other.

Affectionately,
ARCHIBALD.

AGED DONA SUCCUMBS IN POVERTY

Grand-daughter of First Mexican President Buried as Pauper

BY JACK STARR-HUNT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 29.—The death has taken place in a charity bed of Mexico City's greatest hospital of Dona Angela Nino y Victoria, more than 90 years of age, grand-daughter of the first President of the Mexican republic, Guadalupe Victoria.

This poor old lady had for sixty-four years lived in a state bordering on poverty, and it was only quite recently that her health became so impaired that some charitably inclined friends—not relatives or in any way connected with the authorities—caused her removal to the hospital, which she entered as a charity patient. She died, uncared for and unattended except for the attention of the officials of the institution to which she was taken for refuge.

It is understood that, some years ago, the government granted her a pension of five pesos per day, but that she never enjoyed same, on account of it having been collected by a relative, who used it for her own purposes.

Indignation is rife in the capital following the death of this descendant of one of Mexico's heroes and her burial in a pauper's grave.

WORK ON ARIZONA DAM GOES AHEAD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FLORENCE (Ariz.) Jan. 29.—Work is being prosecuted steadily on the 40,000-inch canal from the diversion dam erected by the national government across the Gila River, east of Florence. This canal will lead to Sacaton, headquarters of the Pima Indian agency, and primarily is for the benefit of Indian agriculturists, though it also will be used for irrigation of large tracts around Florence and Casa Grande. The Indian appropriation bill now before Congress contains an item of $250,000 for continuation of work on this canal. Above Sacaton a branch will be conducted over a second diversion weir, across the Gila, for irrigation of lands on the north side of the stream in times when no water might reach the lower damsite.

CRUSHED UNDER TIMBERS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MIAMI (Ariz.) Jan. 29.—Pablo Rodriguez, a laborer at the International smelting plant, when warned to jump as timbers started to topple on a railroad car he was helping unload, jumped toward the car and was buried under the timber avalanche. Death was instantaneous. A wife and four children survive.

NEGRO GETS LIFE TERM

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Jan. 29.—Ed Carter, negro, has been found guilty of murder in the first degree, with punishment fixed by the jury at life imprisonment. He stabbed Uvalde Burk, also colored, last October, in the course of drunken altercation at Wickenburg.

Concerning $1,200. a Year Income, for Life

Would you Pay $50. per Month for 5 Years to Receive $100. per Month for Life?

By John E. Kennedy

HAIL to the hopeful Rainbow-Chasers!

Tight-Wads as well as Get-Rich-Quickers, take heed!

Sporty SPECULATORS who think ye are "Investors"—this is for you!

Come down to EARTH, and consider the sober facts here stated:

"Land is the basis of all Wealth." Blackstone says so.

There is only one kind of Property called REAL Estate.

It's name is "LAND," and its more correct name is "INCOME-LAND."

Land-Ownership was the foundation of the most notable family Fortunes in this and the older Countries.

The Astor, Vanderbilt, Huntington and scores of other PERMANENT Fortunes were, and are, based on just such LAND-Ownership as is here advocated.

Not the fitful, nervous, Buying, Selling, Swapping or Trading of Land many times a Year,—but LONG-CONTINUED title to Land,—and long-term LEASING of Land to RESPONSIBLE Tenants.

How many have found out, to their Cost,—after years of "Quick-Turnover" transactions,—that they were merely Swapping Dollars, when not ultimately losing Money on the aggregate of such transactions,—that BROKERS' COMMISSIONS ate up all the Profits.

If the Investor Buys and Sells OFTEN enough, the compounding of these Commissions on "Quick-Turnover" deals in Stocks, Bonds, "Securities" or Subdivisions must ultimately act in the same way as the "Rake-off" in Gambling Houses.

More ENDURING, more cumulative, and far more satisfactory Fortunes have been made through careful buying of INCOME-LANDS for PERMANENT Investment.

So,—this to the Plungers,—the Rainbow-Chasers and Hopewells generally!

Come out of that Fool's Paradise where the "Quick-Turnover" delusion lures on perpetually to a mirage of Paper-Profits that Vanish before they can be turned into accumulated Cash!

Put your Savings and Surplus in that Safest, Sanest and ultimately most Profitable of all Investments,—INCOME LANDS,—LEASED to responsible Tenants, and by them planted to Permanent Crops at their own expense.

Then let Nature, Population and normal expansion of these United States take their course.

Your Investment will thus grow steadily, surely, cumulatively into a COMPETENCE on which you may RETIRE comfortably in the Winter of Life.

California Land may soon be "Cornered"

CALIFORNIA Population is growing by leaps and bounds.

Population MUST EAT TO LIVE,—and Home Products have first call on local Markets.

No Lands in America can produce so many Dollars per Acre, on average, as California Irrigated Lands when PROPERLY planted to PERMANENT Crops.

There are Farm Lands in California that regularly produce $250. to $1,000. per Acre Yearly in Net Profits.

Thousands of other equally good Acres await only expert and Intensive Cultivation to make them equally profitable.

Many High-Profit Lands could not be bought from their present Owners for $1,500. to $2,500. per Acre, though you may never have heard of them.

Equally good Lands, within a stone's throw of these Properties, through injudicious planting, poor financing, bad-management, and worse Marketing of Crops, are producing less than $50. per Acre.

These are the "California Lands" you HEAR most about.

The highly-profitable Lands, the well-developed and Long-Leased Lands, not being for sale, you rarely hear about.

California Farming on highly-productive Irrigated Land calls for MORE ability, MORE capital, BETTER equipment, and more Business Capacity in MARKETING products, than does Field-Crop Farming on Cheap Lands of limited capacity elsewhere.

Scientific, well-equipped and sufficiently capitalized FARMERS, to operate these high-priced Lands, are rarer than well-equipped Merchants,—since it has long been the fashion for Brains to gravitate off the Farms into Cities.

This Drift of Agricultural Intelligence cityward, has created a great Opportunity in high-grade "Factory-ized" Farming.

Certain able Individuals have SEEN this OPPORTUNITY and are now taking advantage of it.

E. A. Cudahy Proves his Faith by Deeds

AS President of the great Cudahy Packing Co. of Chicago, Mr. Cudahy has had ample opportunity to measure the future Market for Farm Products.

With the vision and acumen which enabled him to build up one of the largest Meat-Packing Industries in America, he has seen the vast possibilities in California INTENSIVE Farming,—when put on a "Factory-ized" basis,—with its Fruits and Vegetable Products marketed as efficiently as are the Meat Products of the Cudahy Packing Co.

Mr. Edward A. Cudahy is President and principal owner of the Cudahy Farm Operating Co., which now farms intensively more than 3,000 acres of carefully-selected Lands in California,—under long-term Leases.

When these Cudahy Leases expire, the Lands they now cover will be among the most highly-developed, and most valuable in the State—presumably equal to or better than adjacent lands planted to similar Permanent Crops, which are today appraised at $1,200. to $2,500. per Acre.

The proven Ability, ample Capital, and long Experience in the production, shipment and marketing of perishable Food Products, which have made the Cudahy Packing Co. a success, are now available in the skillful development of these long-leased lands.

And note well this self-evident fact:

The Cudahy Interests cannot make satisfactory profits for THEMSELVES out of Intensively Farming these Leased Lands without doubling, or probably trebling, the value of the Lands they thus cultivate.

They do not own these Farm Lands, for the same reason that they do not own the Range Lands on which are grown the Cattle they slaughter and sell as dressed Beef, or the Hogs they convert into Puritan Hams and Bacon.

They are MANUFACTURERS,—not Land Owners, and their business is with Farm PRODUCTS, not with Farm Land Ownership or Cattle Range-Land Ownership.

But,—their SELECTION of THESE Lands for long Leasing, and their heavy Investment in permanent Crop development on them, certifies to the exceptional QUALITY, condition and value of that Land.

You can now Buy these Cudahy-leased Lands

WE,—Kennedy, Hardie & Co., Land Brokers—offer a limited acreage of the highly-developed Farm Lands now under lease to CUDAHY Farm Operating Co.

During the term of that Six-Year Lease the value of these Lands will probably be doubled or trebled by Cudahy's expert development of them, through the planting and care of Permanent Crops grown into Quality.

Five Acres of this skillfully-developed, and intensively-cultivated Land should produce a minimum clear profit of $250. per Acre yearly for YOU at the end of the Lease, under renewal arrangements already specified as a condition in that Lease.

Five acres should therefore safely provide you with "$1,200. a year Income for Life,"—without work,—without living on the land.

Meantime, the Cudahy Cash Rentals will bring you NET 9% per annum over and above all Interest Charges, and above all other Charges.

These Cash Rentals would be payable directly to you—by Cudahy's.

Payment on Five-Acre tracts can be spread over Six Years,—with only 5% Interest and as little as $50. down, with $50. per month, will be accepted.

Deed, with Title Insurance and transfer to you of Rentals from Lease, will be delivered when ONE-SIXTH of the purchase price per acre has been paid.

No BANKER could want a safer, more legitimate, or more conservatively-profitable investment than in this responsibly Leased Land.

And, no WAGE-EARNER who can spare $50. per month need lose THIS rare opportunity to build a safe Competence for his family and himself, provided he has the Courage and Energy to act promptly.

Buy Five Acres of this INCOME-LAND which you can call your own FOREVER! Then KEEP it permanently, as the best possible Insurance.

It will provide a Pension carrying its own Charges. It will pay a Dead-Sure Net 9% on every Dollar you invest in it from the Start, with a reasonable certainty of over 45% per annum after the Six-Year Lease.

It will work for you when you can't work for yourself. It will guard you and yours against the Dangers of Disability or Destitution in Old Age.

BANK DECISION AFFIRMS RULING

Court Opinion Accords With Decision in 1911

Legitimate Branches Are Upheld, is View

They Must, However, be Part of Main Institution

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The opinion delivered yesterday by the Supreme Court in the branch banking case is held by Comptroller Dawes of the Curency to affirm the ruling of Atty. Gen. Wickersham in 1911, and therefore will cause no change to be made in the regulations issued by the comptroller. Mr. Dawes declared today that the court decision would not allow general banking business to be transacted in a branch house unless such a branch house had been acquired through consolidation or purchase.

The question of tellehs' windows at points other than the main place of business was not brought up in the case, the comptroller said.

"Those national banks," the comptroller said, "which have now in operation banks acquired under Section 515 of the National Banking Laws are, of course, not in any way affected by the court opinion. This applies also to such branch banks as have been acquired through the consolidation of national banks under the act of 1918.

"The Supreme Court did not have before it for decision the question of the power of a national bank to set up a teller window beyond the four walls of its banking house or the authority of the comptroller over the operation of such teller windows. The teller windows here mentioned have no general banking powers and employees assigned to them are not permitted to exercise any discretionary powers whatsoever but are confined solely to routine, clerical or ministerial duties."

The Man In Lower Ten

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

COPYRIGHT 1924 BY McCLURE NEWSPAPER SYNDICATE

The story thus far:

Laurence Blakeley, lawyer, in partnership with Richard McKnight, goes to Pittsburg with the forged notes in the Bronson case to show to John Gilmore, millionaire. He sees Gilmore, and there becomes interested in the photograph of his grand-daughter, Alison West, whose rapscallion father was a friend of Bronson, the same Miss West in whom McKnight is interested at Pittsburg; in a restaurant at luncheon he notices a man and woman together, discussing a journey which the woman wishes to take alone. He is drinking heavily. Later at the station the woman asks him to get her a lower berth while he is standing in line to get his own. He gives her lower 11. His own is lower 10. The train starts out late, delaying the second section behind them. Blakeley goes to the smoker and, when he goes to his berth, he finds it occupied by a man in a drunken sleep. The porter puts him in No. 9. He can't sleep and goes to the vestibule for air, and runs into a woman with bronze braids. She starts as she sees him. He finds a torn telegram —"ower ten, car seve—" "Lower ten, car seven" is supposed to be his berth. He awakes in the morning to find his bag and clothes stolen and others in their place. But he has blundered into berth No. 7 in the night when he came back from the vestibule. However, nine, his supposed berth, is empty. The man who occupied it was named Sullivan. And the man in lower ten is found murdered. A charming young girl in blue, and her companion, attract his attention. The murdered man is the drunken man of the restaurant. His name is Simon Harrington. Blakeley is cross-examined by the conductor, and the evidence seems very much against him. The pillow in his berth is blood stained. A little man who is doing some amateur detective work pulls a blood-stained bit of gold chain out of the sealskin bag left by the man who stole Blakeley's clothes. Things look black for Blakeley, when the train is wrecked by the second section. Blakeley's arm is badly injured. The girl in blue helps him away from the burning wreck. She tells him she is Alison West. She seems troubled. They pass the tall, dark woman who had occupied lower eleven by the roadside. A woman hurrying to the wreck sends them to her home for breakfast. Alison goes upstairs to wash her hands and afterward seems preoccupied. Blakeley returns home, leaving the girl without planning to meet again. Mrs. Klopton reports flickering lights in the empty house next door. Simon Harrington was purchasing agent for John Gilmore's Steel Company.

XIV—HER BAG

So—I told the story; I had told it so many times that day that I did it automatically. And I told about the girl with the bronze hair, and my suspicions. But I did not mention Alison West. McKnight listened to the end without interruption. When I had finished he drew a long breath.

"Well!" he said. "That's something of a mess, isn't it If you can only prove your mild and child-like disposition, they couldn't hold you for the murder—which is a regular ten-twent-thirt crime, anyhow. But the notes—that's different. They are not burned, anyhow. Your man wasn't on the train—therefore, he wasn't in the wreck, If he didn't know what he was taking, as you seem to think, he probably reads the papers, and unless he is a fathead, he's awake by this time to what he's got. He'll try to sell them to Bronson, probably."

"Or to us," I put in.

We said nothing for a few minutes. McKnight smoked a cigarette and stared at a photograph of Candida over the mantel. Candida is the best pony for a heavy mount in seven States.

"I didn't go to Richmond," he observed finally. The remark followed my own thoughts so closely that I started. "Miss West is not home yet from Seal Harbor."

Receiving no response, he lapsed again into thoughtful silence. Mrs. Klopton came in just as the clock struck one, and made herself comfortable in an arm-chair in the dressing-room, with a smaller, stiff-backed chair for her feet. She was wonderfully attired in a dressing-gown that was reminiscent, in parts, of all the ones she had given me for a half-dozen Christmasses, and she had a purple veil wrapped around her head, to hide heaven knows what deficiency. She examined the empty egg-nog glass, inquired what the evening papers had said about the weather, and then stalked into the dressing-room, and prepared, with much ostentatious creaking, to sit up all night.

We fell silent again, while McKnight traced a rough outline of the berths on the white table-cover, and puzzled it out slowly.

"You think he changed the tags on seven and nine, so that when you went back to bed you thought you were crawling into nine, when it was really seven, eh?"

"Probably—yes"

"Then toward morning, when everybody was asleep, your theory is that he changed the numbers again and left the train."

"I can't think of anything else," I replied wearily.

"Jove, what a game of bridge that fellow would play! It was like finessing an eight-spot and winning out. They would scarcely have doubted your story had the tags been reversed in the morning. He certainly left you in a bed way. Not a jury in the country would stand out against the stains, the stiletto, and the murdered man's pocketbook in your possession."

"Then you think Sullivan did it?" I asked.

"Of course," said McKnight confidently. "Unless you did it in your sleep. Look at the stains on his pillow, and the dirk stuck into it. And didn't he have the man Harrington's pocket-book?"

"But why did he go off without the money?" I persisted. "And where does the bronze-haired girl come in?"

"Search me," McKnight retorted flippantly. "Inflammation of the imagination on your part."

"Then there is the piece of telegram. It said lower ten, car seven. It's extremely likely that she had it. That telegram was about me, Richey."

"I'm getting a headache," he said, putting out his cigarette against the sole of his shoe. "All I'm certain of just now is that if there hadn't been a wreck, by this time you'd be sitting in an eight-by-ten cell, and feeling like the rhyme for it."

"But listen to this," I contended, as he picked up his hat, "this fellow Sullivan is a fugitive, and he's a lot more likely to make advances to Bronson than to us. We could have the case continued, release Bronson on bail and set a watch on him."

"Not my watch," McKnight protested, "it's a family heirloom."

"You'd better go home," I said firmly. "Go home and go to bed. You're sleepy. You can have Sullivan's red necktie to dream over if you think it will help any."

Mrs. Klopton's voice came drowsily from the next room, punctuated by a yawn. "Oh, I forgot to tell you," she called, with the suspicious lisp which characterizes her at night, "somebody called up about noon, Mr. Lawrence. It was long distance, and he said he would call again. The name was"—she yawned—"Sullivan."

I have always smiled at those cases of spontaneous combustion which like fusing the component parts of a seidlitz powder, unite two people in a bubbling and ephemeral ectasy. But surely there is possible, with but a single meeting, an attraction so great, a community of mind and interest so strong, that between that first meeting and the next the bond may grow into something stronger. This is especially true, I fancy, of people with temperament, the modern substitute for imagination. It is a nice question whether lovers begin to love when they are together, or when they are apart.

Not that I followed any such line of reasoning at the time. I would not even admit my folly to myself. But during the restless hours of that first night after the accident, when my back ached with lying on it, and any other position was torture, I found my thought constantly going back to Alison West. I dropped into a doze, to dream of touching her fingers again to comfort her, and awake to find I had patted a teaspoonful of medicine out of Mrs. Klopton's indignant hand. What was it McKnight had said about making an egregious ass of myself.

And that brought me back to Richey, and I fancy I groaned. There is no use expatiating on the friendship between two men who have gone together through college, have quarreled and made it up. Fussed together over politics and debated creeds for years; men don't need to be told, and women can not understand. Nevertheless, I groaned. If it had been anyone but Rich!

Some things were mine, however, and I would hold them: the halcyon breakfast, the queer hat, the pebble in her small shoe, the gold bag with the broken chain—the bag! Why, it was in my pocket at that moment.

I got up painfully and found my coat. Yes, there was the purse, bulging with an opulent suggestion of wealth inside. I went back to bed again, somewhat dizzy, between effort and the touch of the trinket, so lately hers. I held it up by its broken chain and gloated over it. By careful attention to orders, I ought to be out in a day or so. Then—I could return it to her. I wouldn't care to trust it to the mail. I could run down to Richmond, and see her once—there was no disloyalty to Rich in that.

I had no intention of opening the little bag. I put in under my pillow—which was my reason for refusing to have the linen slips changed, to Mrs. Klopton's dismay. And sometimes during the morning, while I lay under a virgin field of white, ornamented with strange flowers, my cigarettes hidden beyond discovery, and Science and Health on a table by my elbow, as if by the merest accident. I slid my hand under my pillow and touched it reverently.

SAYS STATE PHALANX IS COOLIDGE'S

Bay City Lawyer Informs East Move for President Has Great Impetus

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—The election of a solid Coolidge delegation at the California primaries was predicted yesterday by Joseph D. Redding, a prominent lawyer of San Francisco. Mr. Redding, who is on his way to Europe, has visited nearly every part of California recently on business trips.

According to Mr. Redding the movement for President Coolidge in California has gained tremendous impetus during the last few months. He said Gov. Richardson probably will head the list of Coolidge candidates for election as delegates to the Republican National Convention.

"There is no question in my mind that the citizens of California are thoroughly alive to the splendid simplicity and wisdom of President Coolidge," Mr. Redding said. "I think the State will be overwhelmingly for him."

Mr. Redding said that the same tactics which Gov. Richardson used to bring about his nomination and election as Governor despite Senator Johnson's opposition were being used spontaneously for President Coolidge in California. He explained that Gov. Richardson, a newspaper editor, had obtained the support of most of the 200 newspapers of the State, and that 65 per cent of the newspapers of the State are supporting the President.

INTERIOR DEPARTMENT MEASURE IS DELAYED

AMENDMENTS IN BILL FOR APPROPRIATION TO BE AGAIN VOTED ON

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—A vote in the House on passage of the Interior Department appropriation bill was prevented late today by demands for another ballot on several amendments, among them that providing for continuance of twenty-one land offices which the bill originally proposed to have closed down. The vote probably will come tomorrow.

Among sections approved today by the House was one allotting $380,000 wor work on the Minidoka Idaho, reclamation project during the coming fiscal year.

An amendment was adopted stipulating that no part of the allotment be used on the American Falls reservoir until all Indian lands needed in connection with the improvements are conveyed to the Interior Department and until all companies and districts which have contracted with the government to co-operate in construction of the reservoir have paid their proportionate share of the money advanced by the United States for the undertaking, and have posted an aggregate of at least $1,050,000 as security that they will fulfill the terms of their contracts.

For:

The place where food comes from is the place to which MONEY MUST GO!

And a city in the heart of a great food producing section is a mighty good place to have your home.

IN THOSE TWO STATEMENTS ARE SUMMARIZED THE STORY OF—

Pomona

Money—MORE THAN $8,000,000 OF IT—came to Pomona Valley last year for the citrus crop alone. Five millions more followed the same route to buy walnuts, deciduous fruits, grain, alfalfa, sugar beets, garden vegetables, canned goods, milk, butter and eggs.

SO IT GOES, year after year, and so it will keep on going! As long as there is richness in California soil, water on California hillsides, and life-giving power in California climate, Pomona Valley will keep a steady stream of food going out and a steady stream of money coming in.

First to the Farmer—then to the Business Man

That money goes direct to the food-producers, the farmers and fruit growers. That's why you will find it a mighty good thing to be a food-producer in Pomona Valley. But you will find it just as advantageous to be a business man serving those food-producers. They wear good clothes, live in well-furnished houses, drive good automobiles and keep good bank accounts. And they do most of their buying and banking right in their own central community—the City of Pomona. "The place where you'd like to live."

As land-owner or business man, Pomona promises you the substantial, uniform prosperity that is always assured in a region devoted so completely to the production of what everyone must have and will buy—FOOD.

Pomona is only 32 miles east of Los Angeles. And Los Angeles is adding more than 100,000 people every year to her population. Los Angeles bought one tenth of her milk, butter and eggs from Pomona last year, besides carload upon carload of other food products. The bigger Los Angeles gets, the more she must buy.

Opportunities are abundant right now at Pomona. Orchards and farms are available. Several lines of business are ripe for newcomers. There is a scarcity of houses in Pomona, which means a wonderful opportunity for real estate investments. Industrial locations on railroad trackage are obtainable at far lower cost than in other communities.

The Other Essentials

Pomona has all the other essentials to sound and permanent prosperity:

Transportation—Pomona is on three transcontinental railway lines, over which 104 trains pass daily. Reached also by Pacific Electric interurban cars and motor buses, and traversed by paved highways from every direction.

Water, Natural Gas, Lighting—Every public utility and an unlimited supply of purest mountain water.

Power—Plenty of electric current, fuel, natural gas and oil at a surprisingly low rate.

Banking and Commerce—Pomona has six financial institutions with resources aggregating more than $14,000,000. Her business houses are up-to-date in every respect.

Home Conditions—Pomona's splendid schools, college, churches, clubs and home influences are of the most wholesome character.

A little over an hour's drive, or quick run on the interurban or buses will bring you to the door of our Chamber of Commerce, where you will be promptly furnished with any information you desire.

SUSPECT TAKEN IN MURDER CASE

San Bernardino Accused is Held in Salt Lake

Wanted in Slaying of Man From Oakland

Extradition is Waived as Sheriff Leaves

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 29.—Ending a search which Sheriff Shay has conducted since the gruesome discovery in Cajon Pass on September 17, 1923, of the body of a murdered man buried in a shallow grave, Joseph Kretschner was arrested this morning in Salt Lake City, Utah, charged with the murder of N. C. Lucassen, formerly a carpenter of Oakland, whose body was found in the Cajon Pass grave.

Sheriff Shay, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Emmett Shay, left here this afternoon for Salt Lake, whence Kretschner will be brought here to face trial. Kretschner has not been questioned concerning the murder by Salt Lake officers, and will probably not be faced with any evidence concerning the murder until the arrival of Sheriff Shay.

The body was uncovered by a party of officers headed by Sheriff Shay last September, when a camping party reported to the Sheriff that part of an arm was seen sticking up out of the ground. The terrorized campers refused to return to the site on the night they reported the discovery.

CLEW IN RECEIPT

When officers went to the grave the following morning there were automobile tracks near the grave, and tracks showing the body had been dragged some distance before being dropped into the hole. The body was found wrapped in a blanket, the hands and feet being tied with small rope. A bullet hole was found in the head, an arm was broken and there were other signs of violence.

There were no marks of identification, but in the pocket of a shirt worn by the man was found a slip of paper which had been given as a receipt for the purchase of oil in Oakland. The writing was blurred and it was impossible to make out the name. In one corner, however, was a number.

With this number as the only clew by which identification might be made, Sheriff Shay started a search. Within a few days he had established the identity of the murdered man as N. C. Lucassen, who was traced out of Oakland in July in company with a man who was known to the Sheriff at that time as J. Williams. The pair left in an automobile, the Sheriff learned, and were headed for Southern California. The license number of the automobile was obtained.

The next information was that Lucassen and the man known as Williams left Tijuana on August 23, 1923, and that Lucassen had nearly $1500 on his person at the time. Then for a time the trail seemed to end.

WAIVES EXTRADITION

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SALT LAKE (Utah) Jan. 29.—Joseph Kretschner, 41 years of age, was arrested in this city by city detectives today and admitted that he is the man named and described in a circular received at local police headquarters Monday and which charges Kretschner with murder in San Bernardino county of N. N. Lucassen of Oakland.

The arrest was made by officers who recognized Kretschner as he passed on the sidewalk.

"I will waive extradition and go back to California," Kretschner told detectives. "I have nothing to face there."

According to Sheriff Shay's circular, Kretschner was last seen in Needles, in November. Kretschner admitted that he had lived at the following addresses in Los Angeles, which were given in Sheriff Shay's circular: 601 East Fifty-third street, 401 East Fifty-third street, and 40 East Fifty-third street. He told police he came to Salt Lake several months ago, admitting that he sold a large touring car near Needles, and shipped some personal belongings here. Kretschner told the officers he then "beat" his way to Salt Lake on a freight train.

Santa Ana Councilman Has Relapse and Dies; Bride of Last November Also Answers Call

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, Jan. 29.—Typhoid fever, developing after an attack of intestinal influenza, prevalent here as a malady two weeks ago, today proved fatal to Claude L. Lillen, member of the City Council and former superintendent of the Santa Ana Sugar Company's sugar factory at Dyer. He was 34 years of age.

Superintendent of the sugar company for five years, Mr. Killen resigned to become a partner here with George Miles in an automobile sales agency about six months ago. He is survived by his widow and one child, a son, 4 years of age.

Three brothers, Charles, John and George, living in San Fernando Valley, also survive.

Mr. Killen at first became ill with intestinal influenza. Able to be at his work for a few days, he suffered a relapse, typhoid fever developing. Funeral arrangements are not complete.

Another victim of the same disease today was Mrs. Harriet Schultz Nickey, bride of four months of Franklin P. Nickey, Jr., and daughter of Mrs. C. J. Schultz, all of Santa Ana. She had been ill three weeks, first with intestinal influenza. Her marriage at Anaheim last November was a social function of note.

Besides her husband and parents, she is survived by two sisters: Mrs. Arthur Shipley, Anahiem, and Mrs. Walter Hiskey, Santa Anna; and two brothers, Carl Scchultz and Jack Schultz.

Robert Phares Asserts Mrs. Bertha Phares is His Undivorced Wife

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, Jan. 29.—Robert Phares, husband of Mrs. Bertha Phares, under arrest here for asserted mistreatment of children, came to Santa Ana today. He threw some light on the past history of the woman known here as Mrs. Bertha Hatch, wife of Floyd E. Hatch, declaring she had deserted him in Fullerton in June, 1922, and he had been unable to get a trace of her or their children until he read in newspapers of her arrest.

Phares has been living at Compton, where Mrs. Phares took refuge when Hatch was arrested, and did not guess, he said, that his wife was in the same community. He said he had filed suit for divorce and had advertised service, but would now amend his complaint and seek the custody of his two children.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Hammand of 1508 Woodside avenue, Los Angeles, parents of Mrs. Hatch, who is dead, came here today and took charge of the two Hatch children, who, it is charged, were starved and neglected by their father and stepmother.

Circus Youngsters Taken to School During Visit

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

CORONA, Jan. 29.—Superintendent of Schools Glen D. Wight is a strong believer in the enforcement of school laws in this city.

Visiting a Mexican circus showing here he found the troupe had a number of children with it. Supt. Wight lined up all the youngsters, numbering twenty-five in all, and marched them to the Washington school where they were duly enrolled and put to studying. They are going to stay there until the circus is ready to leave the city, which will probably be in a week.

It was quite evident that the youngsters were not in the habit of going to school as they were more interested in their new-found friends and surroundings than in the efforts of the various teachers to teach them the alphabet and higher studies.

INGLEWOOD TO HOLD ELECTION IN MARCH

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, Jan. 29.—An annexation election which if carried will add at least a million dollars to the assessed valuation of the city has been set for March 5. This action was taken by the Council today following the presentation of a petition signed by fifty-five registered voters. The area to be voted on includes about 185 acres south of Arbor Vitae street and west of Market street. It includes the new Inglewood Mesa subdivision and other high-class residential tracts.

Missing Doctor is Accused of Leaving Debts

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REDLANDS, Jan. 29.—Dr. Charles F. Marten, sought because of his activities in the foundation of the Highland Retreats Sanitariums in Redlands, left a loss of about $50,000 when he disappeared two weeks ago, local officers say.

Victor Pick, business manager, filed a complaint charging Marten with issuing a $5000 fictitious check. Mrs. Smith of Long Beach charges he obtained $5000 from her under false pretenses; Arthur Dawson, former business manager of the Retreats, charges Marten put $3500 into the furniture of the houses used by the Retreats; local business men have claims totaling about $9000 and the owners of the several properties purchased by Marten have never received payment, it is charged.

Marten paid cash to some of the merchants with which he did business. Others from whom he bought on credit were never paid, officers say.

THWARTS EFFORT TO TAKE FINGERPRINTS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

POMONA, Jan. 29.—Arrested late last night, a man giving the name of Frank Kurtz, later admitting his true name to be Henry Handmeyer, today thwarted attempts to take his fingerprints by disfiguring his finger tips. He lacerated them with a needle. In his possession was found a set of skeleton keys. After being questioned, the prisoner admitted that he was wanted for violating a parole from the Indiana State Reformatory at Huntington, Ind. He will be held pending investigation.

Riverside Financier Calls in Police to Remarkable Scene in Home

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 29.—Voices in the night caused an unusual shooting incident in one of the fine new homes on Magnolia avenue here, according to local police.

A Riverside financier, whose name the police refused to divulge, awoke during the night and heard low voices, apparently coming from one of the front rooms of the lower floor of the house. Climbing softly from bed he obtained a revolver and tiptoed softly downstairs. The voices continued and he fired two shots in the direction whence they came.

Silence followed and the financier telephoned police that he had just shot two burglars. The officers arrived and the lights were switched on. On the floor at one side of the room was a badly shattered radio outfit. The financier had forgotten to turn it off when retiring for the night.

SECRET OF OUTRAGE IS HELD BACK

Girl Feared to Report Her Assault, Lest Shock Kill Mother, Seriously Ill

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, Jan. 29.—A 15-year-old Huntington Beach girl guarded behind sealed lips the secret of an asserted criminal attack upon her, fearing the shock would prove fatal to her mother, now seriously ill.

This became known here today when Everett O'Dowd, 30 years of age, was placed under $3000 bail in Justice Cox's court on a statutory charge, sworn to by the girl's father, whose name was withheld.

The mother, still critically ill, has not been told of the outrage of which her daughter was the victim, authorities declared.

The girl kept her secret as long as she dared; then told her father, officials said.

She feared to inform her father it was added, as she feared he would kill the asserted perpetrator of the autrage; thus, bringing more trouble upon the mother.

Judge Cox fixed the preliminary hearing for February 29, at 10 a.m.

SCORES POLICE OF LONG BEACH

Judge Declares That City is Unprotected

Asserts Favoritism Shown, Vice Squad Rapped

Says Bootlegger Hunted and Burglar Goes Free

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Jan. 29.—In a scathing denunciation of the Long Beach police department today Police Judge Hawkins declared that while one small group of men, detailed to suppress liquor, is given every facility for working, is supplied with all the automobiles and other equipment it needs, the entire uniformed department of nearly 100 men, and some thirty men detailed to plain clothes work, are denied even a small proportion of the equipment required to stamp out the epidemic of burglaries and hold-ups in Long Beach. Following are some of the judge's remarks:

"Burglars and highwaymen have been given free rein. They virtually are invited to come in and steal the city. Vermin infests the new City Jail because no attention is paid to one of its most vital needs, sanitation. The police department is undermanned and lacks equipment because of a willful indifference to the city's needs.

"Criminals are learning that Long Beach is a joke so far as police authority is concerned and they are acting accordingly. The City Council is guilty of gross carelessness and neglect of its duties to the citizens of Long Beach. The police department is in the worst condition in its history."

HITS VICE SQUAD

Assignment of three cars to the vice squad, composed of ten men, and leaving but one car to the detective bureau, composed of thirty men, and one car to the uniformed department, composed of nearly 100 men, is one of the criticisms of the police judge. He pointed out that the vice squad concerns itself with bootleggers and is expected to keep the city free from the occasional bottle-on-the-hip individual and the small peddler, while the detective bureau is being swamped with burglary, hold-up, grand larceny and other calls with which it is endeavoring to cope with little success because of a lack of facilities.

"One man is seen intoxicated on the street and a hue and cry goes up that the city is full of drunkenness. Irate citizens demand that the illicit traffic in booze be stamped out, but they pay no attention to the numerous burglaries, hold-ups, purse snatchers and attacks on women. The result has been that the booze squad, so-called, is given every facility for carrying out its work, even to the taking away of equipment from the detective bureau," the judge declared.

"Highway robbery is now as common in Long Beach as the most unimportant misdemeanor, yet there are but few arrests, because the detective bureau has no means of capturing the criminals because of a virtual lack of facilities. They have practically no means, in the modern sense, of combating crime.

TRANSFER OF CARS

"The order which went into effect yesterday, depriving the Detective Bureau of all but one car, turning three over to the Vice Squad which handles only vice, bootlegging and similar offenses, is in itself a criminal act. The Vice Squad catches a bootlegger. All he does is to sell liquor to a drunken sot. But the squad has three automobiles. The bootlegger is not burglarizing your home nor mine. He is not stealing everything he can get and endangering your life with a pistol. The burglar is doing all these things and there are many of him operating in Long Beach today. But there is one automobile at the disposal of some thirty men assigned to catch these burglars," the judge said.

"The idea that because the Long Beach Police Department did business on a wheelbarrow scale years ago it can attempt to cope with crime by wheelbarrow methods today, is ridiculous," the judge pointed out. He declared that hold-up men and burglars use modern methods of transportation and that department which does not endeavor to cope with them in the some manner might as well quit operating.

NINE AUTOMOBILES

The police department has a total of nine automobiles. Four of these are new cars similar to those used in the Los Angeles department, and two are worn out and a cheap variety. The other three, seldom if ever used in police work, are expensive machines with the titles "Chief," "Captain of Detectives" and "Captain of Police" blazoned on their sides. They are useless for police work and cost over $3000, more than all the rest of the police automotive equipment combined, it is pointed out by critics of the department.

Threats to place conditions in the police department before Dist.-Atty. Keyes were made by the judge, who declared that unless the department is given better facilities, more office room in the new City Hall and a cleaner jail he will make every effort to get the situation before the grand jury.

In an asserted confession Kelm is said to have implicated Delfs, an Ocean Park photographer. Several of the stolen articles were recovered by local police in the Delfs shop, it is said.

DOCTOR SAVES PUPPY ON FLOE

Elderly Volunteer Gingerly Works Way Over Ice

Chops Dog Loose From Grip of Winter Fastness

Policemen Hold Rope While Rescue is Effected

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DETROIT, Jan 29.—To save the life of an Airedale puppy that he saw perishing on an ice floe, Dr. R. Adlington Newman, 64 years of age, left the warm comfort of his home at 7900 Jefferson avenue and, in the face of the coldest winds of winter, braved the treacherous ice of the Detroit River.

With a rope around his waist and pushing a small skiff before him, the physician ventured out onto the broken ice in answer to the dog's piteous appeals. Standing on the shore, two policemen clung to the end of the rope, ready to drag the physician in should he go through the ice.

ANIMAL IS REVIVED

After the physician had chopped the dog loose from the ice, to which its hind legs had become frozen, he wrapped it in a blanket and, as swiftly as he could, regained the shore. Dr. Newman then exerted all his skill as a physician to human being to revive the dog. He succeeded.

The story was told by friends of Dr. Newman and modestly confirmed by the physician. The dog, named Jerry, belongs to Donald R. Nitchell, 648 Van Dyke avenue.

"I was watching from my library window, which overlooks the river, when I saw the puppy attempt to cross the river on the ice," Dr. Newman said. "When Jerry had gone about eighty feet from shore he began to slip on the ice, and before long he was down, tired and unable to proceed. The day was so bitterly cold that he soon froze fast to the ice.

"I immedately called the Humane Society, but was unable to get an answer. Then I summoned the police. Two officers responded, but they were both heavy men and apparently unwilling to venture out over the ice.

LOVER OF DOGS

"I'm a lover of dogs and I couldn't endure the thought of watching this fine puppy due for want of human aid. I tied a rope around my body and asked the policemen to hold the far end. Then I worked my way over the ice, pushing a skiff ahead of me, and at length reached and rescue the dog. The little fellow was nearly dead, but we finally brought him around and expect him to be no worse for his adventure.

"I never had seen Jerry before, but his owner's name was on his collar and there was no difficulty in identifying him. From now on, of course, Jerry and I will be great friends."

Jerry still is ill, but is rapidly recoveryíng, Mrs. Mitchell said. All four of his paws and his entire hindquarters were frozen, she said.

Tokio Engineers Offer Subways to Help Traffic

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TOKIO, Jan. 29.—Subways for Tokio as the only means for lessening the congestion are being planned by the engineers of the Tokio municipality. A report embodying the skeleton of a scheme for the construction of six lines that will traverse the principal parts of the residential and business districts of the city has already been submitted to the City Fathers, who are at present debating the possibilities of the project.

One objection which may tend to hold the project in abeyance for some time is that a subway system in a country like Japan is impracticable owing to the frequency of earthquakes. But the city engineers declare that subways can be constructed that can be made earthquake-proof. They base their argument so far as this is concerned on the havoc wrought to tunnels by the catastrophe of September 1 last year, which, strange to say, failed to affect tunnels to any large extent.

If the plan is adopted double tracks will be laid, the total mileage at the start being fifty miles. Tokio, before the earthqauke, had 190 miles of surface electric lines operating within the city. Several of these are still not working and the city engineers propose to develop the capital's transportation until Tokio will have 400 miles of surface lines and 100 miles of subway lines.

THERE ARE 400 CENTS IN SOME DOLLARS!

Why Only 107 Cents in Yours?

IF YOU WANT YOUR DOLLARS TO BE ALL OUT OF BREATH DEC. 31, FROM WORKING FOR YOU THIS YEAR, READ EVERY WORD OF THIS

By Tom Killian

MAKING money is the easiest thing in the world, here in glorious Los Angeles! That's a broad statement, of course, and it must be qualified by two conditions. But if you can obey these conditions you can make YOUR FORTUNE here. The conditions:

1. You must have at least a small capital. (The opportunity presented here calls for a capital ranging all the way from $250 to $20,000.)

2. You must fight for opportunities to increase your dollars. This simply means — "watch" closely for real possibilities. Investigate closely, and then play the game!

Given these two things—money to work with and energy to find ways to work it—and you'll make your pile in this city.

How to Make Money

The next step is to advise where the biggest, quickest, easiest, safest money may be made.

There are no two choices in answering this. REAL ESTATE!

Profit-making in Los Angeles real estate will never stop until there isn't a single lot left for subdivision!

The reason why real estate profits will never quit is that 100,000 to 150,000 people a year will never quit coming to Los Angeles.

Not until the sun is dimmed. Not until Broadway is blocked with snow. Not until picturesque Hollywood is ended.

They'll Never Stop

Not until the mountains and the palms and the roses in January from all the world—come to stay.

And they will buy lots for their homes and stores for their business!

So—we decide that real estate is the lasting great big opportunity to make money. Then comes the problem of deciding how to make the MOST MONEY in this profitable field.

There are three ways:

1. Buy a lot, hold it for a while and sell it at a good profit. Slow and sure. You win, but it takes time. You are a "retailer" and making a profit on only ONE LOT when you might be a wholesaler, making a profit on a lot of lots.

2. Buy a subdivision and put it on the market. A swift and certain way to make money. BUT it requires enormous capital, a tremendous volume of hard work, and a decided knowledge of the thousands of details involved.

3. JOIN A REAL ESTATE SYNDICATE. This is the best way of all—better because you get away from the "one lot at a time" profit and better because you have none of the grief or need of great capital that you would as an individual subdivider. A REAL ESTATE SYNDICATE is nothing more or less than a CO-OPERATIVE SUBDIVISION — many men and women joined together to finance a subdivision.

Before going into a specific talk on this NEWEST KRAEMER SYNDICATE, it might be well to give an example of how a syndicate is formed, what money is needed, how it is spent, what the profits are, and how fast they are made for the syndicate members.

Proof of Big Profits

The figures given here are NOT those of any Kraemer subdivision, but are a typical instance of what can easily be made in subdivision work. INCIDENTALLY THE LAST KRAEMER SUBDIVISION EARNED 400 PER CENT AND THE PROFIT IS STILL COMING IN!

First, the subdividing firm must have a reputation for being able to sell good lots quickly and for a good price before it can hope to have the public join in its syndicate. A subdivider may have the best property in the world and still know nothing about how to sell it. The F. W. Kraemer Co. has this invaluable experience and one of the best sales organizations in the city.

Now for an example of how a syndicate works out: The land, we'll say, costs $200,000; improvements cost $50,000; and the selling cost is $135,000—a total cost of $385,000. The land sells for $675,000. It requires the investment of only $110,000 to handle the deal—because you don't pay the entire cost of the land in cash, $75,000 down, (the balance coming out of sales of lots,) $25,000 to start your improvement fund, and $10,000 for incidental expense is all you need. So all the syndicate is formed for $110,000. The difference between the total cost above—$385,000—and the total selling price, $675,000, is the syndicate's profit, or $290,000. This profit, plus the original investment of $110,000, is given to the syndicate members, or a TOTAL RETURN of $400,000. This, it can easily be figured out, gives the syndicate members a profit of 263 per cent. Figure what that would be against your $500 or $5000, had you been in the syndicate!

The thought may arise that this is too much of a profit on land. It is NOT! It is really only an increase of 100 per cent on the original cost of the land. Any merchant that you deal with makes exactly the same increase over the price of the article to him. HE HAS TO DO THIS, or get out of business, for it is little enough to take care of his overhead, his sales costs, the interest on his buildings and money and the profit that is due him.

And when you consider that the subdivider must put hundreds of thousands of dollars into the deal, must organize a force of real salesmen, must work night and day to get his tract surveyed, recorded and sold, and all the other hundreds of details, he is NOT overpaid.

So have no fear that the profits are too big; accept them gladly—they are yours if you put up your money.

Here's Your Chance

Now then, you have been shown just WHAT a real estate syndicate is—an association of various people, from capitalists to brickmasons, in various amounts from $250 to $20,000—joined together to finance the sale of land in Los Angeles.

The next step is to acquaint you with an IMMEDIATE AND PRESENT OPPORTUNITY to get your share of this big money.

The F. W. Kraemer Co. has secured several hundred lots of the finest land between here and the sea. It is right in the great west side district where the better homes are going up by the thousands. It is right in the district where 500-odd lots were sold in five weeks by ONE subdivider recently. It is land for which a high price may be asked with all justice to both seller and buyer and it is land which is GOING TO INCREASE IN VALUE.

In fact, this subdivision is so good, as to location, price, etc., that ALREADY A LARGE PART OF THE LOTS HAVE BEEN RESERVED BY EAGER BUYERS AGAINST OUR OPENING DAY!

Quick Action Necessary

The syndicate is now open. It will be open only a very few days more. Members are coming in so fast that officials of The F. W. Kraemer Co. are staying in their offices until 9 and 10 o'clock at night giving out the details of this proposition.

If you have money that is going to earn you only six or seven per cent during the coming year, try making it double, triple or quadruple itself. It's easy, if you'll only GET OUT AND STUDY THE FIELD! The opportunities are here in Los Angeles—this Kraemer syndicate is one of them.

So this is what the headline at the top of this page means—"Some dollars contain 400 cents!" That is, you can make four hundred cents out of every hundred cents if you know how to do it. And the 107-cent dollars are simply dollars that you put out at the ordinary rates of interest and they earn you only seven cents a year.

Do Not Delay

TODAY—don't delay any longer than you can avoid—come into the Kraemer Co. offices and talk to one of the officials. Put it up to them to prove every claim in this advertisement—they can do it! Say: "I have $250 or $500 or $1000 or $5000 or more, that I want to work for me this year. Show me how to make more money."

If you can't get in this morning, phone for an appointment or send the handy coupon printed at the left for your covenience.

BEGIN 1924 right! Resolve that the end of the next few months will see you with more money in the bank than you ever had before, more by far than you have now. And in our earnest belief the quickest and best way in the world to do this is in Los Angeles real estate TODAY.

BACK IS BROKEN BY ASSAILANTS

Farmer Attacked, House Set on Fire, by Two Men

Drags Himself From Flames; Found by Neighbors

Victim Says Pair Asked of Wife's Whereabouts

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WARRENSBURG (Mo.) Jan. 29. Charles Marcum, a farmer living just east of the city, lies in a hospital here with his spine broken—broken, he says, by two men who bent him backward through force of physical strength.

There were four men in this heinous night attack, Marcum says, which left him maimed, and his home and barn in ashes from flames fed with oil by the assailants. Two horses perished in the fire.

FOUND BY NEIGHBORS

Marcum was found by neighbors in the front yard of his home at midnight last night, when they were attracted by flames bursting from the house and barn. Marcum lay limp. Physicians later found his spine broken.

The stricken man, from a cot in the hospital, offers as a possible motive the efforts of the four men to find the wife of Marcum, from whom he has been separated several months. The men first visited Marcum last October, he declares, when they forced an entrance to his home late at night and demanded the address of his wife. At that time, Marcum says, he told them she was in Davenport, Iowa, so far as he knew. The visitors, who said they were from Kansas City, issued a threat, according to Marcum, that if he had not told the truth they would return.

They returned the other night. Forcing open a door of the house, the assailants charged Marcum had lied about the whereabouts of his wife and announced their intention of killing him and burning the house.

SEIZED BY TWO MEN

At this point, Marcum says, two of the men seized him and bent him backward until he sank in a faint from pain. With their victim prostrate on the floor, oil was poured on the furniture and floors of the house and ignited.

His numbed senses revived, Marcum struggled desperately to avoid the flames and succeeded in dragging his stricken body into the yard, where he was found by the neighbors. As he emerged from the house, Marcum says, he heard his assailants leave in a motor car.

President of the San Diego Army and Navy Academy

Créese que la Toma de Esperanza Ha Sido un Golpe Decisivo

CIUDAD DE MEJICO, Enero 29. La confirmación que se tuvo hoy aquí de la toma de Esperanza por las fuerzas federales, ha provocado la afirmación de que con ese golpe se ha partido la espina dorsal de la revolución, y nada podrá ya detener el rápido avance de las tropas de Obregón rumbo a Veracruz, a lo largo del Ferrocarril Mejicano, que pertenece a súbditos ingleses. Con esa importante toma terminó una semana de éxitos extraordinarios para los federales, siendo este último el que se considera más importante en esa serie de victorias.

Los federales dominan ahora las cumbres de Acocotla, lo que virtualmente les asegura la capitulación de Orizaba, que es su próximo objetivo. Por informes fidedignos llegados esta mañana se sabe que los federales se apoderaron de diez locomotoras de montaña, de las que tenía Sánchez, el jefe rebelde, en Esperanza, así como de sesenta furgones cargados de material de guerra, y de dieciocho coches de viajeros.

NOTAS LOCALES

131 Detenidos en Raids Practicados en el Barrio Chino

El Capitán Plummer, jefe de la brigada del vicio, dijo ayer que había un complot para inundar los barrios de negocios y de residencias, que hay al este de la calle Main, de agentes de loterías chinas, en pugna con la policía. De allí que se realizara una serie de sensacionales raids que duraron más de veinticuatro horas, y que dieron por resultado la detención de mas de 100 personas acusadas de explotar loterías. Con este motivo, hubo gran muchedumbre de reos y defensores en las salas de juzgado de la Estación Central.

El Capitán Plummer hizo su declaración después de que se le había informado acerca de la determinación tomada por los dueños de loterías chinas, quienes han decidido pelear con la policía y se han negado a suspender su negocio de juego. Según dicen los agentes de policía, los sorteos se están haciendo ahora en Pasadena y en otros puntos de los alrededores, y algunos establecimientos de negocios, así como pequeñas casas habitación, sitos fuera del barrio chino, se han convertido en lugares de reunión para los jugadores de lotería.

DEPORTES

Carreras de Caballos

Los directores del Jockey Club de Sudcalifornia decidieron ayer tarde que continuarían las carreras en el hipódromo de Culver City, a lo menos por varios días más. Como la concurrencia de ayer llegó apenas a 300 personas, corrió el rumor de que iba a cerrarse el negocio. Ed Johnson, que es socio de Dick Ferris en esa empresa, se presentó en la pista al terminar la cuarta carrera, y anunció a los directores que él sostendría de su peculio el espectáculo por varios días más.

Basketball

Ligeras prácticas, con mucho reposo entre una y otra, será la orden de la semana para el equipo de basketball de la Universidad de Sudcalifornia, según lo expresó el instructor Leo Turner, cuyos Troyanos se portaron tan lucidamente en sus recientes contiendas contra California y Stanford, habiéndoles ganado un juego a cada una de estas últimas universidades.

Natación

Las aguas de la piscina natatoria del Club Atlético de Los Angeles, que se han conservado últimamente tranquilas y plácidas, van a agitarse esta noche hasta levantar grandes olas, pues el Duque Kahanamoku, Lee Jarvie, Tom Blake, Colin Smith, y una muchedumbre más de hábiles nadadores y bellas nadadoras, van a mostrarnos todo lo que saben.

Money-Making Machine Takes Life's Savings

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) Jan. 29.—The old money-making-machine gag has claimed another victim in St. Louis.

This time it is Benjamin Tycsynski, a butcher, who until recently had a life's savings of $7000.

Tycsynski told police he met an affable stranger who told him how to get rich quick, at the same time exhibiting a simple wooden contrivance.

"It makes money," the stranger is quoted as saying.

So Tycsynski got his $7000 out of the bank and took it to the man's room with the intention of going into the money-making business with him, he told police.

"The man offered me a cigarette," Tycsynski told police. "One puff and I didn't know anything else. When I woke up the man and my money were gone."

Spreckels Indorses Plea of T. P. Drummond

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 29.—Plans for the organization of at least 10,000 young men throughout California to take an active interest in civic and State affairs were formulated during a conference here of directors of the California Development Association. A resolution outlining the plan was the result of a suggestion by Thomas P. Drummond of the San Diego Junior Chamber of Commerce, and was indorsed by speakers following Drummond, and by the whole board in its vote.

"We of the Junior Chamber of Commerce," said Drummond, "are confronted with the problem of extending the work of the Junior Chamber through the cities of California. It has received the indorsement of the Chambers of Commerce of Los Angeles and Oakland, and other cities of the State are working on it.

TO UNITE NATION

"The outstanding purpose of the Junior Chamber of Commerce is to enlist the manpower of the nation between the ages of 18 and 30. There is work to be carried out in every community that requires enthusiasm which can best be supplied by the young man."

Support of the Junior Chamber idea was urged by Claus Spreckels, who seconded Drummond's remarks regarding enthusiasm of young men.

"I have been watching," he said, "the progressive spirit of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; it is a fact that it is the young spirit that keeps us moving. As we get older, we lose the young spirit and consequently become less enthusiastic and are content with our condition. If it were not for the work of the young man in the country, we would retrograde. It is evident that most of the inventions are created by the younger men. I believe in encouraging the younger men to bring up their ideas to start something. I think it is our duty to train the younger man to fall in line in his younger years, to see the workings of the city, to participate in the workings politically and otherwise which may be vital to a city."

MEETING IN FEBRUARY

The goal of 10,000 members of junior chambers in communities throughout California was set in the resolution of support, using San Diego's membership as a standard.

The regional conference of the western district advisory board of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, comprising the eleven western states, will be in San Diego February 22 and 23, drawing about fifty delegates from Los Angeles, as well as delegates from all western states.

Coast and Geodetic Survey
Tides, Los Angeles Harbor

Note—The following tabulation of the tides is compiled from the Pacific Coast Tide Tables of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey. The tides are arranged in the order of their occurrence, beginning with the first tide after midnight in the left-hand column. There are usually four tides, two high and two low, each day; but occasionally what would be the fourth tide occurs after midnight and thus becomes the first tide of the next day. The columns of heights give the elevation of each tide above the plane of reference of the Coast and Geodetic Survey chart soundings, except where the numbers are preceded by the minus sign, or dash, when the heights are below the plane. The tabulations are furnished by the Field Station of the Survey, Custom House, San Francisco, Cal.

Sunrise and sunset are computed for Los Angeles Harbor. Moonrise and moonset for Los Angeles.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 29.—Carrying more than $30,000 in currency and bullion, 3000 tons of cargo and fifty-two passengers, the Pacific Mail steamer Venezuela arrived today from New York. The treasure was brought from Central American ports.

The largest single shipment of sugar from the Hawaiian Islands this season, more than 11,000 tons, arrived aboard the Matson liner Maui. The vessel also carried 118 cabin and twenty-five intermediate passengers.

Shipping circles here are interested in the whereabouts of the 2000-ton schooner Escola, bound from Capetown, Africa, to Astoria, Wash. The vessel is many weeks overdue, having sailed from the African port August 27. Ordinarily not more than 110 days are required for the trip.

After a release from active service of two weeks, the first in 945 days of travel, the Los Angeles Steamship Company's liner Yale arrived here today to resume her run between this port and Los Angeles.

The steam schooner Johan Poulsen, minus the propeller she lost Monday night off Point Reyes, was towed into San Francisco Bay today by the lumber carrier Daisy Putnam.

ASTORIA (Or.) Jan. 29.—The steamer James B. Duke arrived from Portland this morning, and is taking on additional cargo for the Orient. She will probably sail tomorrow morning.

The steamer Norlina will shift to Portland tonight to complete her cargo for the Orient.

The rough seas outside, resulting from the gale along the coast and off the shore, delayed the departure of a number of steamers from the Columbia River, nine of them were anchored in the lower harbor all day. The Point Adams coast guard crew reported the sea was moderating this afternoon and the delayed vessels would probably cross out tonight.

PORTLAND, Jan. 29.—The Yamashita Company has chartered the steamer Reiyo Maru of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha fleet to load a full cargo of lumber and wheat here early next month. The Meigen Maru, also coming for the Yamashita Company, is expected Thursday to load 2000 tons of wheat and nearly 3,000,000 feet of lumber for Japan.

Opening the Nelson Steamship Company's coastal service between Portland, Coos Bay, Eureka and San Francisco, the steam schooner Nome City arrived. It will leave on the return trip Wednesday afternoon.

The steamer Monticello of the United American Lines fleet, moved to Kalama this morning to continue loading lumber for the Orient.

TACOMA, Jan. 29.—The Sagadahoc, which arrived this afternoon, had about 300 tons of general freight from the east coast.

The Dorothy Wintermote commenced loading lumber for Los Angeles.

The Tiverton, with general cargo from San Francisco, was in and out this morning. The Missourian is expected tomorrow from Atlantic Coast ports.

For the purpose of taking up matters of interest to the trade, the Puget Sound Tug Boat Owners' Association will meet here February 9. Members of the association from all parts of the Sound will attend.

To load at the Tacoma smelter, the Sidney M. Hauptman is due here tomorrow morning. The vessel is reported to have much freight to load for Atlantic Coast ports.

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Jan. 29.—The Pacific Steamship Company's steamer Admiral Sebree will sail from here tomorrow with a large shipment of canned salmon for Chile, via San Francisco.

The barkentine Janet Dollar of the Canadian Robert Dollar Company was expected to sail from here tonight with a cargo of lumber for the Orient.

VICTORIA (B. C.) Jan. 29.—With 5000 tons of cargo, including $3,000,000 worth of raw silk, the Blue Funnel steamship Philoctetes arrived here today from the Orient. On her outward trip the vessel ran into bad weather three days from Yokohama, according to her captain. During the storm a huge sea broke over the forecastle head and carried away the flying bridge on the starboard side, where the compass was located, and all woodwork on the starboard side of the bridge, the captain said. Repairs were made at Hongkong, when the vessel was dry docked for overhauling.

EVERETT, Jan. 29.—The Luckenbach Line freighter Robert Luckenbach sailed from a local timber company's dock here for the east coast, taking a part cargo of 1,650,000 feet of lumber.

The Admiral Sebree of the Admiral Line called at a local pier today. After discharging and loading 15 and eighty-five tons of general cargo, respectively, the vessel sailed for Seattle.

SEATTLE, Jan. 29.—Twenty-five hundred bales of silk were included in the cargo of the British steamship Philoctetes when it reached here today from oriental ports.

The Blue Funnel Line steamship Achilles, which has been in port or around Puget Sound for the past two weeks, is scheduled to sail Thursday morning. The Achilles is a sister ship to the Philoctetes.

The Argonaut Line steamship Sagadahoc, after shifting to Tacoma today, will return here Thursday to load cargo for the Pan-Pacific Line for the west coast of South America.

After a voyage from Balboa, Panama Canal Zone, where she was purchased by the Alaska Steamship Company from the Panama Railroad Steamship Company, the passenger liner Colon will steam into this port Friday morning, according to advices received today.

The vessel will undergo extensive alterations to her passenger accommodations before going into commission as a passenger and freight liner operating from Seattle to ports in Southeastern and Southwestern Alaska this summer. She will be rechristened. The new name will probably be the Yukon.

The ship is a twin screw steamship, 374 ft. long and 50 ft. beam, with a double bottom, and can maintain a speed of 15 knots.

PORT NOTES

Los Angeles' growing trade with the Orient took another forward stride yesterday when the Struthers & Barry steamer West Ivan departed with one of the largest cargoes ever leaving a Pacific port, for China and Japan. The entire below-deck cargo was from Los Angeles, comprising 60,000 cases of gasoline, 12,000 cases of sardines, 2000 tons of general cargo and construction materials, autos and trucks, nearly all of which, even to the autos, was manufactured here. Above decks the steamer carried San Francisco cargo, including 396,107 feet of Port Orford cedar logs for Kobe, and four thoroughbred Holstein heifers for the Canton Christian College and the Nosawa Company at Kobe.

The steamer Makiki was unloading 3587 tons of steel and general cargo from New York, Boston and Philadelphia yesterday, after a perilous trip, during which her steering gear became unmanageable, and she tossed and pitched almost forty-five degrees during a storm off the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. The cargo, however, was undamaged, including a number of extremely heavy pieces, such as five five-ton boilers and six fourteen ingots, all for local consumers. The Makiki is on her first trip out here, after an idleness of two years on the Atlantic. She recently was purchased by the Matson Navigation Company and chartered by the Williams Line for one trip. On arrival at Seattle, she will be turned over to the Matson Line to ply in the trade between San Francisco and the Hawaiian Islands. Capt. C. A. Berntson commands her.

Although the new truck boulevard from Los Angeles to Terminal Island was opened Sunday, formal opening and celebration of the event will be observed Saturday by Wilmington, Davidson City and Compton. Parades will be held by the chambers of commerce of each city, and after a tour of the new highway, a barbecue will be held at Davidson City. There the fatted calf will be carved, and prune juice and cocoanuts served while the Wilmington Deep Sea Divers band and the Compton musicians will disport. Mayor Cryer, George Jones, roads commissioner, and Los Angeles Harbor Commissioners will participate. The new million-dollar double bascule bridge over which the truck boulevard passes to Terminal Island is already in temporary use eight hours daily. The new highway is said to have relieved a large amount of congestion of truck hauling between the port and the mother city.

The Danish motorship Australian, here for the first time yesterday, reports the injury of two seamen, one perhaps fatally, in a storm on the North Atlantic en route here. One man suffered a broken back and was left in the hospital at St. Thomas.

The United States cable-laying steamer Dellwood, which is on her way to London to obtain a cargo of specially constructed cable, arrived in port last night from Seattle for bunkers.

The British steamer Tritonia from Cardiff, which is to enter the lumber trade temporarily between British Columbia and Japan, is scheduled to arrive in port today to discharge freight and take on fuel.

NEW YORK HARKS BACK TO CONVENTION OF 1868

City Comparatively Small When Democrats Met There Before; Horatio Seymour Named

BY RAYMOND G. CARROLL
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
[Copyright, 1924, Public Ledger.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—The last time the Democrats had their national convention in New York City—that event being the christening of the ungainly red brick structure in Fourteenth street known far and wide as Tammany Hall, or the Wigwam—the population of the area now comprised in the greater city was less than 1,500,000, or one-fourth its present inhabitants.

The building was decorated with flags and banners, flowers and evergreens wrought and interlaced into patriotic emblems and mottoes. August Belmont, father of the living banker of that name, opened the convention, which subsequently nominated Horatio Seymour, Democratic Presidential candidate, and Francis P. Blair, Jr., for the Vice-Presidency.

But Seymour and Blair carried only eight States (including New York, New Jersey and Oregon) and received only eighty electoral votes, to 214 for Grant and Colfax, the Republican team, in the November election of 1868.

Looking at the weather-beaten front of Tammany Hall today, it is hard to realize that it was once considered an architectural beauty. "I welcome you to this magnificent temple erected to the Goddess of Liberty by her staunchest defenders and most fervent worshipers," said Mr. Belmont to the 320-odd delegates before him at 12:15 p.m. on July, 4, 1868, adding: "I welcome you to this good city of New York, the bulwark of Democracy."

TWEED TAKES CHANGE

Poor Mr. Belmont! Little did he know that within twenty-four months Tammany would become the abject political servant of William Mary (Old Bill) Tweed, who used his popularity as a volunteer fireman to advance himself in Tammany and who was the first "Boss" of the organization, which had formerly been controlled by committees.

Tweed in April, 1868, obtained the passage of a City Charter, which put the control of the city into the hands of the Mayor, the Comptroller and the Commissioners of Parks and Public Works. A system of official plunder then began which has had few parallels in modern times.

How much was actually stolen can never be known, but the bonded debt of the city, which was $36,000,000 at the beginning of 1869, had jumped to $97,000,000 by the autumn of 1871, an increase of $61,000,000, and within the same period a floating debt of $20,000,000 was incurred, making a total Tweed outspread of $81,000,000.

The method of plunder was the presentation of excessive bills for work done. The bills were ostensibly paid in full, but in reality only in part, the rest being retained by Tweed and divided among his followers in proportion to their importance. The end of the harvest came through a petty quarrel over the division of the spoils.

Samuel J. Tilden, a great lawyer and Democratic statesman, heading the better classes of the city, uncrowned Czar Tweed and sent that master plunderer to jail, where he died.

CITY IS PICTURED

Let us picture the New York that the Democratic delegates found fifty-six years ago. Madison Square Garden was not built until 1890. The population of Manhatten Island was 900,000, with Brooklyn, then a separate city, 400,000.

Broadway and Fulton street was the most congested crossing of the city, for here all the old stage lines and trucks, in their endeavor to reach the ferries east, west and south, would lock wheels and remain so for hours, each refusing to give way to the other.

Having no traffic regulations, pedestrians were compelled to go a block north or south to make a crossing.

CENTRAL PARK YOUNG

Central Park was only ten years old when the Democratic delegates who nominated Seymour came to town, and it was considered the most beautiful playground for the people on the Western Hemisphere.

Theodore Thomas, the orchestra leader, had just opened his Central Park Garden in Fifty-ninth street facing the park with a concert hall seating 2000, where his musicians played daily.

The amusements playing at the New York theaters for that almost-forgotten "Convention Week" were:

"The White Fawn," an extravaganza similar to the "Black Crook" with "The Can-Can Ballet" at Niblo's Garden, Broadway near Prince street.

"The Lottery of Life," a dramatic satire at Wallack's, Broadway corner of Thirteenth street.

"Humpty Dumpty," a pantomime, at the Olympic, Broadway near Houston street.

"The Grand Duches of Gerolstein," an opera bouffe, with the three Worrell sisters, at the New York Theater, 728 Broadway.

"A Flash of Lightning," a local melodrama, at the Broadway Theater, near Broome street.

"The Fast Woman of Modern Times," with Miss Fanny Herring playing six characters, at the Bowery Theater.

WHAT WAS HAPPENING

Lackawanna coal was being retailed at $5.50 a ton, screened and delivered by the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company.

Jay Cooke & Co. and Henry Clews & Co. were the leading private bankers of Wall street, there were only fourteen stocks traded in on the New York Stock Exchange.

Savings banks paid 6 per cent interest on accounts from $5 to $5000.

A good dinner could be had at any of the leading hotels for $1.

The principal hotels were the Astor House Fifth avenue, St. Nicholas, Ashburton House, Reunion, Globe and New England.

The best-seller of the hour was "Dead Sea Fruit," by Miss M. E. Braddon and published by Harper & Bros. "Josh Billings on Ice" was a popular favorite.

The Evening Post was the largest newspaper in captivity, ten columns wide.

Women wore bonnets, bustles and basques.

Racing was an occasional pastime at Fashion Course, L. I.

Baseball was given less than a quarter of a column daily, without box scores.

Rapid transit was all talk—there were neither elevated lines nor subway, only a few horse-car lines and stages.

Flats and apartments were undreamed of.

The old "bunk game" was going, as evidenced by this business opportunity: "Partner wanted to invest $3000 capital in a sure enterprise whereby $100,000 can be realized."

A first-cabin ticket to London cost from $75 to $100.

The Trinity Church chimes program was an item for the musical column.

John R. Voorhis, New York's venerable Election Board official and Tammany sachem, remembers all that. He was 39 years of age, when Seymour was nominated in Tammany Hall. In five years Mr. Voorhis will be 100 years old, for he was born July 27, 1829.

SHIP SHETLAND AND HACKNEY PONIES HERE

Some of the finest Shetland and Hackney ponies ever bred in the United States will be shown at the coming Third Annual Los Angeles Horse Show, which opens on February 25 for one week of stirring exhibitions, according to the program arranged by the directors of the big annual event to be held at the arena on the Hotel Ambassador grounds. The keen interest in these two popular classes promises to bring three well-known millionaires from various parts of the country—one from Illinois, another from Seattle and a third from Los Angeles—into a series of tanbark tests to decide the supremacy which each claims for his respective animals.

WEAK-MINDED TO HAVE OWN SCHOOL

JAPANESE HAS INSTRUMENT SAID TO OVERCOME MENTAL DEFECTS

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TOKIO, Jan. 29.—The first Japanese educational institution for weak-minded children, on the segregation basis, has just been established in Ibaraki prefecture, and is known as the Tsukuba Karuin. The founder and principal is Toyoshiro Okano, educator, who devoted several years to the study of a system whereby the mentally deficient can be given a fair education. In the course of his investigations he formed a theory that a lack of correct ideas about color, shape and the relation of numbers forming the basis of mathematical ideas was the principal cause of weakmindedness, and from this theory he invented, some years ago, a special instrument with which to prevent such mental defect from becoming aggravated, and ultimately curing it.

The instrument has been patented and is now widely used in elementary schools throughout the country. This will be the first time, however, that mentally defective children will be segregated, and an attempt made to educate them.

The school is located at the foot of Mt. Tsukuba, with abundant scenic charms, which Mr. Okana declares are indispensable to the education of weak-minded children.

FIRST SESSION OF CONVENTION

Paul Shoup Opens Chamber of Commerce Meeting

National Body Not Disturbed by Propaganda

Has Good Word for Secretary Mellon's Tax Plan

"The United States Chamber of Commerce is not the voice of the dollar, but looks upon the dollar as an instrument that should be kept usefully at work and neither allowed to lie idle nor to be wasted in fruitless activity," yesterday said Paul Shoup, vice-president of the Southern Pacific Company and acting regional vice-president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, in opening the first Western Regional Conference of the organization in San Francisco.

Mr. Shoup said that "the United States Chamber of Commerce is a national organization representing the business interests of the country and is the voice of several million of our business people in national affairs. It deals only with national questions," he said, "and every commercial organization in any community, whether large or small, has a direct voice in determining the policy of the national chamber. The national chamber," he pointed out, "through its referendum policy, places systematically and concisely before each local body the facts on both sides pertaining to any question before registering its decision.

"The United States Chamber of Commerce," he continued, "looks underneath all the propaganda of the parlor plotters. It looks underneath the recital of wrongs of the soap-box orators. It goes indeed beneath the surface in considering all of these activities that place the division of wealth as their primary object rather than the creation of wealth. It finds there busily employed the great mass of the American people, sober, steadfast, thrifty, each in his own way caring for himself and his own fireside, meeting the obligations of service of his community and his country cheerfully, accepting the vicissitudes of fortune and without public voice according to the opportunity given him, living up to the ideals of any American citizen.

CONSTRUCTIVE IDEALS

"It finds in this bulwark of this nation, the 9,619,000 savings bank depositors in the United States, the 2,000,000 stockholders of the railroads, steam and electric, the 7,000,000 people who make income tax returns, the 71,000,000 people that in one form or another carry life insurance and who are vitally interested in the stability of the investments of these companies. It finds among these people the individual productive thought and the constructive energy of our country, coupled with the ideals that lead to greatness, and to this thought and to these ideals the United States Chamber of Commerce gives all the service at its command.

"At the request of members the subjects of transportation, co-operative marketing, taxation, foreign trade and immigration will be considered during the two-days' session," Mr. Shoup said, "and other subjects may be introduced from the floor."

PROBLEMS OF THE WEST

Discussing these problems, Mr. Shoup said: "The problems involved in transportation and more important to the West than to any other section, for its products move the greatest distances to market. That our transportation system should serve with great efficiency is most important not only because of these distances but because of the perishable nature of a large part of our products. This system must be kept efficient, it must continue to move, for example, the fruits of the Pacific Coast States over the high passes of our two greatest mountain systems, across long distances of as yet unredeemed deserts and high plateaus, and distributing among the 90,000,000 people that live beyond with such efficiency in service that the pear or peach or apple or grape or orange may have all the bloom, the full flavor and all the freshness when served at the breakfast table that it had when taken from the tree or vine 3000 miles away.

"Co-operative marketing in a large way is a product of the West; here in California has been its greatest demonstration. And it is particularly fitting that its problems be considered here in the light of experience.

"Taxation is the most important question before the American people today.

"Surely our country will appreciate the necessity of taking advantage of the opportunity strongly presented in a systematic and businesslike way by Secretary Mellon for reduction of these burdens. I hope that a conclusion may be speedily reached that will release as many possible of these dollars to the end they be diverted to useful and constructive work."

DAILY TRADE TALK

Outguessing the Banker; Passenger Traffic Decline; Big Mine May Shut Down; Canned Reindeer

The career of a couple of check artists came to a sudden end the other day via the protective department of the Bankers' Association. This is the way they worked: One of the team presented a counter check on the bank for $75.60 with a deposit slip made out for $20.60 together with a second deposit slip for $3 accompanied by the cash. He said he wanted to deposit the $3 in cash and $20.60 out of the check to the credit of his wife, explaining that he had forgotten to bring her book, but would return with it later. His cash and check were accepted, totaling $78.60, with the two deposit slips totaling $23.60, and he was given $55 in change. The prisoners admitted their guilt and in their rooms a large number of checks, deposit slips and pass books were found. They boasted that the game had been very profitable for a year, their operations extending over the country. A lavish display of rich clothing attested to the easy money market.

Another "slicker" game of a little more high-brow character is reported by the Investment Bankers' Association of America. Bondhouses are called from a well-known hotel or other respectable address with a request that a salesman be sent to see the caller, who says he has some money to invest. To the salesman he gives an order for a few thousand dollars worth of bonds, always including some Liberties.

In due course the bonds are delivered. The "buyer" claims that the Liberty bonds he was purchasing for his sister, and that through a misunderstanding they are not the issue she wanted. He then goes into an adjoining room, taking the bonds with him, for the purpose of a consultation. He leaves the second room by another door, and is well on his way before the messenger discovers the hoax.

FEWER TRAVELERS

The onward march of the automotive development is revealed again in railroad traffic figures. Fewer revenue passengers were carried by the roads in this country in 1922 than in 1913 although the population increased more than 13 per cent. There was a slight gain in 1923, but not enough to indicate that the general trend had been definitely reversed, according to a study made by the Standard Statistics Company of New York.

Notwithstanding the striking decrease in the number of passengers carried, the total revenue for passenger traffic has increased substantially. This gain is to be accounted for by two factors, namely, higher fares and an increase in the average journey per passenger. The average revenue per passenger increased from 68.9 cents in 1913 to $1.11 in 1922—a gain of 61 per cent. The average journey per passenger in 1913 was 34.44 miles, while in 1922 it was 36.67 miles, an increase of 6.5 per cent.

By far the most important factor contributing to the decline in the number of passengers carried is the rapid increase in the ownership of automobiles and the development of organized motor-bus lines. Both pleasure and commercial motor passenger vehicles have made heavy inroads upon the short-haul railroad passenger traffic.

Of secondary importance, higher fares and the use of the long distance telephone may be mentioned as exerting some measure of influence in the decline in volume of passenger traffic.

CREDIT SITUATION

The Credit Clearing House weekly report shows that the marked revival of purchasing, which began with the new year, continues unabated. The increase for the country as a whole is equal to 3.6 per cent.

To this continued activity all six sections contribute, and in four sections the increase is really remarkable. These are: The Pacific Coast, with a percentage increase of 5.8; the North Agricultural, with a percentage increase of 5.2; the Middle Agricultural with a percentage increase of 5, and the South Agricultural, with a percentage increase of 5.4. The East section shows an increase of 2 per cent, the Mountain Section has the smallest increase, equal to 1.4 per cent.

Collections continue fair throughout the country, though there is still a slight lag in the Middle and South agricultural sections.

In the Pacific Coast section, purchasing has greatly increased in California, has slightly increased in Washington, and has decreased in Oregon.

MORTGAGE BONDS

The First Securities Company is offering $627,500 Limoneira Company first mortgage 6 per cent bonds maturing serially 1934 to 1940 at prices to yield 6½ per cent.

The Limoneira Company has been engaged for some time in the development and culture of citrus and walnut groves, operating one of the largest lemon enterprises in California. Its properties, comprising about 3438 acres, are located in two tracts five and ten miles distant from Santa Paula, Ventura county, in one of the most favorably situated valleys for citrus and walnut culture in Southern California.

The bonds offered for sale to the public constitute the only funded debt of the company in the opinion of counsel and are a first closed mortgage on the properties of the company included in the deed of trust totaling 3438 acres, together with all buildings, equipment and improvements thereon, and also by the deposit with the trustee of the capital stocks owned in the Therman Belt Water Company and the Farmers' Irrigation Company.

The purpose of the issue is to provide funds for the development of an additional 546-acre tract recently acquired and which is to be planted to citrus groves.

BANK APPOINTMENTS

Frank R. Alvord, who was made cashier of the Citizens' National Bank at the January meeting has assumed his new duties as the successor to H. D. Ivey, now vice-president. Mr. Alvord entered the employ of the American National Bank, which was consolidated with the Citizens' National, in 1909, and worked up to the position of assistant cashier in 1918. He is president of the Los Angeles chapter of the American Institute of Banking, composed of 2000 bank workers in this city.

On February 1, Edward R. Miller becomes assistant vice-president of the Citizens' National. He resigned recently from the Hellman Bank, where for twelve years he had been assistant cashier and since 1919 acted as chief examiner of all branches. Previously, he had been connected with the First National Bank of this city and the Citizens' Savings Bank at Long Beach.

INTERIOR DEPARTMENT

Canned reindeer may be a delicacy soon available for Los Angeles tables. Reindeer steak is a staple food of the Northlanders and there are so many of the animals wandering over the Kamchatka Peninsula that Consul G. C. Hanson, of Harbin, China, has called the attention of the Department of Commerce to their availability for canning. The natives do not sell reindeer for money because of their religious belief, but they willingly exchange the animals for merchandise and provisions.

MINE SHUTDOWN FEARED

Arizona mining circles are much perturbed over the possibility of the Ray Consolidated suspending operations in the event of a merger with the Chino Copper Company which is to be determined at a stockholders meeting scheduled for February 15. The merger is proposed to cut overhead expense by fully operating one property instead of partially operating both. Bullion and freight costs are said to slightly favor the Chino mine which is in Southwestern New Mexico on the Silver City line of the Santa Fe system. Ray has its own railroad to Kelvin, on the Arizona Eastern branch of the Southern Pacific.

TIPS FOR TAXPAYERS

No. 20

Misunderstanding of the provisions of the Revenue Act relating to personal expenditures is indicated in the return of many taxpayers. Claims are made for deductions of house rent, car fare to and from the taxpayer's place of business, amounts spent in improvement of the taxpayer's dwelling and similar items. All these are personal or living expenses, deduction of which from gross income is expressly disallowed by the statute.

A physician who maintains an office in a rented home may deduct the proportion of such rent properly chargeable to the portion used for professional purposes. If, however, he maintains an office elsewhere and incidentally receives patients at his home, he is not entitled to deduct any part of his rent for his residence as a business expense.

If a physician owns the home or building in which his office is located no deduction for rent is allowed unless the amount of rent claimed is reported by him as income. The reason is that money paid as rent becomes income to some one, and in this instance the physician is that person. However, a professional man who maintains an office in a home or building owned by him may deduct as a business expense a proportional part of the amount properly chargeable to the use of such offices for heat, light, insurance, repairs, depreciation, etc., which he may not deduct on that part of the house used as a residence.

Other deductions not infrequently claimed by taxpayers, but disallowed by the Revenue Act as "family or living expenses," are amounts spent for food, clothing and education of children, hire of domestic servants and similar items for the upkeep of a home.

NEW YORK CURB

Reaction Occurs

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Speculators for the decline, aided by a heavy volume of profit-taking in various sections of the list, brought about a further reaction of prices in today's curb market.

Oils yielded steadily to selling pressure, particularly the high-priced issues, Prairie Oil and Gas, and Standard Oil of Nebraska touching new lows. Net losses of 1 to 3 points were recorded by Standard Oil of Kentucky, Solar Refining, South Penn Oil, Magnolia Petroleum, Buckeye Pipe, Cumberland Pipe, and Imperial of Canada. Ford motors of Canada advanced 3 points to 470, as against last year's low of 392, but it slipped back to 467 at the close. Durant motors was heavy. Radio stocks were again in supply on selling, apparently inspired by the Federal Trade Commission's complaint of a radio monopoly.

Following are the closing quotations on the New York Curb market. Furnished by Logan & Bryan, members of the New York Stock Exchange, 636 South Spring street.

METAL MARKETS

Daily Review

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CLEVELAND, Jan. 29.—Daily Metal Trade today says: "The pig iron market is stiffening with the appearance of greater interest by smelters. One producer today announced 22.50 for basic and 24.00 for Bessemer, effective February 1. Steel inquiry covering freight car requirements indicates railroads have placed far more orders in the Chicago district than have been announced, approximately 80,000 tons of plates, sheets and bars being required for cars now before car builders there. Tin plate orders also continue to accumulate and operations are at a high rate. Valley sheet mills are well-booked ahead, and while some makers report a slight let-up in orders, others note a broadening trend and prices well maintained. Sheet bar tonnage on books is heavy. Metals generally are quiet, with electrolytic copper at 12.75. Tin, spot, straits, 48.50. Zinc, St. Louis, 6.50; lead, St. Louis, 8.12½."

THESE BONDS ARE OFFERED SUBJECT TO THEIR BEING CERTIFIED AS A LEGAL INVESTMENT FOR SAVINGS BANKS IN CALIFORNIA

Attention is directed to the following salient features of this issue as summarized from a letter of Mr. C. C. Teague, President of the Company:

COMPANY AND PROPERTY The Limoneira Company, a California corporation, was organized in 1893. It is engaged in the development and culture of citrus and walnut groves, operating one of the best-known and most successful lemon enterprises in California. Its properties are located about five and ten miles from the City of Santa Paula, Ventura County, California, in one of the most favorably situated valleys for citrus and walnut culture in Southern California. Its total holdings approximate 3,438 acres.

The properties of the Company are amply supplied with irrigation water by the Thermal Belt Water Company and the Farmers Irrigation Company, both of which companies are controlled by the Limoneira Company through stock ownership. The properties are well supplied with packing houses and equipment necessary for the efficient handling of its products. The lemon orchards are adequately protected from freezes and are ideally situated climatically from the standpoint of production.

The present production from full bearing lemon groves is 360 packed boxes per acre, compared with an average industry production of 200 boxes; and a production of 1,980 pounds of walnuts per acre compared with an industry average of 900 pounds. The Company has received a premium over the average price per box received by the lemon industry for the past ten years of 56 cents, which amounts to $132,716 per year on its present production of 236,992 boxes.

The Company is a member of the California Fruit Growers Exchange and California Walnut Growers Association, and uses these agencies in the marketing of its lemons and walnuts.

SECURITY AND VALUATION This issue of bonds constitutes the only funded debt of the Company and is secured, in the opinion of counsel, by a first closed mortgage on the properties of the Company included in the deed of trust totalling 3438 acres, together with all buildings, equipment and improvements thereon; and also by the deposit with the Trustee of the capital stocks owned in the Thermal Belt Water Company and the Farmers Irrigation Company.

The properties covered by this bond issue have been appraised by Mr. Roger G. Edwards of Santa Paula at $3,627,183.85, or more than 3½ times the total authorized issue. After giving effect to this financing, the value of the properties will be $4,000,000, based upon Mr. Edwards' appraisement.

EARNINGS The net earnings of the Company for the past ten years have averaged $275,694 annually, or more than 4½ times the annual interest charges on the total authorized issue and more than seven times the annual interest charges on all the present outstanding bonds.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE The purpose of the present issue is to provide funds for the development of the 546 acre tract recently acquired and which is to be planted to citrus orchards.

LEGALITY AND TITLES All legal proceedings relating to the issuance of these bonds have been approved by Messrs. Farrand & Slosson, Attorneys-at-Law, Los Angeles.

Certificate of title covering the title to the real properties mortgaged and the lien of the trust indenture will be issued by the Ventura Abstract Company.

Bondholders Policy of Title Insurance in the amount of $1,000,000 will be issued by the Title Insurance & Trust Company, Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

All trading on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday was subordinated to the market action of Globe Petroleum and Los Angeles Investment. Globe renewed its antics of more than a week ago with approximately 180,000 shares participating in an advance that took the price up 4 1-2 cents to a final quotation of 20 1-2, or 1-2 cent below the high for the day of 21.

Additional evidence of the favorable 1923 earnings of the Los Angeles Investment Company was found in the strong buying that again pushed the stock into new high ground at 2.20. The final price was 2.18 1-2, a gain over the previous session of 3 1-2 cents.

Oils were generally strong, Shell Union advancing 1-8 to 18 1-2 and United Oil going to 28. Standard Oil of California was unchanged at 68, while Union Oil Associates reacted 3-4 of a point to 52 1-2 at the finish.

In the mining group, Lucky Boy slumped to 2 1-2 cents and Tom Reed lost 1-2 cent at 46. Oatman United sold at 7 cents.

Bond trading was active in the public utilities. Los Angeles Gas 7s of 1931 sold up 1-2 point to 103 3-4, and Pacific Gas 6s of 1941 were unchanged at 101 1-2. The 7s of 1940 were up 1-8 at 107 1-8 and San Joaquin 7s of 1951 advanced 1-2 point to 104.

The Merry Imp of the Types

What a difference the change of a letter makes! The most humorous misprint we can remember is this one, which went the rounds several years ago: "The doctor felt the patient's purse and decided there was no hope." A very good second to this has just been found in an English newspaper: "Wanted, a general servant to do the work of a small horse."—[Boston Transcript.

Over Fifteen Billion Dollars Invested in Public Utilities

MORE than fifteen billion dollars ($15,000,000,000) is invested in the public utilities of this country—over four times as much as in the steel business, over eight times as much as in the automobile business, over ten times as much as in the meat packing industry.

This gives some idea of the importance to the nation of the electric power and light, gas, telephone and other public service corporations. Perhaps a better idea can be had by imagining what this country would be like without public service corporations. Suppose for a moment that we had to transact business without the telephone, cook without gas, read without electric light, or go from our home to our business without trolley cars, elevated or subway trains.

These public utilities are public necessities and for that reason are on a peculiarly stable foundation as business enterprises. When properly managed and located in prosperous and growing communities their earnings increase steadily year by year with little if any variations. Bonds of well managed public service corporations, investigated and approved by a responsible banking house, are safe investments.

For over forty years we have supplied money to develop public utilities all over the United States and Canada. On the Pacific Coast, we have helped furnish millions of dollars to such properties as the Southern California Edison Company, Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, Sierra and San Francisco Power Company, California-Oregon Power Company, San Diego Consolidated Gas and Electric Company, Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, Seattle Lighting Company, Puget Sound Power and Light Company, Portland Gas and Coke Company, Northwestern Electric Company and many others. As a result of our experience we believe in the great future of the Pacific Coast.

MARKET REVIEW

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—On the whole today's stock market was inclined to further downward reaction; despite increasing support in the later trading, the day ended with a considerable number of 1 and 2-point declines, and few advances of more than a fraction occurred in any important shares. There was evidence all day, however, of a clash of activities between professional speculators for the fall and for the rise, and the market frequently changed its aspect momentarily during the day. The large earnings of the United States Steel Corporation for the December quarter and the increase of the company's extra dividend rate, were not announced until after the stock exchange had closed.

The preceding day's recovery of sterling and the franc did not continue. At London, before New York had begun business, sterling sold at 4.27 the highest since the 11th inst. but the New York closing rate was fractionally under Monday's. Francs did not rise at any time above the preceding day's price, and at London and Paris they declined in sterling values.

Considered by itself, the United States Steel Corporation's report for the fourth quarter of 1923 is a very remarkable showing. Net earnings in the three months were the largest of any quarterly period since the war; in one month (last October) more was earned than in any other month since June, 1918, when pressure of war orders was at its maximum. When considered as a sidelight on the existing industrial position, however, the statement needs to be studied more carefully. Under the system of quarter "forward orders" it is always possible that a company's current earnings may reflect, not actual present trade conditions, but those of three to six months before. In the autumn of 1920, for instance, sweeping reaction in trade was under way, yet the steel corporation's October earnings were much the largest of the year. They reflected the "unfilled orders" of July, which had never been exceeded in magnitude except in the middle of 1917. Similarly, the earnings of last October must largely reflect the unfilled orders of last spring and early summer, which reached the highest point since 1920.

List Heads Upward

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Reactionary tendencies prevailed during the greater part of today's stock market but the general list was headed upwards toward the close under the leadership of American Can which touched 119 1-4, the highest price ever recorded. Last-minute profit-taking sent the price back to 117 3-8. Both industrial and railroad averages showed slight losses on the day with sales again running well over the million mark.

Declaration of an extra dividend of 50 cents on the common stock of the United States Steel Corporation compared with an extra 25 cents the last quarter, was not announced until after the market closed. Total earnings of the corporation in the last quarter of 1923, which amounted to nearly $50,000,000, exceeded earlier estimates.

Strength of Erie common, which touched 27 1-4, the highest price since 1917, featured the railroad list. Great Northern preferred improved fractionally.

Erratic fluctuation took place in a number of the high-priced specialties which market observers found hard to explain.

Chemical shares made good recovery from recent heaviness. Domestic oils, which have been somewhat adversely affected by the testimony before the Senate committee investigating naval oil reserve leases, displayed a firm undertone. Houston closed 1 5-8 higher and Pacific touched 56 1-4, the highest since 1922.

Some of the other strong spots were United States Alcohol, which has been heavily bought on speculative expectation of a resumption of dividends; Omaha, which advanced 4⅛ points on rumors of a possible merger with Chicago and Northwestern, and Sears-Roebuck.

Call money ruled unchanged at 4 1-4 per cent, the higher renewal rate being attributed to month-end requirements. Time money was quoted at 4½ to 4 3-4 with little business transacted. Commercial paper was unchanged, prime names commanding 4 3-4.

Settlement of the British railroad strike caused further strengthening of sterling exchange, demand bills being quoted a cent higher at $4.26. Other European rates improved in sympathy.

Total stock sales 1,154,000 shares. Twenty industrials averaged 99.76; net loss .17. High 1923, 105.38; low 85.76. Twenty railroads averaged 84.72; net loss .24. High 1923, 90.51; low 79.53.

An Established Income

It is important for investments to be made where an established income is assured. Good bonds continue to earn the same income year after year. A decline in rents or a decrease in the cost of living does not affect the income which they produce. It remains the same—so the purchasing power of your investment is increased.

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—Whatever may be the view elsewhere there is no illusion among business men and bankers in Chicago about conditions in the Northwest. They know and have known for a long time what the conditions are and whither they were leading. The banks in Chicago, with long lists of country correspondents, have been face to face with the situation. They have extended help wherever it could be effectively done. Their representatives have gone through the assets of failed and failing banks and they have taken their losses.

The banks in Minneapolis and St. Paul have followed the same course and the reserve board of Minneapolis has given the whole question close investigation and acted whenever it could without violating the law or the priciples of sound banking.

To those familiar with the conditions in the Dakotas and the neighboring States the problem is no longer one of banking. In his recent communication to Congress President Coolidge showed some familiarity with the conditions and more familiarity with the limitations that any relef plan must also recognize. He said, for instance:

"In those agricultural sections in which numerous bank failures have contributed to the distressful conditions it must be recognized however that there is a limit to the scope of the assistance which the Federal government can render. The government cannot supply banking capital nor can it organize loan companies, but it can properly call upon those large business concerns, the railroads, and other establishments, the agricultural supply houses and all those large business establishments whose welfare is immediately concerned with the welfare of the farmer."

The government not only can call on them but it has done so. And whatever plan that may be evolved by the conference it must be one that calls for the supplying of capital.

If there were any way of giving relief by the extension of credit it would have been done already. But credit has been extended to the limit and beyond. Nothing remains which can be taken as the basis of credit. The demand is therefore for capital. The capital investment may be made by nonresidents prompted by either charitable or selfish motives. This would be expeditious relief. Or it can be supplied by the residents of the distressed districts to the extent of their ability. In any event the residents will have to repay or earn out the capital by productive effort. The latter process, which also affects the other, will take time and no one knows how much.

The "distressed districts" are in comparatively new and by no means developed country. The country has great sources in fertility of soil and some other natural resources. It is inhabited by hardy and hard-working farmers who, like all pioneers, have been trying for the largest, easiest and most immediate returns from their lands. All the teachings of American experience are that such conditions form the basis for a venture by capital and the promise of ample rewards.

It has become apparent, however, that farming, as now conducted in these so-called spring-wheat States, is unusually hazardous. In Montana, for instance, the farmers think a full wheat crop once in three years is a good average. If once in five years they get the happy combination of a large crop and a good market, their profits are large. These hazards were long ago effective to cause changes of farming methods in Minnesota, which is hardly entitled to classification as a consequential producer of wheat. Minnesota now produces nearly ten times as much corn as wheat, in bushels. Corn, in its diversity of uses, is a much safer and more stable crop than wheat. Minnesota has also found flax a safe crop. South Dakota people grow indignant if they are classed as wheat growers. They have turned to corn. Undoubtedly the diversification may be extended in both States, but what form it should take in Montana, for instance, is a question which the agricultural experts may have answered, but they have not made their answer impressive.

The question of crop diversification was referred to by President Coolidge, but the answer cannot be found in one season. The development of agricultural opportunities, like that of anything else, is a slow process. Why tobacco is successfully grown in Connecticut and Wisconsin; why celery comes from Kalamazoo, corn from Maine, tomatoes from Maryland and peas from Michigan and Wiscontin may all be told in definite terms. All these have resulted from experiment under favorable conditions. It is no secret why Illinois and Iowa rank first as corn States, or why Herkimer county cheese has an enviable place in the market. The Dakotas have yet to pass through the long selective process. It may be hastened by scientific guidance, impressively applied. Some scientific guidance would seem in order as a substitute for the political gush that has been dished up for the Northwestern farmers with a garnish of financial fallacies.

Under other conditions capital might easily be tempted into the districts where it has been abhorred as a product of the Wall-street devil. The time may be ripe. The lesson may have been learned, but if it has been Brookhart and Magnus Johnson were not the teachers.

EARLY FINANCING

Capitalizing the United States of America Reads Like Romance, But Packs A Moral

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

A distinct note of hope in the European situation may be heard by a comparison of the involved currency and credit problems of Germany, France and other countries with the similar situation which existed in the United States at the hour of this country's birth. The United States today enjoys the most stable currency and credit system in the world. Everywhere the dollar is looked upon as the soundest of money. At the dawn of our government, following the Revolution, ours was the worst money in the world. That such a transition could take place gives reason to hope that the degraded currencies of Europe may be brought to a high standard of value once more.

At the end of the Revolution the finances of the several States were in woefully bad shape. Several kinds of currency were in circulation, a sum of $200,000,000 in the aggregate. Even the bonds of the States were at a sharp discount; some were regarded as utterly valueless.

With that situation facing them, the people of the newly-emerged nation felt that they must get to work and build an edifice of credit which would insure the continuation of a new confederation. All experienced people know that it is a difficult task to get any sort of agreement through a legislative body. It takes months, sometimes years, to get a bill through our present Congress, even though the machinery of legislation is in a higher state of perfection than it was at the beginning. But the situation was so serious that the leaders knew that temporizing would be fatal and that something definite had to be accomplished.

It makes an interesting comparison to refer to the old records and find there the same sort of expressions as now may be heard concerning the European countries. The same sort of dismal predictions of ruin, rebellion, disintegration and even anarchy were heard then as now. Yet out of this disorder arose what today stands as the strongest government in the world.

Commentators declare that the early Americans were scared into co-operation and constructive effort. The situation was so grave that they realized that they must compromise and work together or that the dire predictions of anarchy and disintegration would, indeed, come true.

PRODUCT OF NECESSITY

The result was the Constitution of the United States. This Constitution has been called the greatest document for the government of men ever written. It was the product of necessity. Such serious alternatives faced the new nation that the highest type of constructive effort was called forth. There was no time for long-drawn-out bickering. The result was the document which still forms the basic law of the land, the law on which has been built the solid edifice of American welfare, prosperity and credit.

The parallel is striking. It is scarcely to be expected that European states will write new constitutions, but they find themselves at the lowest ebb of their finances and credit, just as our own States did. Will necessity spur them to a settlement as it did with the framers of the American government?

Alexander Hamilton was the financial genius who, with the Constitution as a basis, set to work to build up the public credit. In a message to Congress in 1790 he declared that if the good name of the United States was to be preserved the credit of the United States must be put on a solid basis. This policy dictated his course.

The task seemed as impossible as does the European task today. The new Federal government assumed the debts of the States, a policy which was regarded by many as suicidal. It did not attempt to repudiate foreign obligations but set out to pay up. In 1790 the foreign debt was $10,900,000, a very great sum for those days.

Hamilton's first step was the payment of this debt. Only $600,000 a year was set aside out of government revenues to pay the operating cost of the government. This may be compared with $4,000,000,000, the sum used to run the government in these days. The rest of the revenues were turned over to the foreign creditors. It became necessary to float a domestic loan, and a total of $9,400,000 also was borrowed in Holland. These loans, made between 1790 and 1794, were paid in full between 1800 and 1809.

The colonies, while struggling against Great Britain for independence, borrowed a total of $6,350,000 from France. By 1815 all of this indebtedness had been repaid. Other loans made in Holland and Spain were paid up within a few years, and in full accordance with the terms of the loans.

The handling of the early American foreign debt furnishes a sharp contrast to the way in which some of the modern indebtedness is being handled. Every cent borrowed was repaid within a short time.

CITIZEN STOCKHOLDERS

To handle the domestic situation Hamilton capitalized the national credit. He made a domestic loan aggregating some $50,000,000. The loan was made in the form of the sale of stock rather than bonds. American citizens became stockholders in their government and received 6 per cent dividends on their stock. The money was used to refund the outstanding State bonds.

This was declared an unnecessary and wasteful use of the money by the critics of Hamilton, but experience proved that the move was a wise one, for the State bonds were brought back to par, retired and taken out of the financial situation with a salutary, simplifying result. Furthermore, this move had the effect of strengthening the Federal government.

It seems strange in these days, when the idea of the supremacy of the Federal government is generally accepted, to recall that only a few generations ago there were many Americans who doubted the value of a Federal government, and favored splitting up into States. When the bondholders of the States, through the refunding process, became the creditors of the new Federal government, they had an interest in seeing that government successful and prosperous. They were unwilling to support a move to abandon the central government and break up into separate States. It never can be definitely known how great an effect this financing plan had on the subsequent solidarity of the Federal government.

The investors were well justified in their action, for by 1836 the stock had all been redeemed. That year saw the United States in the almost unique position of being wholly out of debt.

A study of this period of American finance would reveal that it was possoble for a new and weak confederation, without credit and with a despised currency, within half a century to fight its way to a position where its currency was sound and where it had no debt.

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

The Globe Petroleum Corporation has deepened its Bolsa Tile well in the Huntington Beach field, according to officials of the company, and yesterday was running in the liner preparatory to putting the well on production. The well was originally drilled to a depth of 4367 feet, and flowed about thirty barrels daily. In deepening the well it was taken down 4594 feet, and at that depth a good production is expected. The well is located on the property of the Bolsa Tile Company.

Sidetracking Pipe

The Southwest Petroleum Company is sidetracking at 3570 feet in its well near Taft, according to officials of the company. The well was drilled to 4467 feet, it is said, but at that depth lost a string of 6-inch drill pipe, and was forced to start sidetracking at 3350 feet.

Down 894 Feet

The Judd No. 1, which is being drilled by the Globe Petroleum Corporation, and the Julian Petroleum Corporation, south of Huntington Beach, is drilling ahead at 894 feet, according to officials of the Globe organization. The 18-inch casing has been set at about 890 feet, it is reported.

Goes on Pump

Kirk No. 1, in the Huntington Beach field, belonging to the Republic producing Company, is yielding 100 barrels per day on the pump, according to C. M. Rood, western representative of the Haskell interests, who control the Republic organization. The well is drilled to a depth of 4555 feet, and has never been a success as a flowing well, it is said.

The Republic has six wells on production in the Huntington Beach field, only two of which are flowing wells, the other four having been placed on the beam. The Republic production in Huntington Beach is reported as being about 800 barrels per day.

To Cement Wildcat

The Ducor wildcat well is to be cemented off at 2950 feet, after drilling 3450 feet, according to J. M. Huckley. Two or three weeks will be necessary for hardening the cement, after which the plug will be drilled out and a test will be made for oil. This is on the Norman Sinclair property, about three miles west of Ducor.

Drilling Out Plug

The Bonded Syndicate is drilling through the plug in its No. 1 well in the Long Beach field, it is officially reported. The well was cemented at 4196 feet. This was one of the first wells to be affected by the ruling of the State Bureau of Mines zoning the western section of the Signal Hill field, and allowing wells in certain contours to pass up the shallower sand without cementing.

New Well Started

The Regina Judd No. 2 well has been spudded in, and is drilling ahead at 315 feet, according to drillers. The well is on the same lease with Regina Judd No. 1 which was not a success, due to mechanical difficulties, and is located west of American avenue, near the milk sanatorium.

Production Estimate

The American Petroleum Institute estimates that the daily average gross crude oil production in the United States for the week ended the 19th inst. was 1,889,450 barrels, as compared with 1,896,300 barrels for the preceding week, a decrease of 6850 barrels. The daily average production east of the Rocky Mountains was 1,190,450 barrels, as compared with 1,191,500 barrels, a decrease of 1050 barrels.

California production was 699,000 barrels, as compared with 704,800 barrels, a decrease of 5800 barrels; Santa Fe Springs is reported at 140,000 barrels, against 151,00 barrels; Long Beach 229,000 barrels against 230,000 barrels; Huntington Beach 65,000 barrels, no change, and Torrance 34,500 barrels against 36,500 barrels.

Coring Outpost

The Long Beach Petroleum Corporation's outpost well in the western fringe of the Long Beach field is drilling ahead at 4609 feet, and coring carefully at frequent intervals, it is reported by drillers. The well was cemented at 4190 feet, and showings are said to have been good. It is located in the general vicinity of the Virginian well which also was a western outpost and came in with a good flush flow about a week ago.

HANNA TURNS DOWN FLATTERING OFFER

Frank Hanna, veteran shorthand reporter in Judge Fleming's department of the Superior Court, yesterday declined an offer from an eastern university of a professorship in shorthand at a salary of $6000 a year. The president of the university wrote Mr. Hanna asking him if he would accept the position, stating that on his decision largely depended the final action of the school in its proposal to establish a course in shorthand reporting. Mr. Hanna replied that while he felt flattered by the offer, he preferred to remain in Los Angeles and in his regular position in Judge Fleming's court.

HELD ON MANN ACT

United States Commissioner Long yesterday held L. P. Lhereaux to the Federal grand jury, charged with violation of the Mann White Slave Act. The young woman in the case, Nettie Patterson, who accompanied Lhereaux to Long Beach in an automobile, admitted improper relations in Oregon, but denied that anything of the sort occurred during the month or more that she and Lhereaux occupied a room in Long Beach.

COTTON GAINS IN NARROW TRADING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—The cotton futures list today moved narrowly in dull, featureless trading after higher cables and generally more favorable foreign news caused an early advance of some 25 points. This rise was on scattered buying, and it encouraged scattered realizing by commission-house traders and price reacted moderately before midday. Thereafter quotations moved listlessly, without displaying any definite tendency until scattered selling by southern interests in the afternoon caused a setback of some 20 to 30 points. Good support was encountered on the decline, however, and the market rallied to above the previous closing level and finished the day 5 to 12 points net higher.

Spot cotton closed at 33.55, up 10 points net.

LOS ANGELES CLOSE

CATTLE—Receipts 100. There is a slightly better feeling in the fat cattle trade today. Supply at hand was small and with only a moderate carry over anything usable by packers found a ready outlet at firm figures. Nothing worthy of especial mention was included in the steer quota, bulk of the run consisting of native slaughter cows and heifers, the kinds that cleared at a spread of 4.25@5.75, with canners and cutters, largely 2.25@2.50. Bulls continued good property and held steady, bolognas 3.50@4.25, with beef bulls on up to 5.00. Calves 100. Sellers were able to reduce the holdover here today in the calf division. Prices were just about steady. 75 head of New Mexico calves, average 225 pounds at 7.00, while a load of 200 pounds sold at 6.10, with odd lots at 6.00 and less.

Hogs—Receipts 500. Holdover 1387. Market ruled generally steady, several loads of butchers 160 to 210-pound averages, moved at 8.10@8.25, with 8.40 top with packing sows largely 6.50@6.75, with a few roughs on down to 6.00.

SHEEP—None.

MID-WEEK SUMMARY

CATTLE—Moderate receipts tended to check the downward trend to cattle values and a degree of activity developed towards the close of last week and the first two days of this week with prices for beef steers and killing she stock quoted generally steady. Best steers included was an eight-car string of fed Canadians from Calgary, Canada, average 1320 pounds, that cleared at 9.25, with bulk of the steer supply, from the Imperial Valley, 1000 to 1100 pounds, clearing 8.25@8.50, with common light steers on down to 6.00. Slaughter cows and heifers, common to good, sold from 4.25@6.00, bulk of sales 5.00@5.75, with canners and cutters largely 2.25@2.50. Bull prices showed a degree of firmness, bulk bologna bulls now 3.50@4.25, beef bulls on up to 5.00. Calves: Dullness featured in the market for calves. Supplies have been liberal and price tendencies lower. In a general way values being quoted around 2.00 lower than at high time. A few hand picked calves sold at 9.00 but the bulk of the supply from Arizona and New Mexico from 250 to 300 pounds have cleared from 6.00 to 7.00.

HOGS—A healthier tone has been in evidence in the hog trade during the past seven-day period. Prices have worked a little stronger each day with today's quotations around 25 to 40 higher than those of a week ago. Good and choice 150 to 210-pound butchers are now clearing 8.25 to 8.40 with packing sows largely 6.50@6.75. A few roughs noted on down to 6.00.

SHEEP—Supplies have been limited. Market for wooled lambs of which the small run consisted showed a touch of strength. Monday of this week a band of 545 head Inyo county fed wooled lambs, averaging 81 pounds, cleared at 12.60, top price for the period.

Heavy Selling of Corn Early; Finish is Firm

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—While developments in the grain markets were generally of a bearish character, and there was heavy selling of corn early, the undertone became quite strong toward the last and the finish was at net gains of ⅛@⅜c on wheat, ⅛@¼c on corn and ¼@⅜c on oats. Rye was again dull and unchanged to ⅛c lower. Sentiment was decidedly bearish in corn early and May dropped to 79⅛c, under free selling by local and outside longs. Offerings on the break were finally absorbed on resting orders and toward the close some of the local professionals who are bullish started to buy and found offerings light. The result was a bulge of 80⅛c, with the finish at 80⅛@80¼c, with July at 80⅛@80¼c, the close being within a fraction of the best price of the season.

Buying of wheat was of a better class than of late, and while there was considerable May for sale at 1.09½ for May, offerings at that figure were finally absorbed, and the finish was at 1.09⅝@1.10, the latter being the best price of the day. July closed at 1.08@1.07⅞. There was considerable change in sentiment noted in some quarters, with a much more friendly feeling toward the buying side.

Export business at the seaboard was larger, with total sales estimated as high as 750,000 bushels, including 75,000 bushels to Greece. Movement to terminal markets continues limited, with arrivals of 652,000 bushels, against 886,000 bushels last year.

May oats closed at 48⅝c, or within 1.08 of the best price of the season. The market showed a firm undertone from the start, with a good class of buying, and the failure of the movement to increase in the face of the recent advance attracted attention. Primary receipts of 303,000 bushels were 435,000 bushels less than last year.

Rye was dull and easier, failing to reflect the strength in wheat. No export demand was claimed at the seaboard.

ELECTION BUG-A-BOO EXPLODED

Venerable Myth Fails to Work When Acid Test is Applied

Speculative Wall street is a place of hasty conclusions and groundless illusions. It likes to place its foundlings of error on the doorstep of lady luck. It loves to interpret the movements of the market which, after all, are based upon the granite of facts, in the long run, in terms of the stars, the movements of the seasons or the so-called "laws of averages."

Hence the "spring rise" in the spring. As a matter of fact, it would be hard to find in the record of market movements any six months period where there was not some recovery in the market that could be classed as a rise. But Wall street, entranced by the beautiful analogy of the market rising with the sap in the trees, thinks only of the spring rise. There are as many spring falls as spring rises, but the falls do not appeal to the speculative imagination. Hence they do not count.

Another cherished Wall-street illusion, now in season, is that of the "Presidential year." According to the tradition, the Presidential year is one of woe. Theoretically, because of the uncertain outlook in politics, business should be dull and security prices on a declining scale. Do the records of the past bear out this theory?

A study of the ten Presidential years in the last forty years shows that five Presidential years were years of declining security prices, four were years of rising prices and there was one year in which the advance was about offset by the decline. The records, then, do not bear out the theory that a Presidential year is necessarily one of declining security prices.

The facts of the matter are that the rise and fall of the security market is controlled, not by any one factor, but by many factors of varying and changing degrees of importance. The outbreak of the World War in 1914 became for the time being a matter of supreme importance, overshadowing everything else in its effect upon security prices. When the world and Wall street awoke to a realization of the real significance of the World War to American industry, that event became one of immense bullish importance. In fact, after 1914 any news tending to indicate that the war was likely to end resulted in a decline in stocks and news of an opposite nature acted as a strong stimulant to prices.

It is apparent, then, that politics and Presidential years are only parts of a composite of factors which affect business conditions and security prices. To dogmatize and attempt to depend upon them exclusively in arriving at our conclusions in reference to the outlook for the markets and for business in general is merely to invite the penalties of error. Politics may be the dominating factor, and again they may not.

Britain-Canada Hockey Teams are Victorious

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

CHAMOIX, Jan. 29.—The hockey teams of Great Britain and Canada triumphed over the representatives of France and Sweden in the Olympic games today. The Canadians added to their reputation for brilliant play by fairly smothering the Swedes, considered the strongest European team, winning 22 to nothing. The English defeated the Frenchmen 15 to 2.

The women's fancy skating contest went to Mme. H. Szabo-Plank, of Austria with Miss Beatrix Loughran of New York, second. Mrs. Theresa Weld Blanchard of Boston, took fourth honors and Miss C. Eustis Smith of Canada, sixth.

Canada's victory over Sweden has made the Canadians big favorites for the Olympic hockey championship.

The official standing of the nations at the end of the fourth day was: Finland, 67 1-2 points; Norway, 49 1-2 points; United States, 19; Austria, 10; Switzerland, 10; France, 7; Great Britain, 4; Czecho-Slovakia, 3; Sweden, 1; Canada, 1.

This gives a total of 172 points, fifth and sixth places points having been canceled in the military skiing competition.

COST OF NATION SOARS MILLIONS

Treasury and Postoffice Departments Costly

Prohibition Enforcement Expenses Increase

Three Hundred Additional Dry Agents Planned

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Nearly three-quarters of a billion dollars is carried in the annual supply bill for the Treasury and Postoffice departments reported today by the House Appropriations Committee. The exact amount is $729,858,451, an increase of $18,476,889 over total appropriations for the two departments for the current fiscal year, but $5,447,696 less than budget estimates.

Of the total $609,976,246 is for the Postoffice Department—$24,754,487 more than was appropriated a year ago, and $3,116,930 less than budget recommendations, and $119,882,205 for the Treasury.

The Treasury Department allotment does not take into consideration $1,399,051,075 of permanent and indefinite appropriations which do not require annual Congressional action. It does, however, include $10,629,770 for enforcement of prohibition—$1,629,770 more than was granted last year. The Coast Guard, which is charged with curbing rum-smuggling by sea, is allotted $10,651,643, or $793,881 less than was appropriated for the current year, and the Customs Service is allowed $13,874,140, or $1,555,640 more than was appropriated a year ago.

POSTAL COST HUGE

Of the postoffice allotment, major items are $124,937,100 for clerk hire in the first and second-class postoffices; $87,000,000 for the pay of city letter carriers; $104,450,000 to pay railroads for the transportation of mail; $47,400,000 for the maintaining of the railway mail service, and $88,250,000 for the pay of rural letter carriers. Airplane mail service is allotted $1,500,000, the amount voted it a year ago.

In its report the committee pointed out in comparing totals with those of last year that the bill does not carry the $240 bonus granted clerks for the current fiscal year. It also declared that the increased appropriation for enforcement of the prohibition and narcotic laws would enable the Treasury to employ 300 additional prohibition agents and 145 more agents to be used in preventing the illegal use of narcotics.

SHIPS TO FIGHT RUM

In the bill is an item of $51,600 entitled "floating expenses," which the report explained would be used to purchase fast motor launches, costing from $3000 to $5000 for use against rum runners.

The increased volume of imports, the report said, makes it imperative that additional funds be granted the Customs Service. The amount recommended, it was said, would place 1128 additional employees on the pay roll—259 of them at the port of New York—bringing the field force of the Customs Service up to 8588 employees.

Discussing postoffice revenue, the report said that for the current fiscal year, which ends June 30, it would approximate $586,630,000, leaving an estimated deficit of about $28,000,000. Revenues next year, it was estimated, will increase .5 per cent. On the basis of the appropriation carried in the bill this would entail a deficit of slightly more than $2,000,000 next year.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—After spending nine months in the death house at Sing Sing following his conviction on a charge of murdering Miss Edith Lavey, schoolteacher, William M. Creasy has just been acquitted of the charge in the second trial he won on appeal.

The State charged that Creasy had shot the girl to death. He contended that he was sleeping beside her when he heard the report of a gun and awoke to find her dead by her own hand.

The accompanying photograph shows Creasy with the happy grin he wore on learning of his acquittal.

Annual Frolic Being Planned for Showmen

James Morrison

Every field of amusement activity from the circus to the spoken drama will be represented at the Pacific Coast Showmen's Association second annual entertainment and ball to be held at the Biltmore ballroom on the night of Lincoln's Birthday, February 12.

Drama, musical comedy, vaudeville screen, circus and carnival will all have their delegates there to extend greetings to the western organization that corresponds to the "Showmen's League" of the East.

James Morrison, film player, has been the first chosen to appear by S. H. Barrett, director-general of the showmen's festivities. He has just returned from New York and will extend the greetings from both the Manhattan and Hollywood screen colonies.

President J. Schuyler Clark expects this year's festivities to be more elaborate than ever before. Music for dancing will be furnished by Herb Wiedoft's orchestra and there will be scores of entertainment novelties.

Testimony in Favor of Joe Jackson Heard

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MILWAUKEE (Wis.) Jan. 29.—The conduct of Joe Jackson, former White Sox baseball player, on the diamond during the Chicago-Cincinnati 1919 world's series was that of a player doing his best for his club, according to the testimony of press witnesses who attended the games of the world's series, in the suit of Jackson against the Chicago club to collect $18,500 under an unexpired contract.

The witnesses, one of them a sports editor for a newsgathering agency, testified among other things that Jackson not only batted higher than any man in the series, but brought in more runs than any other two players; that his fielding averaged 1000 per cent; that he accepted more chances than any player in the series and got more bases than any other player. The witnesses said, in effect, that Jackson's conduct was more meritorious than any other player on the Chicago team.

Submission of this testimony was intended to bear out a plan of the plaintiff in the case to show by inference that his conduct in the series indicated he had nothing to do with the "throwing" of the series. It was because of the expose of the "baseball scandal of 1919" that Jackson's contract was rescinded and he was released under a "ten day notice clause," now said by Jackson to have been inserted in the contract without his knowledge or consent.

Ascot Speedway May Be Allied With I.M.C.A.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Jan. 29.—Following a conference this afternoon between officials of the San Luis Obispo Dirt Speedway and G. Huff Dorward, vice-chairman of the International Motor Contest Association, it was announced that the local speedway will in all probability become allied with the I.M.C.A. and work in a harmonious arrangement with the Ascot Speedway in the matter of date protection and division of drivers on conflicting dates. A meeting of the stockholders of the local association will be held tomorrow afternoon during which the annual election of officers will take place. That formality dispensed with, the I.M.C.A. and Ascot proposition will be taken up.

"Instead of preforming a dog in the manger act and trying to freeze out the smaller tracks," said Dorward, "Bentel and our association are desirous of fostering the sport, and, if necessary, Ascot will close for one day every now and then to protect San Luis Obispo, San Jose and any other dirt tracks scheduling meets in order that the best racing talent may go from Ascot to these other tracks." Dorward left for San Jose tonight to meet with the Garden City Speedway owners tomorrow.

NEW CREW COACH IS DULY INSTALLED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BERKELEY, Jan. 29.—Ky Ebright, the new crew coach at the University of California, was duly installed in office today. Yesterday he was welcomed to the campus at a "sign up" rally, which brought out 130 aspirants for rowing honors.

Ebright said he contemplated no radical changes in the stroke to be used this season. He added that California had a good chance to win the race with the University of Washington at Seattle. For several seasons the Bears have found Washington an insurmountable obstacle to eastern rowing honors. This year there is the added incentive of attaining the Olympic games try-out for the champion shell of the Pacific Coast.

TWO A.A.U. CONTESTS CARDED FOR TONIGHT

The Los Angeles Athletic Club basketball team will play the Orange A.C. quintet on the latter's floor this evening in a regular A.A.U. game. The other tilt of the night will send the Sheetz Mission Candy Club to the William Lane Company's courts.

Both of these teams are in division A. Larry Semons beat the Y.M.C.A. last night, and the Fullerton A. C. has withdrawn from B division, thus giving the Hollywood A.C. a bye tonight.

NEW BOULEVARD STOPS PLANNED

City Council Urged to Increase Area for Public Safety

The "boulevard-stop" plan in use on Wilshire Boulevard, Figueroa street and Mission Road having proved a success, the Board of Public Utilities yesterday recommended to the City Council three additional "boulevard-stop" thoroughfares. Those recommended were:

(1.) Sunset Boulevard, from North Broadway to westerly city limits.

(2.) Western avenue from Los Feliz Boulevard to Manchester avenue.

(3.) Seventh street from San Pedro street to Boyle avenue and Whittier Boulevard, from Boyle avenue to the eastern city limits.

Under the "boulevard-stop" plan, vehicles before crossing a designated boulevard, must come to a complete stop.

ANNEXATION IS DEFEATED AT SHERMAN

Only One Precinct Gives Majority in Favor of Joining Los Angeles

In one of the most closely contested annexation elections ever conducted in this county, Sherman and the West Hollywood district yesterday voted not to join Los Angeles. The vote was 814 to 750 against annexation

Only one precinct returned a majority in favor of annexation. It was special precinct No. 5, one of two voting boxes in Sherman, and the count was 191 for and 123 against.

Both pro and antiannexationists were active in Sherman and elsewhere in the district the last few days prior to the election. Mass meetings were held almost nightly and the communities were divided into two hostile camps. The annexationists favored joining with Los Angeles to secure the benefits of the municipal water and sewer systems, and better street-car service, while the antis' chief arguments centered about the assertion that Los Angeles is overannexed.

The vote reported to City Clerk Dominguez follows:

	Yes	No.
Special Precinct No. 1 (Crescent)	116	150
No. 2 (La Brea No. 1)	147	132
No. 3 (La Brea No. 2)	126	175
No. 4 (Sherman No. 1)	170	212
No. 5 (Sherman No. 2)	191	123

VALHALLA PARK MEETING WARM

Investors Jam Auditorium to Make Protests

Committee on Investigation is Named

Speaker Jeered From Stage in Near Riot

More than 1000 angry investors in the Valhalla Memorial Park project stormed the Walker Auditorium last night and demanded both individually and in chorus to be shown what had been done with their money. The mass meeting degenerated into a near riot and order was maintained with difficulty. Several hundred investors, who were unable to crowd their way into the auditorium rented for the meeting, remained outside for several hours waiting for the outcome.

At the conclusion of the meeting a committee was appointed by the investors to investigate the entire project. This consists of F. F. Chapman, Mrs. Janice B. Ward of 712½ Oak street, Mrs. Albina C. Warner, Mrs. Kenny, Paul M. Roth of 201 South Los Robles street, Pasadena, Max Wasmer of 145 West Seventeenth street, and Clarence Horn of 1316 Angeleno street.

The committee will make its report within a week or ten days at another mass meeting in a hall to be later chosen for the occasion. It will make its headquarters at 914 Wirght and Callender Building.

Charges that the Osborne-Fitzpatrick Finance Corporation, which is backing the project, has failed to carry out its promises to investors were repeatedly made by speakers and a grand jury investigation of the entire affair was suggested time and again by investors who jumped to their feet during the meeting and interrupted the speakers.

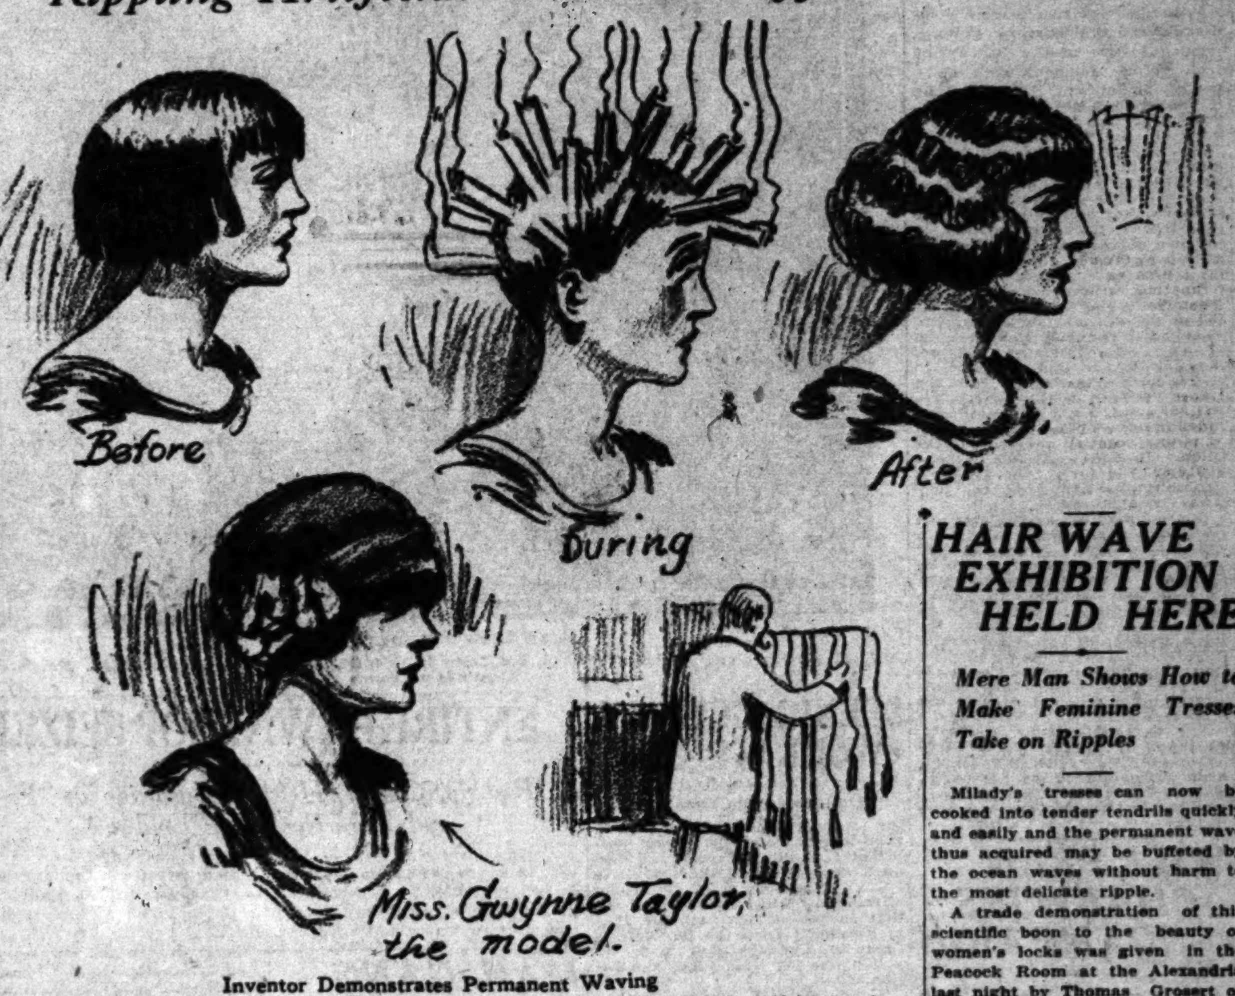
Oliver Clark, attorney for the corporation, defended the manner in which the firm was proceeding, but was jeered and hissed continuously by the audience. Mr. Clark declared that the company was improving the land as rapidly as possible and had expended large sums already in this work.

The work of improving the land, he asserted, had been held up to some extent by the inability of contractors to install a sprinkler system in the park. The nucleus of the perpetual upkeep fund for the park has been placed in the bank, he declared, and a statement of the work already done and planned will be placed with the State Real Estate Commissioner next Monday so that the investors may know the financial standing of the project.

Paul Sattelkau, former engineer for the corporation, also spoke. He declared the company had spent but a few thousand dollars in improvements although it had sold stock amounting to several million dollars. He charged the company with failure to keep its promise and told of a woman who had invested her life savings in the project and then was unable to sell her stock, although he said she had been informed by salesman for the corporation that she could dispose of her section in the park anytime she desired, at a large profit.

Mr. Clark arose and declared he had never heard of such a case. He was repeatedly interrupted. Finally Mrs. Eloia Kenny of 2007 Vista Del Mar street, Hollywood, approached him and told him she was the woman referred to and that she would like to dispose of the section she had purchased in the park.

Rippling Artificial Wavelets Defy Waves of Sea



Inventor Demonstrates Permanent Waving

Sketch by Clifford McBride, staff artist of The Times, reveals process of feminine beautifying as shown before trade of city at Alexandria by Thomas Grosert of London.

HAIR WAVE EXHIBITION HELD HERE

Mere Man Shows How to Make Feminine Tresses Take on Ripples

Milady's tresses can now be cooked into tender tendrils quickly and easily and the permanent wave thus acquired may be buffeted by the ocean waves without harm to the most delicate ripple.

A trade demonstration of this scientific boon to the beauty of women's locks was given in the Peacock Room at the Alexandria last night by Thomas Grosert of London, Edinburgh and New York, who has specialized in coy, alluring ringlets for thirty years. He claims the honor of having patented America's first permanent wave machine and process.

A man of statistical mind in the audience said there were 373 hairdressing establishments in Los Angeles. About fourscore of the leading hairdressers of the city were present in a ratio of approximately six women to two and one-half men.

The model chosen was Miss Gwynne Taylor of the J. W. Robinson Company. The demonstration began with the time-honored magician's phrase: "You will notice, I have nothing concealed in my sleeves."

The process was as follows: Dipping a comb into a glass of water he combed the attractive young lady's hair solicitously and efficiently. Strand by strand her hair was wound on slender rods. Each strand was covered with a preparation, containing moisture,, then placed in individual tubes which were inserted in the heating cups of the electric waver. The heating process lasted fifteen minutes. When the appliances were removed the model's hair was still moist. It was then rinsed with tepid water and there was the permanent wave in all its undulating glory, good for six months with proper care.

THUG TERRORIZES BAKERY

Steals Car, Beats Salesman and Battles Office Force Guarding Door; Makes Escape

A masked thug, operating in highly spectacular fashion, last night robbed and beat up two men, obtaining $76 from one victim and taking the other's automobile.

The gunman also attempted to force his way into and rob the Superior Pound Cake Baking Company at East Adams street and Central avenue. F. J. Eupperle, president of the company, and J. R. Nelson, office manager, stood with their backs to the office door and successfully resisted the bandit's efforts to force his way inside.

The first victim of the thug was Jeno Weisz, a barber, of 4116 Hooper avenue. Weisz had just drawn up in front of his house in his automobile when the bandit sprang from behind a tree and brought the butt of his gun down on the victim's head. Weisz fell to the ground stunned. The thug jerked him to his feet and ordered him to get back into the machine and drive according to instructions. Weisz complied.

The bandit sat down in the rear seat and keeping the muzzle of his revolver pressed against Weisz's neck forced the latter to drive north on Hooper avenue to Thirtieth street and then west on Thirtieth to Central avenue.

Near the baking company's plant the bandit forced Weisz to bring the car to a halt. The bandit got out, taking Weisz with him. Weisz, at the thug's instructions, tried to open the door leading to the company's office but found it locked. The bandit then forced Weisz to go around to the driveway and enter the office through the side door.

In the driveway the bandit saw Lewis Steinberg, a salesman for the company. He ordered him to raise his hands but Steinberg hesitated for a moment. The thug, without warning, leaped at him and brought his gun down on the victim's head. Then he proceeded to beat him up and rob him, obtaining $76.

In the meantime Weisz had dashed into the office and warned the employees and officials that a bandit was outside. Mr. Eupperle and Mr. Nelson went to the door and saw the thug approaching, gun in hand. They slammed the door shut and stood with their backs to it to prevent the bandit from entering. He succeeded,

Bogus Liquor Labels Seized in Police Raid

A large quantity of bonded liquors, several thousand fake labels and a capping machine for sealing and capping bottles were seized by the police vice squad last night in a raid on a house at 2020 Miramar street. The officers also arrested Mrs. Retta Lewis, who was found in the house, and J. A. Keough, who drove up to the place in his machine just as they were leaving. Both were booked at Central Station on a charge of violating the Wright Act.

The officers believe that the raided house was the source of much of the supposedly bonded liquor sold by bootleggers in the city. They said they found thirty-two quarts of gin in Keough's car and believed he was bringing it to the house in order to have the stuff labeled. The raid was made by Patrolman Leslie, Lennon and Childers.

Pioneer Was Prime Mover in City's Development

Had Been Ill Many Years: Native of Ohio

Charles C. Carpenter, one of the pioneer residents of Los Angeles and a prime mover in the early development of the city, died yesterday at his home, 1205 West Twenty-seventh street, after an illness of several years.

Mr. Carpenter came to Los Angeles in the summer of 1887, when the city's population was 40,000. He came from Cincinnati, where he already had firmly established his career, and where he had married Miss Clara B. Wilshire, daughter of the late George Wilshire.

INTERESTED IN FULLERTON

On coming to California, Mr. Carpenter was closely associated in a representative capacity with the extensive interests of Mr. Wilshire and his two sons, Gaylord and W. B. Wilshire. With them he purchased and developed thirty-five acres lying immediately west of Westlake Park, the origin of the present Wilshire district. At about the same time he aided the Wilshire family in the early development of the city of Fullerton.

During his years of activity in Los Angeles Mr. Carpenter was associated with the foundation of many of the city's most substantial business enterprises. He was an active director in the Home Telephone Company, was a charter member of several clubs, including the Los Angeles Country Club, which he helped to found, the Crags Country Club, and the Westminster Gun Club. He became a member of the California Club in 1896.

WIDOW, FOUR CHILDREN

Mr. Carpenter leaves his widow and four children, one son, Clarence E. Carpenter, and three daughters, Mrs. Clara Nave, Mrs. Lambert W. Jordan and Mrs. Hugh K. Walker, Jr., as well as two sisters, Mrs. F. T. Lockwood of Tenafly, N. J., and Dr. Lilly Carpenter of Cincinnati. Mrs. Nave, on hearing of her father's condition, made a hurried trip from Paris, arriving here last Thursday, so that all the children were present at the time of his death.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow at 11 a.m., in the family home, with Dr. Hugh K. Walker, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, in charge.

Theft Attempt is Frustrated by Watchman

At attempt to loot the Arthur Baus Fur Shop at 705 South Hope street, of thousands of dollars' worth of furs was believed frustrated early yesterday morning by the timely appearance of a night watchman at the rear of the establishment.

When Officers Partin and Blackwell of the night flying squad were called to investigate they found, they said, that a large hole had been cut through the brick wall at one side of the fur shop. Thousands of dollars' worth of furs were kept in the shop, according to their report. It was apparent that the burglars were about to enter through the hole in the wall when the night watchman, whose name was not given, appeared and frightened them away.

MULHOLLAND WAY RUSHED

First Steam Shovel of Nine Ordered Placed on Job; Second Work Camp Soon will be Ready

Work on the Mulholland High Way, which when completed will run atop the Santa Monica Mountains from Griffith Park to Calabasas and give to Los Angeles and Southern California one of the greatest scenic highways in the world, is progressing rapidly.

Today steam shovels, each capable of removing two and one-half yards of dirt at each scoop, are preparing the right of way. Nine new machines have been purchased by the Board of Public Works to be placed on the job and the first of this consignment was put into operation yesterday.

Three shifts of men are to operate each steam shovel so that the work can go on without interruption and huge clusters of electric lights will be installed for night work. As the leveling of the highway is completed a crew of men will follow to lay pipes for water.

CAMPS BUILDING

The main construction camp has been established where the highway crosses the Hollywood Country Club property and the first work is now being pushed in an easterly direction toward the intersection of the highway with Laurel Canyon Road. Within a short time a second camp will be ready at the head of Nichols Canyon on Wilson Boulevard, and the contract for an auxiliary camp at Stone Canyon has been let.

It is also planned to erect another camp on the survey at the head of Topanga Canyon in about six weeks. It is said that by the end of February the highway will be open from Ventura Boulevard by way of Franklin Canyon through the Country Club property and in about six weeks it will be open to Beverly Hills.

Every advantage is being taken of the favorable weather conditions for road making, and the promise made at the time of the bond election—that the highway would be constructed in record time and in the most workmanlike manner—is being fulfilled.

CHANGE IS ASKED

At a recent meeting of the Hollywood Hills Association it was decided to ask that a change in the original route of the highway be made, and resolutions calling for the change were passed and presented to the Board of Public Works for approval.

This change of routing, accord-

CHEST PLAN IS INDORSED

Alliance of Social Agencies Reverses Itself on Organized Charity Undertaking

The Alliance of Social Agencies, at its monthly meeting yesterday at the Y.M.C.A. placed itself on record as indorsing a plan for a Community Chest as formulated in articles of incorporation drawn up by a joint committee representing the alliance and the Chamber of Commerce. The vote was recorded as 20 against the chest and 37 favoring it.

At the December meeting the Chamber of Commerce's plan was rejected by the alliance by a vote of forty-two against and eighteen for the chest, and at that time the alliance's subcommittee of seven was told to continue its conferences with the Chamber of Commerce subcommittee with instructions to continue to strive for an amicable agreement. The indorsement of the Community Chest plan yesterday was the result.

The dissenting votes yesterday were cast by those delegates who felt that the Alliance of Social Agencies should have a voice in the management of the Community Chest. The articles of incorporation, as indorsed by the thirty-seven favorable votes, provided two distinct departments in the proposed organization. One was the department of the community funds, to have supervision of the distribution of the donations to charity. The other was a social service department, to have charge of the social service work of the chest.

Those who opposed the plan as adopted expressed themselves as desirous of having the alliance of Social Agencies supervise the social service department. This power was not granted the alliance by the indorsed articles. Instead, as outlined by the incorporation papers, this work will be placed in the hands of a committee of fifteen, to be elected from those agencies participating in the Community Chest.

"I do not believe in the principle of a Community Chest," declared E. P. Ryland, chairman of the alliance's subcommittee, when he submitted his report at the meeting. "I feel antagonistic toward the concentration of power. I fear the revival of feudalism when the Community Chest comes into being. However, the majority seem to want a Community Chest. It should be given a trial, and then it will remain for us to determine whether it is an unwise move in Los Angeles or if it will be a success."

A delegation of three representatives from the Chamber of Commerce appealed for indorsement of the plan before the vote was taken. They were E. P. Clark, T. Warren and Joseph Scott.

"What the Community Chest will be is problematical," stated Brig. Boyd, head of the local branch of the Salvation Army. "I am convinced that Los Angeles must try it. If so, I am for making it a great success."

LOAN TO POWER BUREAU SPENT

No Money in Sight to Repay City Taxpayers

Gas Grab Scheme Inspired by Empty Coffer

Sponsors, Criswell Away, Get "Cold Feet"

The sum of $500,000 lent to the Municipal Bureau of Power and Light by the City Council from tax funds in the city treasury was just small change for the Power Bureau, according to a report submitted to the City Council yesterday by the public service department showing that the borrowed money had all been spent. The first $50,000 monthly installment toward repaying the loan to the taxpayers is due next Thursday.

The report of the Power Bureau received by the Council yesterday, showing its expenditures from the $500,000 borrowed money, said nothing of any repayment of the loan or of the repayment of $6,392,353.89 advanced by the taxpayers from increased taxes to meet the carrying charges on power bonds. The supporters of the bureau and the bond issues had promised many times that these charges would be paid from the enormous profits of the Power Bureau. The profits have not materialized in cash, and the bureau is now buying from the Southern California Edison Company 75 per cent of the electrical energy distributed ov r the municipal lines.

ALL IN FOUR MONTHS

The Bureau's report to the Council showed that since the $500,000 loan was made in August 27 last, the Bureau has spent on extensions $557,432.28, the additional $57,432.28, the Bureau said, having been paid out of power revenues. During November the Bureau spent from the $500,000 loan, $10,897.40 and uring December the expenditures were $160,432.84. The rest of the $557,432.28 was spent during September and October.

Having only an empty cash drawer to show as the result of its thirteen years of existence, the Power Bureau is now making desperate efforts to annex the electric business of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company in the hope of making a profitable showing for political ownership of the electric business in Los Angeles, but yesetrday these efforts o. the Bureau to start under way the "grab" of the gas company's electric properties struck a snag which may delay the carrying out of the Bureau's plans until Councilman Criswell rereturns from a lobbying trip to Washington, at the public expense, in support of the Swing-Johnson bill which is being put forward by the opponents of the Colorado River compact.

REPORT HELD BACK

The Public Service Committee of the Council of which President Workman and Councilman Criswell and Wheeler are members had a report ready for presentation to the Council recommending that the "gas grab" ordinances sponsored by the Power Bureau, authorizing the bureau to spend from its already depleted treasury $50,000 to pay for a valuation of the gas company's electric properties, be placed before the voters at the May 6 Presidential primary election. Fearing that a ruling by the City Attorney would declare that six votes were necessary to adopt the committee report, and not having the six votes necessary, due to Councilman Criswell's absence, the committee suffered from "cold feet" and the presentation of the committee report was delayed. It may not be presented until Councilman Criswell returns from Washington. Councilman Baker, Gregory and Mushet believe that the "gas grab" ordinances should be repealed, and will vote against the committee report.

The placing of the ordinances before the voters or the repealing of them results from the filing of a referendum petition bearing 58,766 signatures against the two ordinances, thus blocking the spending of public funds for "gas grab" purposes and making possible the use of this money by the bureau for actual extensions to its plants and distributing system.

The two men, however, held their position and the desperado, finding his efforts to force an entrance useless, rushed out, jumped into Weisz's car and drove away.

Steinberg, who was unconscious from his beating, was removed to the Receiving Hospital where he was treated for scalp wounds and bruises. Police are seeking the bandit, who was described in detail by Weisz.

A pair of young bandits drove up in a stripped flivver to the R. B. Roche grocery store at 2000 San Pedro street last night and robbed Roche of $60. One of the bandits entered the store, the other remaining in the car. Roche was covered with a revolver and forced to hand over all the money in the cash register.

REAL ESTATE AGENT ACCUSED OF FRAUD

COMPLAINT SAYS HEAD OF FIRM USED MONEY OF HIS CLIENTS

J. N. Jaggers, head of the real estate firm bearing his name, was accused of embezzlement and grand larceny in a complaint issued yesterday by Dep. Dist.-Atty. MacKay. The District Attorney's office was informed that Jaggers had accepted money from various persons as a first payment on real estate and did not make the payments, but converted the sums to his own use.

It is charged in the complaint that he accepted $5000 from Mrs. Grace E. Sayer, 427 North Vermont avenue. He is accused of embezzlement of this sum.

The second count charges grand larceny of $250 from Mrs. Grace Cunningham, 1507 Talmadge street.

In both instances Jaggers is accused of accepting the sums as deposits in real estate deals. Jaggers's office is at 3211 West Sixth street, Mr. MacKay was informed.

FOLLETTE PRODUCES NEW DATA

Race Track Cards Are Introduced to Prove Gambler's Existence

As the last evidence presented for the defense of Channing Follette, former Justice of the Peace, on trial before Judge Keetch on a perjury indictment, Attorney John S. Cooper took the stand and identified four race track cards which he said bore the handwriting of John Gilbert, an asserted bunko man. Cooper had already testified that Gilbert, known also as Gates, used the alias "Rollins," and was a bookmaker and follower of the race tracks. Follette declared, in his own defense, that the disputed $700 was furnished mysteriously by a man calling himself Rollins.

The last witnesses for the State, who are taking the stand in rebuttal of defense testimony, are expected to conclude this morning, at which time Defense Counsel Schenck will make a motion to strike certain testimony from the record. Following the court's decision on this point Special Prosecutor Clark and Mr. Schenck will make their closing addresses to the jury. This is expected to take all day, and it is not probable that the case will go to the jury before late Thursday.

Mr. Schenck was unable to get into the record certain files from the Superior Court, which, he said, would show that there was no irregularity in the manner in which he approved bail bonds for bunko men which later turned out to be forged. He then placed on the stand Justices of the Peace Frank S. Forbes and W. S. Baird, to show that they had approved the bonds of prisoners whom they themselves had not bound over to the higher court.

For the State Dep. Dist.-Atty. Joos and Dr. Louis Weber testified that former Dist.-Atty Woolwine had resigned as the result of illness, and that Follette's previous statements that he had been forced to quit were untrue.

WILL PLAN CHARITIES CAMPAIGN

Catholic Organization Will Launch Drive for $100,000 Fund Soon

For the purpose of furthering plans for the Catholic Charities Campaign in the business district of the city, a special dinner meeting will be held tomorrow evening at 6:30 at the California Club, with John G. Mott, chairman of the executive committee as host.

Among the guests will be fifty or more prominent citizens, each representative of some special line of professional, commercial or industrial endeavor.

The goal for the Catholic Charities Campaign this year has been set at $100,000 by the Rt. Rev. John J. Cantwell, D. D. Bishop of Los Angeles and San Diego diocese.

This fund serves to carry on the great bulk of nonsectarian charity and welfare work which is supervised by the Bureau of Catholic Charities, and which embraces orphanages, day nurseries, clinics, a preventorium, a maternity home and other similar institutions.

Of the $100,000 budget the business district committee, of which Charles A. Meyer is chairman, has been given a quota of $40,000. Mr. Meyer's aides will include Joseph A. O'Connor, Joseph Brady, Gerald Delamer and James Hughes, and at the dinner conference Thursday evening details will be discussed for carrying on this special phase of the campaign activities.

Speakers of the evening will include John G. Mott, Charles A. Meyer, Frank Ryan and Rev. Robert E. Lucey, D. D., director of the Bureau of Catholic Charities and director general of the campaign.

The remainder of the $100,000 fund is to be garnered in the residential sections, campaign activities being centered in the various Catholic parishes under the special supervision of the church pastors. The campaign is to be conducted simultaneously in Los Angeles and throughout the diocese during the week of February 11.

Police Believe Arrest of Pair at Venice May Clear Up Bank Robberies

Several bank hold-ups are expected to be cleared up by the arrests made at Venice Monday of John Smith, alias Layton, and Jack Lucas, alias Rose, and the additional arrest in Los Angeles yesterday of George Kruneter of 743 Beacon street, Chief Criminal Deputy Sheriff Wright declared. In Smith's and Lucas's room at 434 South Boylston street, Wright said, detectives and deputy sheriffs found several canvas money bags such as banks use, several pistols and a number of disguises, including false mustaches and whiskers.

Deputy Sheriffs Bell, Peoples and Marty and Detective Lieutenants Cato, Trainor and O'Connor cooperated with Venice officers yesterday in working on the case and declared they had obtained positive identification of Smith and Lucas as the robbers of President Davis of the Davis Standard Bread Company, and of Smith as one of two men who robbed R. L. Grover, Standard Oil collector, of $365, December 14, 1923. The Davis Bread robbery took place at Fourth and Bunker Hill streets Monday, a couple of hours before the arrest of Smith and Lucas, and yielded them $822.

The men were caught after an asserted attempt to rob W. H. Jackson, superintendent of the Santa Monica Dairy Company.

ing to the resolution, is desired in that it will result in saving sufficient to build the projected viaduct across the Cahuenga Pass Road. The portion of the route affected by this change will be that section of the highway running easterly from the Boy Scout's Camp to Cahuenga Pass Road. No action has yet been taken on this suggestion.

Funds for the scenic highway were voted on October 9, 1923, and the proposition to issue $1,000,000 in bonds carried by a large majority. A 200-foot right of way was donated by the property owners, and it was pointed out at the time that such a road would open up a territory at that time inaccessible to travel.

Actual work was begun on December 10, 1923, and since that time crews of men have been constantly employed. Crushed rock will form the main roadbed, with a surfacing to be laid on later.

The Hollywood Hills Association has set up a clearinghouse of information for the many inquiries made daily concerning progress on the highway, and hundreds of persons have been furnished with information concerning the project by this organization and scores of maps showing the route have been given out on request.

WAX FIGURE AIDS POLICE IN CAPTURE

When Effigy Falls Over, Officers Grab Suspect Hiding in Fur Store

A lady—beautiful but dumb—proved to be the undoing last night of Paul R. Paulson, 30 years of age, just arrived from San Francisco.

It was like this:

Mr. Paulson, according to police reports, was engaged in looking over the stock at Swobdi's fur store, 720 South Flower street, when he was observed by a passer-by who called the police. Detectives Hartmeyer, Wilde and Romero answered the call.

Hartmeyer gained a quiet access to the darkened store and crept up on a balcony overlooking the spacious display room below. From his vantage point the officer could discern in the dark nothing more than a company of beautiful wax ladies disporting themselves in the company's best fur trappings. Here and there the wax women had taken positions in front of little niches in the wall. Contemplating the silent scene below him, Detective Hartmeyer commented to himself: "One of these cubby holes would be a swell hiding place for a yegg!"

Then up he spake: "Come out of it now!" No answer.

The cop seized an expensive pillow and flung it down at one of the waxen ladies. She did a flop. Thinking the law was on his neck, Paulson, the police say, jumped out of the niche uncovered by the wax lady's removal. He ran for the door and into the arms of the other two detectives.

Pilot of Bandit Auto Convicted in Second Trial

John Gianello was convicted by a jury of robbery after defense and prosecution counsel had presented new evidence in his second trial yesterday before Judge Moncur, sitting in Judge Reeve's court. Arguments in the case were made by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Van Cott for the prosecution and S. S. Hahn for the defense.

Gianello was accused of the robbery on February 5, last, of Orrin N. Clark, manager of the Huntington Park Creamery, of $77.70. Testimony was adduced by the State that Jesse Taylor, now in Folsom prison, held up Clark with a revolver and jumped into an old, small car, driven by another man.

Mrs Clark, wife of the manager, a new witness, testified that she saw Taylor jump onto the running board of the car. Alex Bullay testified that he saw the car and that the driver was Gianello.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Phillips, brother-in-law and sister of Gianello, testified that the defendant was at the latter's ranch, near Huntington Park, at the time of the robbery.

ENTIRE PAWNSHOP SEIZED

A. Rishkin, Owner, Held on Suspicion as "Fence" and Store Booked as Evidence

An entire pawnshop at 629 South Main street was "booked as evidence" by police yesterday, after they had arrested A. Rishkin, the owner, on charges of suspicion of receiving stolen property and suspicion of robbing the United States mails.

Sergt. Norris and Officers Freeman, Deatherage and Remmerde locked the shop with Rishkin's keys, then used padlocks of their own on all the doors, and turned the keys over to the property clerk at Central Station.

VOLLMER WARNED

Rishkin's arrest came as a result of an investigation ordered by Chief Vollmer two weeks ago. The Chief became acquainted with Rishkin in Berkeley, and wrote to the Police Commission here, advising them not to issue him a pawnbroker's license. This advice was ignored.

In the shop officers say they found a large amount of silverware, blankets, kodaks and nineteen guns for which Rishkin could not account. Under a pile of clothing, they say, they discovered an empty United States mail sack.

TO MAKE CHECK

Several days ago Frank Hines was arrested as he came out of the shop on suspicion of burglary, and police say they found in his possession a quantity of silverware taken from the California Yacht Club. Three other persons have been arrested on suspicion of burglary during the past two weeks in or near the shop.

A complete check of the contents of the shop is to be made by the officers under direction of Sergt. Norris, in whose hands Chief Vollmer has placed the investigation. The sergeant said many gun parts have been sold from the shop in violation of the deadly-weapons law.

Boston Arrest Seventh in Week in Connection With Robbery Here

The arrest of Bert R. Chapman, one of twenty-two persons indicted last October by the Los Angeles Federal grand jury for asserted conspiracy in connection with the Herb Wilson $1,000,000 mail robbery, was announced in news dispatches from Boston yesterday. It was stated Chapman's arrest revealed the recovery at Boston of $300,000 worth of bonds stolen in the robbery.

It was expected authorities would seek Chapman's return to Los Angeles to face trial on the conspiracy charge against him.

HELD FOR HEARING

Chapman entered a plea of not guilty and was held in $5000 bail for a hearing. Warrants for the arrests of several others on the Los Angeles indictments are in the hands of the United States Marshal at Boston. One of the men wanted is Charles Solomon, who is serving a five-year term in Atlanta prison for subornation to perjury. Another warrant is for Frank Casso, who, postal inspectors have discovered, never existed but was created by the real criminals to confuse the investigators.

The stolen bonds were recovered by Boston postal inspectors at the Old Colony Trust Company, the First National Bank and the Second National Bank. The banks had received them from brokerage firms with which they had been left as collateral for loans. According to officials the first of the bonds recovered at Boston was passed in November, 1921, eight months after the Los Angeles robbery.

The apprehension of Chapman marks the seventh arrest within a week of persons asserted to have been implicated in the spectacular robbery, which was staged by the Herbert Wilson gang in Los Angeles, March 3, 1921. The other six men were arrested in Chicago on the 19th inst. None of the seven, it was said, was implicated in the actual robbery, but they were asserted to have been connected with the disposal of the loot taken.

In the robbery of the mail truck at First and Alameda streets, more than $1,000,000 in loot was taken. About $173,000 of this had been recovered up to yesterday. Most of this was in the form of negotiable securities and bonds.

Kimball, the first manager of the State Hospital at Patton and the founder of the Banksia Sanatorium on Santa Monica Boulevard, who died Sunday at his home in La Crescenta, will be conducted from the Little Church of the Flowers at Forest Lawn Cemetery today at 2 o'clock. The deceased was born in Coventry, Vt., in 1857. His father was a noted surgeon in the Northern Army during the Civil War and his mother died while serving as a nurse. He served as superintendent at Patton for seventeen years and shortly after retired from that position, opening the Banksia Sanatorium. He later retired on account of ill health. P. A. B. Widener Here Today for Shepherd Show

P. A. B. Widener of Elkins Park, Pa., who is to judge the exhibits of the third annual shepherd dog show to be held in the Charles Ray film studios at the junction of Sunset and Hollywood boulevards, arrived today. Widener is reputed one of the best-known judges and breeders in America. With him he is bringing his shepherd dog, Dolf, international champion and grand champion of America for 1923, and several other of his prize winners.

Work was rushed ahead on the Ray studios to have them ready for Saturday. A score of carpenters are at work altering the large stage so that the 214 dogs can be seen to best advantage. It was definitely announced last night that the show would be for only one day, as there were too many dogs participating from neighboring States and it is impossible for them to remain a longer period.

ACCUSED OF ACCOMPANYING GIRLS WHO RAN AWAY FROM HOME

Charged with having accompanied two runaway girls from San Francisco, Benjamin Roberts, 19 years of age, and Leo Ryan, 20 years of age, are being held in the City Jail accused of a statutory offense. The girls, 15 and 14 years of age, had been reported missing from their homes in the Bay City, police said, and a watch was being maintained for them. The girls are being held by the juvenile authorities until their parents are communicated with.

The youths were taken into custody last night a short distance from the Union Pacific depot when a detective questioned them regarding suit cases they had. They are reported to have told him the suit cases contained their "wives'" clothing. The girls were found at a rooming-house.

PICKPOCKETS DODGING CITY

"Pickin's Slim," Say Pair in Stockade Here

Methods of Light Fingers Revealed to Public

"Cannon Coppers" Too Wise in Los Angeles

"Slim pickin's."

That is how eastern and middle-western pickpockets refer to Los Angeles as a field for their light-fingered operations, according to "Blue Grass" and "The Erie Kid," two notorious pickpockets now serving six-month sentences in the Lincoln Heights stockade for petty larceny. "Blue Grass," otherwise James Marshall, and "The Erie Kid," otherwise Robert McDonald, received their sentences yesterday from Police Judge Chambers for "lifting" a $5 "poke."

Their references to the chances of "working the game" in Los Angeles and the operations of the local pickpocket squad in combating the "racket" are indicative of the opinions of pickpockets throughout the country. Coupled with the figures given out by Asst. Capt. O'Brien, head of the pickpocket and bunko detail of the detective bureau, they tell more, according to Chief Vollmer, of the decrease in this class of crime and the work accomplished by the pickpocket detail in Los Angeles, than any statement that he might make.

As "Blue Grass" in his cell at Lincoln Heigths stockade cryptically stated, "Los Angeles is good for nothing but 'mollbuzzers.'" "Mollbuzzers," in the parlance of the pickpocket, are the lowest class of this nefarious profession. They are the members of "the works" who are capable only of picking money from the purses of women.

DECREASE SHOWN

The figures given out by Capt. O'Brien shown that the pickpocket and bunko detail, consisting of Detective Lieutenants Murray, Hawtrey, Reed, and Shaffer, has made a total of twenty-eight arrests so far this month. Records show that there were forty-eight "raps" on pickpockets for the same time. Capt. O'Brien pointed out that nearly two-thirds of these complaints after being investigated were found to be cases where the asserted victims either lost their money or purses, or mislaid them in downtown stores.

In January, 1922, when Capt. O'Brien took charge of the pickpocket detail, the police received ninety-nine complaints of persons having had their pockets picked. Since that time there has been a steady decrease in the number reported.

All of the twenty-eight suspects arrested by the squad this month are men who have been "on the racket" for years, according to Capt. O'Brien. Due to long study and experience Capt. O'Brien and his men came to know and recognize nearly all of these pickpockets. When any one of them, or any "mob" of them "buzz" into town they are immediately found out by members of the squad and a strict surveillance is kept upon them. The pickpockets on their side come to know what they call the "cannon coppers," that is, members of the pickpocket detail, and knowing that they are not free to operate, either "lay down on the job" or "breeze" out of the city.

Many well-known pickpockets are arrested just as they are about to "lift a leather from a mark." Lacking the direct evidence to convict them on petty or grand larceny the police, knowing that these men are not engaged in any line of work, charge them with vagrancy.

One of the most efficient means of ridding the city of pickpockets, according to Capt. O'Brien, is the method of giving them commitments. The suspect pleads guilty to vagrancy. The police judge sentences him to 180 days in the City Jail but delays the execution of this sentence for twenty-four hours. The prisoner is released on his own recognizance and ordered to return at the end of the twenty-four hours. But instead of doing this he leaves the city. An order for his commitment is then issued by the judge, and the pickpocket knows that if he shows up again, he will be immediately recognized by the "cannon coppers," and arrested, and placed in jail to serve the 180 days. Such pickpockets, according to Capt. O'Brien, never return.

A further indication that Los Angeles is no garden of roses for pickpockets is the statement of "Blue Grass" and the "Erie Kid" that in their recent operations they know of no amateurs at the game. "The works," as they term the members of the pocket-picking gentry, are all "old hands," men who have been at the game for years.

CHANCES POOR

"The chances of getting away with the pokes in Los are punk," "Blue Grass" remarked when questioned yesterday. "They ain't nothing in it any more.' There's mebbe one or two 'mobs' what is getting away with the stuff, sometimes. But there's only a few places that a 'mob' can work. That's on street cars or in crowds on down-town streets. But the 'cannon coppers' here are too hep. A 'mob' can 'beat a pap' to the 'leather' and get away with it with the ordinary 'fuzz' lookin' on. But it's a twenty-to-one shot when the 'cannon coppers' are wise." A mob in the parlance of the pickpocket is a gang of three or four pickpockets working together. The "wire" or the "gun" is the man who does the actual lifting of the victim's money. A "pap," if he is a man, is the victim. The other men who work with the "wire" are known as the "stalls." The pickpockets refer to policemen in general as "the fuzz."

Long experience in combating this class of crime has shown, according to Capt. O'Brien, that pickpockets have precise methods of operating. They never attempt to lift "jug books," otherwise bank books, or watches. Watches and stick pins are considered by the professional pickpocket as "dynamite."

TOO LATE

It seems a mistake to place Lenin's body in a mirrored tomb. What good can it do now to have the poor, deluded dreamer see himself as others saw him?

ABOUT SYNTHETIC STATESMEN

We doubt that the Bourbon Democracy will have much say in the convention in New York, where the prevailing spirits are almost bound to be rye and Scotch.

HEAVY STUFF

A ship arrived in our harbor the other day with two chunks of Vermont marble weighing 45,000 pounds each included in the cargo. Any of our giants want to play marbles?

ONE A WEEK

The "Ten Commandments" has been holding down Hollywood for nine weeks and will undoubtedly pull through. One commandment a week seems quite a simple thing now.

CLEANING UP

They have been pinching the concessions at the beaches and nipping all the pinochle games in town. The sports say that a desperate attempt is being made to establish croquet as the national game and put all other pastimes out of business.

OVER THE BORDER

Congressman Swing is reported as being now eager for the adoption of a treaty that would move Tijuana fifty miles farther south. Some of his constituents would have a mighty long walk to quench their thirst. How would it do to have fifty-mile races at Tijuana and have the finish near the border?

BARBER US

In some of the big hotels and department stores the barber shops provided for patrons have more lady guests than males. The male barber is frequently preferred to the girl attendant in the beauty shop. He may be better at scissoring the locks and he is apt to be more thorough and efficient in administering the shampoo. The average woman would rather have her head treated by a man than by one of her own kind.

TAKE OFF THE MUZZLES

There is a definite movement looking to the abolishment of the use of the mask by the Ku Klux Klan and it will be considered at the next grand klavicle—or whatever it is that the Klansmen hold when they get together. It is claimed that a major portion of the knocks upon the Klan are directed at the dangerous anonymity of the muzzle or hood. If the kleagles went about their business in an open-faced manner good citizens would not be so emphatic in their remonstrance at the movements of the order. The nightshirt is not for street wear.

THE YOUNG IDEA

According to the researches of one of the professors, the girl students at the Chicago University read more "trashy" literature than the male pupils. The boys will be reading books of science, history or biography while the girls are going through a bunch of spicy French novels. In cigarettes the tastes are growing more alike. Formerly the girls wanted the Turkish or perfumed Egyptian smokes, but now they are taking the same coffin nails as the boys. Possibly they want all they can get for a dime. If this information affords a better understanding of our loved ones folks are welcome to it. The professor is still browsing around.

CHAMP CLARK'S GRAVE

Last November a story was circulated that Senator Frank Willis stopped off at the home town of his old friend, Champ Clark, to view the grave of the late famous Democratic leader, only to find the memory of the man who once came within a few votes of the Presidency apparently forgotten and his last resting place seemingly unhonored.

The report ran that the grave was unmarked, the little burial ground choked with weeds and that even the neighbors did not seem sure where the bones of the great Missourian were laid. The picture presented was a reflection on the way in which nations forget after death those who in life rendered them valuable service. It was especially hurtful to the pride in their State of native Missourians.

We are glad, therefore, to find out that the grave of so illustrious a statesman has not been neglected and that his body is receiving the posthumous honors his national prominence deserves. A friend of his widow's, writing from Bowling Green, Mo., presents a very different view of the spot where rests all that is mortal of the Democratic leader. She writes:

"The Clarks have a beautiful lot on hillside of cemetery, with a stone wall all around it, and the grave is marked with a small granite monument, just what he wanted. But the family are having another monument made; it was to have been erected at the time of home-coming, but it wasn't finished. The Bowling Green people have a monument fund—will erect one to his memory in Courthouse yard."

CONVERSATIONAL GOVERNMENT

Ramsay Macdonald, the new British Premier, is shattering British diplomatic traditions with a wagging tongue. He has retained for himself the portfolio of Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs; and he is busy telling the foreign correspondents in London what he is going to do. He is convinced that the affairs of the world are wrong and that he and his followers know how to set them right.

Apparently he has not yet learned that it is the duty of the head of a government to act and to let others do the talking. But he is so hampered by having only a minority following in the House of Commons that he is in no position to dictate legislation; so his government promises to be chiefly one of conversation.

In his first statement to the press he did not hesitate to criticise severely the present policy of the French government, which he accused of pursuing fallen Germany in a spirit of revenge to the point where it has closed the German industries and brought enforced idleness both to the working classes of Germany and Great Britain. He said:

> \The occupation of the Ruhr benefits no one and contains Germany's greatest calamity. If the present situation is long continued France will see what security the Ruhr has for her.

Coming from a Premier, that is significant language. England and France are far from the days of the Entente Cordiale. Such language a generation ago would have possessed serious significance; for the words can easily be construed into a threat of armed intervention. France would be justified in taking measures for her protection, in contracting alliances for the purpose of common defense against her late ally.

But all Europe knows that Macdonald is not in position to bring about any marked change in British policy. It requires the consent of the Commons to declare war or to make preparations for war. The new Premier is well aware of this; and he purposes to accomplish the things he desires through peaceful means. And for this the rest of the world can be grateful.

Macdonald and his Labor supporters are strong League of Nations men. He advocated receiving Germany and Russia as members of the League and submitting the whole reparations question to the League for final adjudication. France has already announced that it will withdraw from the League if such action is taken; but Macdonald is of the opinion that the peace of Europe would be more secure if Germany and Russia were League members, even if France should temporarily withdraw.

In relation to American affairs Macdonald has asserted that there will be full cooperation with the American authorities in suppressing the illicit liquor traffic. In one of his addresses he said, "We shall not permit the English liquor interests longer to endanger friendly relations between the two great Anglo-Saxon peoples."

Already sobered by a brief authority, the British Labor party is developing marked conservative tendencies. Its leaders have discarded their red masks and their radical policies, for the moment at least, and are making haste slowly. One senses the guiding hand of Asquith back of Macdonald.

TRENCHES IN THE STREETS

Although nobody expects war, or wants war, it is well to be prepared. Los Angeles is fully prepared. It has a complete system of entrenchments. If you don't believe it, try driving an automobile down any public street. Preferably one newly and expensively paved. It will be found to be just one darn ditch after another.

The various gas companies and the Water Bureau and the telephone linemen and the divers and several other functionaries whose mission in life is to spoil new streets seem possessed of an unerring instinct. As surely as a homing pigeon can find its roost they can find a newly paved street upon which the asphalt is still smoking. With demoniacal glee they fall upon it; turn its insides up to the startled skies and go home with the satisfaction of knowing that every auto that comes that way has a fine chance to break a spring.

In a city growing and expanding as rapidly as Los Angeles it goes without saying that there must be a great deal of street work. Just so, it is all the more important that the business of tearing up the streets should be accomplished with some degree of system.

It would seem that it should be possible for both corporations and individuals needing pipes laid to anticipate their needs to a greater extent. Also it would seem that there must be some way to prevent these ditches lying open—menaces to the traffic for weeks at a time.

In one other particular there is room for firm improvement. For some reason, not at all clear, paving companies are allowed too free a hand in closing up streets at their own free will. It is the experience of every automobile driver that these "Street Closed" signs are often put up blocks away from the actual work.

Generally speaking, it would seem that a street should be closed to traffic only on the authority of the police and then only for the shortest possible space of time. A street closed by order of a house-mover seems a somewhat too free and easy delegation of authority.

REWRITING CLASSICS

Art is long and dimes are fleeting,
But the gravy's not the goal.
Nothing counts but coin and eating
Was not spoken of the soul.

Now that there is such a fad for rewriting things in modern language that even the Bible has not escaped it and there is also a much-talked-of revival of poetry, wouldn't it be a good time to rewrite the old poets? Nearly everybody who has ever written poetry has had occasion to lament the fact that the old poets said it all—left nothing to say except in so far as it can be said in a new way. Even the newest of the new poets honor that assertion by constant practice. The old poets, therefore, must be worth reading, even though so few of us read them.

Take the verse beginning this, for example. Isn't it precisely the thought which Longfellow expressed? Isn't it even expressed in the same meter? And yet how different! Even a flapper or a flipper or a young intellectual could understand it and get some kick out of it. And isn't it the aim of all the new art to take something as old as the hills which were created in the morning and evening of the first day and put some modern kick in it?

Then take Shakespeare. He's pretty hard for a good many of us to take nowadays, but let's take him, anyway. And if Will Rogers, say, could be induced to edit Shakespeare up to date we at least wouldn't have to read a passage over four times to know what it meant.

And Shakespeare surely needs modernizing. It ought to be a feminine character, for instance, and not Iago who cries "Who steals my purse steals trash." It would instantly make us vision a day-old transfer, a stick of gum, a powder puff and three hairpins. And "Hamlet," to reach an audience of tired b.m.'s, should talk like this:

To play the game or quit—say, what's the answer?
Whether it's gamer in the dome to suffer
The swats and wallops of luck tough as Dempsey
Or draw my gat, or walk into an auto
(Matic or mobile—both alike are deadly)
And call it half a day, but quitting time.

Lots of folks who read Hamlet's soliloquy don't thoroughly understand it now. But in language like that any modern child could "get" it.

"The Goblin Will Get You if You Don't Support My Policies"

KEEPING YOUNG

At last the medicos have offered the women a health recipe that will make them popular. They have recently formulated a code of rules which, followed to the letter, will enable a woman of 40 to appear as youthful as a girl of 20. The prime point which they emphasize is that it is housework that produces an aged effect early in life on the woman who performs it.

Complete abolition of housework, plenty of rest and sleep and freedom from worry are essential to the woman who would preserve youth's fleeting charms. Otherwise her nerve force will be exhausted early in life, and it is the nervous system which determines whether milady will continue young and spry or will be relegated to the corner. Very mild forms of household tasks, such as flipping a few specks of dust off of the piano or arranging the magazines on the living-room table, are all right for the frail physique of the fragile female, but harder tasks must be avoided if she is to maintain a vampish aspect throughout the middle years. In this feminist age it is better for the lord and master to perish of indigestion on food from the corner delicatessen than for his spouse to be crushed beneath the weight of the awful knowledge that she looks like her true age.

TILL LIFE RUNS SMOOTHLY

The high cost of living will be materially lessened 400 years from now, according to J. B. S. Haldane, the youthful scientist who has surprised his learned elders in England with his cleverness. It is heartening to learn that there is a possibility of prices coming down within the next few centuries.

This will be accomplished, he says, by means of gathering food substances from such seemingly hopeless sources as coal and atmospheric nitrogen. Machines will be tuned up that will extract a delicious and nutritious meal from these, thus further emancipating suffering womanhood from the fatigue of preparing the evening meal.

While his fellow-scientists were somewhat skeptical regarding the coal-products menu, they were heartily in accordance with his prognostication that harnessed wind power will provide electricity for the household, thus cutting down the lighting bills and enabling industry to operate more cheaply. "The country," opines the young professor, "will be covered with rows of metallic windmills, working electric motors, which in their turn will supply current at a very high voltage to great electric mains." Since nothing is cheaper than wind and air, it will be seen that lighting and food will be a negligible item in those far-away days. And, if the women continue to wear less and less clothing yearly, by the time this era is reached the cost of bedecking the fair sex should be quite as small.

THE LABORER AND HIS HIRE

Signs of the changed times are seen in the billposters' strike in San Francisco. At present they are worrying along on $44 for a five-and-a-half-day week, which they consider insufficient compensation.

Many a learned professor toiling in the State university across the bay would gladly exchange his remuneration for that which the billposters scorn. And the unfortunate educator is forced to maintain a standard of living far more expensive than the laborer's. He must also acquire an expert academic training to fit himself for the position he occupies. And there can be no doubt that he is more useful in his calling than the man who pastes up posters.

One of the adjustments society needs is to approximate the value of each class of work and remunerate the toiler accordingly. The laborer has no especial grievance who can earn a wage of $8 a day for unskilled work.

IMPOSSIBLE HAPPENING?

Had you noticed that the man who a couple of months ago was loudly asserting that bootlegging never could be controlled now is given to frequent mutterings that it is getting doggoned hard to get a drink?

HOW IT STARTED

BY JEAN NEWTON

Insurance

Although insurance has come to be an integral and inseparable part of modern business, it is of very ancient origin. For the idea of insurance had its beginning in the marine loans of the ancient Greeks. These constituted a rather indirect form of insurance, to be sure, for money was advanced a trader on the cargo of his ship, the debt to be considered null if anything happened to the ship. The point was that the rate of interest paid was sufficient to pay for the use of the money and also the risk of losing it.

The first record of direct insurance for a premium paid, also on marine risks, is in the thirteenth century in Flanders and Portugal. The oldest legal document in existence relating to insurance, incidentally, consists of the ordinances by the Magistrates of Barcelona, in 1435, regulating the business of marine insurance.

It is interesting to note that life insurance, too, was at one time only a minor detail of marine insurance. For the success or failure of a voyage depending largely on the captain, the owners of a ship and its cargo would insure themselves not only against the uncertainties of the sea, but also against the death of the captain during the voyage.

RIPPLING RHYMES

THE HOOSEGOW

The City Jail's an evil place, all full of deadly smells, and sad-eyed mortals in disgrace look out from musty cells; young men and old, in dismal case, who might be wearing bells. And more are coming every day to swell the frowsy throng, the glowing youth, the dotard gray, who chose the path of wrong; and they might all be blithe and gay, their lives a grand sweet song. "This jail was built to hold ten score," observes the warden blue; "it holds five hundred now, or more, there's not a vacant pew; and still we're swinging wide the door to take in convicts new." Oh, chee, it is a fearful sight, this drab imprisoned mob! It fills my bosom with affright, I heave an anguished sob; why did these men forsake the right to slay or cheat or rob? I do not see how any jay can visit in a jail and not be then impelled to say, "Crime's useless, beastly, stale; henceforth I'll tread the righteous way and earn untainted kale." I do not see how any guy can languish in a cell and not resolve to bravely try to quit the path to hell, when he may breathe free air and cry to prison doors, "Farewell." WALT MASON.

PEN POINTS

By the Staff

There is not a single stormy petrel visible in the Republican skies.

The country has definitely made up its mind not only to keep cool, but to keep Coolidge.

A Pennsylvania dentist has been appointed surgeon-dentist to the Prince of Wales and when the young man wants a "crown" he knows where he can get it.

The new Chief of Police is enforcing the Volstead law in Philadelphia. Indicating that where there is a will there is a way. Will other chiefs please take note?

President Coolidge wears no overcoat during the wintry blasts in Washington. Congress no doubt furnishes plenty of heat on the inside, so that he has no need of the coat.

It is believed that the purse offered by New York will be sufficient to pay the debts of the Democratic National Committee. At least that is the fond hope of the creditors of the organization.

Ambassador Kellogg is making a hit in London, even if he does not wear the Harvey style of high-water plush pants. Official England knows how to play the game. They usually know on what side their bread is buttered.

Senator Pat Harrison, the Mississippi firebrand, is going around the country collecting a lecture fee for declaring that the Coolidge administration is a failure. And Pat knows a failure when he see it—in the glass every morning.

The income-tax blank is shorter than ever this year, a situation that is of no especial comfort to the army of "experts" who have made a lot of money deciphering the intricate provisions of the old blank. But it is a situation that appeals to the common folk. The short blank makes it possible for a taxpayer to know how badly he is nicked early in the work of the preparation of the return.

The prominence of John W. Davis of West Virginia in the list of Democratic dark horses recalls the fact that in 1904 West Virginia had the honor of the second place on the Democratic national ticket, when Henry G. Davis was nominated for Vice-President, with Judge Alton B. Parker of New York, the Sage of Aesopus, as President. John W. Davis was Ambassador to Great Britain during the Wilson administration, has been a member of Congress and Solicitor-General of the United States. Besides, he has a "bar'l," a very necessary thing in these days of up-to-date politics.

THIS IS THE DAY

An attempt to assassinate President Jackson was made in the year 1835. He was crossing the rotunda of the Capitol on his way to his carriage when a man named Richard Lawrence snapped a pistol at him from a distance of eight feet. The pistol missed fire. The would-be assassin was tried for attempted murder and adjudged insane.

Gov. Goebel of Kentucky was assassinated in the year 1900.

DESERT PROSP

BY WILLARD

Every member of the Ancient and Honorable Order of Prospectors is clever beyond belief in getting initiates to join his organization. Their opportunities for getting new members are not many, but their skill in salesmanship is marvelous. Nobody was ever asked to join their organization, more often than not they will try to discourage you from thinking of doing such a foolish thing, but the next moment they will be telling you of a lost mine somewhere or the story of how such and such a wonderful mine came to be discovered, and in five minutes they can have you in such a frame of mind that you would trade all your earthly possessions for a couple of burros and a grubstake.

All men are gamblers at heart, almost all are gamblers by profession. A man plowing a field is a gambler because he is merely betting that it is going to rain. The man who takes a couple of burros and goes out to prospect has a much more interesting sort of gamble because he is betting that he can find a treasure that has been hidden since the beginning of time and which may be worth anything from a few hundreds or thousands up to many millions. If a farmer could plant a field with the knowledge that, if conditions were favorable enough, he might harvest 1000 bushels of wheat to an acre farming would be a much more popular sport. It is really a puzzle to me sometimes why the desert and mountains are not literally infested with prospectors.

FINDING THE SILVER REEF

Do you know how the Silver Reef mine at Leeds was found? I do, and I heard the story in an old, old ranch house hidden away in the red sandstone hills of Southern Utah. I cannot tell the story as well as it was told to me nor can I throw in such magic as was embroidered in it by the great desert stars that looked in under the porch and by the little breeze that blew from hills washed clean no longer ago than sundown by a great thunderstorm. But, anyhow:

There was an assayer once in Pioche, Nev., when Pioche was a prosperous camp. Prospectors from far and near brought him samples to assay and, as the months went by, some of them began to get suspicious of the assayer's ability or honesty, for the returns he gave them seemed to be too consistently good. It seemed that, no matter how doubtful the rock they brought in, that it always showed good values, better, in fact, than they were able to get from other assayers when they sent their samples elsewhere and better than their tests by horning would indicate.

ASSAYING A GRINDSTONE

Finally one day a number of prospectors happened to meet in a Pioche saloon and the talk turned to ability of the assayer. One of the prospectors said he would make a test that would show whether the assayer was capable or not. So he left the saloon and went over to one of the mills, where he had seen a broken grindstone lying beside one of the buildings, and he broke off a piece of the grindstone and took it to the assayer and kept a piece of the stone for himself. In a couple of days he went back and the assayer, all smiles, handed him the result. The grindstone had assayed something like $1200 a ton in silver!

Here was evidence, damning and inescapable, of the complete incompetence or dishonesty of the Pioche assayer. The prospector hastily called a mass meeting of his friends and presented the evidence. A committee of the whole immediately waited upon the assayer and advised him urgently to leave town before sunset as the night air would certainly prove fatal to him if he remained. So the assayer hastily packed his belongings and departed on the afternoon stage. And still, in face of the fact that he had found this ridiculous value in a barren grindstone, he had the nerve to protest to the last that he had made a true and accurate assay of its content.

ASTONISHING DISCOVERY

It happened that the stage a few days later brought another assayer to Pioche. He came with a view to establishing an office and he was made welcome by the prospectors who were anxious to see an honest assayer established in town. Everywhere he went in Pioche the new assayer was told the story, which now had become a humorous classic in Pioche, of how his predecessor had been run out of town for getting a $1200 assay in silver from a worthless grindstone.

Maybe the new assayer did not have enough of a sense of humor. Maybe he had a certain sense of loyalty to others of his craft. But the thing puzzled him more and more as to how any man who pretended even to be an assayer could get a $1200 return from a grindstone and what possible object he could have had in deliberately making such a false and ridiculous return. Anyhow, he made casual inquiry where the broken grindstone was and, after he had set up his assay office, he went over quietly one night and broke another piece off the shattered stone and took it home and assayed it. When he weighed the button that remained in the cupel he could scarcely believe the evidence of his eyes. The worthless grindstone showed an assay of almost $1200 in silver.

A METAL MIRACLE

Now in those days mineralogists believed sandstone to be invariably barren of any metal content. Nowhere in the world had sandstone ever been found that was enriched with any mineral value. The assayer tried another piece of grindstone and still the value showed the same. Here was a completely impossible but highly interesting situation.

Next day the assayer made more casual inquiries. Where did the grindstones in that country come from, with freights so high and railroads so distant? The Mormon freighters brought them up from St. George, he was told, along with

DR. SPAETH IN KHJ LECTURE

Common Sense in Music is Subject of Talk

California Girls' Quartet in Night Program

Italian Tenor Shows Range of Voice

Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, musical critic, lecturer and authority, gave his initial lecture-recital over KHJ last night. Dr. Spaeth has long been noted in the East for his musical criticisms and articles in Boston and New York newspapers, although his fame as a lecturer has been gained more recently. During the war Dr. Spaeth won great success as a song leader and director of community singing. His reputation for interesting an audience was well sustained by the choice of "Common Sense in Music" as a subject for discussion before a radio audience. A sense of hun.or, coupled with much information on the subject, made the lecture interesting to the radio fan. Dr. Spaeth used his musicianship to great advantage by illustrating the points in his lecture on the piano.

Last winter the California Girls' Quartet appeared on a night program at this station and received numerous letters of appreciation from all parts of the country. A short while ago they gave a matinee concert that pleased many California listeners, but was not heard generally throughout the country. For their friends of last winter, as well as all of Radioland, the young ladies presented a group of songs last night. The quartet is composed of Rachel Graves Smith, first soprano and soloist; Margaret Wilson, second soprano and pianist; Madge Becker [illegible], first alto; Beatrice Hovde, second alto and soloist, and Helen Boone, accompanist. Quartet numbers were rendered in absolute harmony and with clear enunciation.

NEW TENOR SINGS

Rachel Graves Smith and Beatrice Hovde, with Margaret Wilson at the Knabe, sang "By the Waters of Minnetonka," by Lieurance. Their voices are clear and melodious, while their singing was replete with sympathy and understanding. In a solo, Rachel Graves ,Smith showed the purity of her soprano and Beatrice Hovde has a contralto voice of rich fullness, as displayed in "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," by Saint-Saens. As a trio, Miss Smith, Miss Wilson and Miss Hovde, with Helen Boone at the piano, the girls were equally successful.

Eddie Tomaso, pianist, played two Chopin preludes with skill and much artistry. Salvatore Tomaso, famous mandolinist, accompanied by Miss Tomaso, gave "Salut d'Amour," by Elgar, in an accomplished style. Other numbers by the Tomasos met with an enthusiastic reception. On the occasion of their last appearance here the Tomasos received numerous requests for further appearances.

[illegible] Gheno is a tenor whose rise within the last year or two has been unusual. Mr. Gheno is an Italian of undoubted musical ability and has remarkable attainments to his credit for one who is so recent an arrival in the musical world as he. Accompanied by Vivian Allen, she showed great voice flexibility in operatic selections. "[illegible]-Mari" from "La Donna e Mobile," by Verdi, and "Di Quella Pira," also by Verdi, showed an artistry that is indeed rare.

HAWAIIAN MUSIC

Dr. Thomas Lutman, lecturer and pastor of the Mesa Congregational Church, delivered an interesting talk on "How to Make Your Ship Come In." Dr. Lutman is a favorite among KHJ listeners and has many ardent admirers who listen to his voice, but have never seen him.

Miss Durkee on Tonight

The noon program yesterday was presented by Dorothy Blaney, pianist, pupil of Lehvne, Ruth Thomas, contralto, and Anton Chris, who plays the Hawaiian guitar. Miss Blaney is new to KHJ audiences, but proved herself a welcome addition to any group of radio entertainers. The Debussy "Arabesque" was played with skill and finish that demonstrated her ability as an artist.

Mrs. Thomas has a melodious contralto voice that appeared to very good advantage in two songs, "My Ain Folk," by Laura Lemon, and "The Star," by Rogers. Mrs. Harry Payne was very capable as her accompanist.

CONTRALTO PLEASES

The selections by Anton Chris on the Hawaiian guitar were full of interest and spirit. The "Hula Medley" with which he opened his program, showed true appreciation of Hawaiian music. Several other numbers "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," "Yodel Song" and "Stars and Stripes Forever," were played skillfully, and kept the interest of the listener.

The fifth of a series of talks on "Truth in Advertising," by Ferris R. Miller of the Better Business Bureau, was delivered yesterday noon.

Dorothy Blaney and Ruth Thomas presented the matinee program, giving an entertaining afternoon of music to radio listeners. Miss Blaney was especially pleasing in Poldini's "Marche Mignonne," and "Watteau," by Godowsky. Mrs. Thomas accompanied by Mrs. Harry Payne, sang "Sunset" by Dudley Buck with all the expression of a rich contralto voice. The entire program was one to hold a radio audience, which demands the best in entertainment.

COUSIN JIM AGAIN

Beloved Cousin Jim, friend of all children, entertained the little ones during their hour, with the able assistance of Carl Peterson, pianist; Eugene Lamb, accompanist, and the Sandman, who dropped in to broadcast a few handfuls of sleep-inducing sand. Mr. Peterson gave several piano solos with a sympathy that not only pleased the youngsters, but delighted that vast older audience which shares the children's hour, with an enjoyment that belies age. Liszt's "Liebestraum," in particular, was played with great feeling. Harry James Beardsley, known to Radioland as Cousin Jim, won new admirers with his tasteful program. Cousin Jim has been a friend of KHJ for many months, and an evening arranged by him is always hailed with enthusiasm. He gives the songs everyone loves in a splendid baritone. By special request he sang the "Chinese Love Song." Mr. Beardsley is a gifted young man who has written a number of poems on every-day life, full of a quaint philosophy that pleases and entertains even as it instructs, and it was a real pleasure to have him with us again last night. By announcing us again last night. He read a delightful little poem entitled "Before You Go," by Roscoe Denny. It is dedicated to Carrie Jacobs Bond, who left last night for Hawaii. By announcing his own programs, Cousin Jim always gives just the touch of informality that best pleases his youthful listeners.

The Sandman, in passing by The Times Building, dropped in to pay a short visit to the studio and greeted his radio friends before he hurried on to scatter grains of soporific sand. Little Queen Titania made a short visit and was greeted enthusiastically.

OFFICERS WIN RIGHT TO RETIRE

Eight Complete Double Decade of Service With Local Force Today

Eight policemen will "come of age" at the same hour today; that is, they will have served each twenty years and be eligible for retirement, and it is admitted that they should take advantage of it without notice Chief Vollmer's staff would be disorganized for a few days.

All eight were sworn in at the same time, when the Los Angeles police force numbered 100 men. They are Captain of Detectives George Home, who heads the detective bureau; Asst. Capt. Tom O'Brien, head of the pickpocket and bunko squad; Second Deputy Chief Charles Johnson, Detective-Lieutenants Eddie King, Charles Jarvis and Wiley Murphy, and Assistant Jailer George Fisher.

None of the eight intends to retire.

Editor Made Defendant in Unusual Case

Dr. Carl Weiss, editor and publisher of the California Tribune, a German-language newspaper of this city, was charged with violation of the statutes regulating the secrecy of telegraphic messages in a complaint issued yesterday by Dept. Dist.-Atty. Vohayda. The complaint contains three counts and is one of the few of such nature ever issued in Los Angeles county.

Dr. Weiss, it is charged, sent a telegram to the secretary of a German lodge at Montana and signed the name of another person to the message. The reply to this message, the complaint asserts, was received by Dr. Weiss and published by him in his paper. The three counts in the complaint are that Dr. Weiss opened a telegram addressed to another, that he published this telegram, and that he sent a telegram in the name of another person.

Southland Farm Film Will Help Near East Young

California methods of horticulture and agriculture, depicted in three reels of motion pictures recently sent overseas by the Near East Relief Commission, will go far in demonstrating to more than 100,000 youths of Asia Minor countries the possibilities in lands now lying idle in a climate similar to that of the Pacific-Southwest, according to the local chapter of the relief agency.

The reels are descriptive of California orange growing, bean raising and sugar beet culture and are being contributed by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and the California Fruit Growers' Exchange.

The films will be projected at Near East Relief centers in Syria, Greece, Armenia and Palestine under the auspices of a committee composed of Henery Morgenthau, former Ambassador to Turkey; Cleveland H. Dodge, James L. Barton, Charles V. Vickrey, John H. Finley, Myron T. Herrick and fifty other leading Americans.

"For the present," says Mr. Vickrey, who is world secretary of the relief organization, "these California films are to be shown at American orphanages and schools in and around Alexandropol, Trans-Caucasia, where more than 17,000 children are being taught useful trades. Later the pictures will be shown in Greece, Syria and Palestine."

The purpose in sending this film, say relief officials, is to bring vividly before the people of the old Bible lands and especially the youth of the area the modern methods of developing the agricultural and horticultural possibilities of their own lands at present lying dormant and needing the inspiration of the knowledge of California's way of doing things in a climate that is practically the same as that of the eastern Mediterranean.

Rented Car Ends Honeymoon; Jail as Sequel

Alvis P. Yates, young bridegroom, was held for trial in the Superior Court under $2000 bail yesterday by Justice Blake on a charge of embezzlement. His wife, Pauline Yates, a bride of a few weeks, was turned over to the juvenile authorities.

It is charged that Yates rented a small car from the Savoy Livery Company on the 18th inst. and with his bride set out for a honeymoon trip. The machine was not returned and the bridegroom's arrest followed. The case was prosecuted by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Lucas.

GIRL TSTIFIES AT LAUNDRYMAN TRIAL

A jury in Judge Shenk's court yesterday began hearing evidence in the case of J. J. Bradford, official of a local laundry, charged with attacking a 17-year-old Long Beach girl. She was an employee of the laundry and was the principal witness for the State at yesterday's session. The case is expected to go to the jury some time today.

Y.M.C.A. Safe Broken Open; Cash Missing

Theft of $1500 in cash and negotiable checks from the safe of the Young Men's Christian Association, Seventh and Hope streets, was reported yesterday to the police. The amount represented Monday's receipts at the "Y" cafeteria.

Detective Lieutenants Pratt and Evans, who investigated, were told the safe was carried from the office while the clerk, A. Ferguson, was upstairs on an errand, and taken into the auditorium of the building, where it was broken open. The looted safe was then hidden beneath a pile of chairs and benches.

The detectives are still investigating.

Educators Plan Conference on Advanced Ideas

A joint conference on educational research and vocational guidance will open at the Y.M.C.A. auditorium in Pasadena, February 8, under the auspices of the Southern California Research Association and the Southern California Vocational Guidance Association.

The sessions will contnue for two days, with many noted educators and scientists from various sections of the country on the program. The purpose of the conference is to bring together teachers and others interested in the recently developed practical trends in the education and training of children. Special emphasis will be placed during the conference on the use of scientific methods of classification, grading and promotion in the schools.

DAMAGE SUIT WITH JUDGE

Judge Hardy yesterday took under advisement the damage suit, asserting false arrest, brought by Campbell Richards against Mr. and Mrs. A. H. DENOUNCES HUSBAND

Judge Criticizes Man For Calling Wife Thief

Herbert E. Bott received a lecture from Judge Summerfield yesterday when he came into court asking for the custody of his 4-year-old child, now with the wife, Mrs. Mary Bott. He is suing for divorce, asserting that she nagged him.

Bott accused his wife of stealing, of running away, and of forgery. Many witnesses, both for the man and his wife, later told of how she had forged a check and stolen a few trinkets while mentally incompetent some years ago. She was missing from home for several days, eventually being discovered in a hotel, witnesses said.

Judge Summerfield told Bott he should have been ashamed to come into court and accuse his wife of being a thief. The child, he ruled, should stay with the mother.

Senator and Mrs. J. A. Rominger announce the betrothal of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Rominger, to Mr. Wallace Milton McGrew, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. McGrew, of Long Beach.

The announcement was made at a luncheon at the Rominger home in Long Beach on Saturday to sixteen friends. The table was beautiful with dainty blossoms in the pastel shades and a corsage for each guest. Later, while coffee was being served in the drawing-room, the guests were presented with tiny scrolls announcing the betrothal and almost simulaneously a messenger arrived with a bouquet of orchids in which was concealed the engagement ring.

Miss Rominger attended Mills College and is a graduate of Stanford. The wedding will take place in the spring. Among friends asked to hear the pleasant news were three Los Angeles debutantes, the Misses Violet Andrews, Dorothy Hulburt and Ann Esgen.

GAS POISONING

It is not at all uncommon to see reports in the daily papers of persons dying from gas poisoning. There have been reports recently of whole families being exterminated in this manner, so I think we had better have an article on the subject. Gas poisoning acts so quickly that persons are often overcome before they realize the danger, so, obviously, the thing to do is to prevent it.

Do not consider lightly any odor of leaking gas, but notify your local gas company immediately. And be careful not to stay in a room with this odor without a plentiful supply of fresh air. Flexible rubber tubing is dangerous because it rapidly becomes porous, so it is much safer to have metal tubing.

Gas leaks and gas heaters, including gas logs, gas radiators, and gas water heaters, are the biggest killers, but coal stoves and ranges and automobiles also may be dangerous.

Carbon monoxide (one part carbon combined with one part oxygen) is given off when artificial or natural gas or coal is not burned completely; that is, when sufficient oxygen is not given so that a gas forms, composed of one part carbon and two parts oxygen—carbon dioxide, better known as carbonic acid gas.

Now, carbonic acid gas is not dangerous in small amounts. It is the waste gas that is driven off in small amounts from our lungs. When shut up in a room with many people, there is enough carbonic acid gas thrown off to make one feel oppressed and stifled, but he revives quickly in the air.

Carbon monoxide, on the other hand, even in small amounts, is very pernicious. After breathing this one does not recover quickly in the open air, and, if not sufficient to cause death, illness for hours or days may result. As you know, this gas act so quickly that the victim may be overcome before he realizes his danger. The reason for this is that the monoxide actually becomes a part of the red blood corpuscles and combines with their oxygen in such a way that they cannot give up the oxygen to the tissues.

Gas heaters perhaps cause the most frequent deaths. There are two kinds of gas heaters, the blue-flame or non-luminous type, and the bright flame, luminous type. In the blue flame type, if there is sufficient air supplied at the mixer, or air adjustment, the gas goes on to complete combustion. This type of heater should always have a flue

SENTENCE OF KILLER DEFERRED

New Trial Argument in Jack Ferdinand Case to be Heard Friday

Passing of the death sentence on Jack Ferdinand, one of three convicted slayers of Charles A. Chapman, young insurance broker, was forestalled yesterday in Judge Avery's court when Deputy Public Defender Fulcher, counsel for the condemned man, moved for a retrial of the case.

Judge Avery set February 1 as the date for hearing and ruling on arguments on the motion. Fulcher told the court he would base his plea for a new trial on legal technicalities relating to the admissibility of certain evidence read into the record during the sensational case.

In the meantime, Ferdinand is being heavily guarded in his cell at the County Jail, as are John Sears and John Geregac, also found guilty of first-degree murder without recommendation for participation in the Chapman murder.

Unless Judge Avery grants a new trial for Ferdinand, the death sentence will be imposed at the conclusion of arguments Friday, and the convicted gangster will be taken to San Quentin penitentiary, there to await execution by hanging.

Sears and Geregac, the first two accomplices in a murder ever to have a hanging verdict returned against them, are scheduled to come before Judge Avery today for judgment and sentence.

Nathan Goldberg, attorney for the pair, said yesterday he intended to ask for a new trial for his clients, and if refused, to appeal the case to the Supreme Court.

Faces Charge of Wholesale Drug Dealings

Federal narcotic agents yesterday arrested Douglas H. Johnson in a rooming-house at Sixth and Hope streets on a charge of wholesale dealing in drugs. The agents purchased $10 worth of morphine from Johnson, and a search of his room disclosed the presence of a large quantity of the contraband they declared.

It is asserted that Johnson has been supplying dealers with dope, obtaining his supply from smugglers, who operate between Tijuana and Los Angeles. It is said that he has been dispensing narcotics to many addicts, most of whom went to Johnson's room.

BURGLARS LOOT HOME

Mrs. Manny Striebe of 304 North Cummings street reported yesterday to the police that burglars had entered her hame and stolen $3000 in jewelry and clothing.

Lundin-leaf makes room for parties

by MARY KIRKWOOD

MODERN women don't have to carry extra table leaves to the attic or pantry. When the meal is over, and dancing's in order, a moment and the table grows smaller.

The modern day table—LUNDIN-LEAF—carries its fillers with it. Spread it and swing the leaves in place. That is all; one simple operation and this time-saver widens or shrinks to fit the meal and its feasters.

The LUNDIN-LEAF insures perfect-fitting fillers—hand fitted and matched with the rest of the top. No chance for swelling or warping for leaves are always in the dining room—hidden. They're guaranteed for the life of the table.

There is a furniture store in your town that displays LUNDIN-LEAF tables and dining room suites. They come in Queen Anne, Italian, Cromwellian and Windsor designs; walnut and mahogany finish. Ask or send for our booklet of period designs if your furniture store has not yet a full line.

In December the City Council of Los Angeles, through the plea of the California History and Landmarks Club, the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West and the Ebell Club of Los Angeles, purchased lots 16 and 17 of the Universal City Tract, city of Los Angeles, this being the site where the articles of capitulation were signed January 13, 1847, by Lieut.-Col. John C. Fremont and Gen. Andres Pico in the old adobe Casa de Cahuenga. The signing of this document brought peace to California and when ratified by Mexico made of it a United States possession through the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo on February 2, 1848.

Appearing on the program for the afternoon are representatives of the Los Angeles city and county governments; Mrs. Grantland Seaton Long, president of The Ebell of Los Angeles; Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles, past president of the State Federation; Florence Dodson Schoneman, Adolph G. GEM BANDIT PAIR TRACED BY OFFICERS

Arrest of Men Who Robbed Biltmore Party of $15,000 in Jewelry Expected

Police, earching for two automobile bandits who at about 1 a.m. yesterday held up a party of six prominent men and women, taking from them $15,800 in cash and jewelry, announced last night that they had uncovered a number of strong leads to the identity of the desperadoes.

The hold-up took place in front of the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. I. Dowd at 508 South Occidental Boulevard. In the party were Dr. Dowd and his wife; Joe Toplitzky, real estate operator, and his wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Canfield of 615 South Manhattan Place. Their car had just drawn up in front of Dr. Dowd's residence when the bandits drew up a small car and covered the members of the party with guns.

Detective Lieutenants Spinner, Ryan and Pratt, who are heading the search, believe the bandits trailed their victims from the theater at the Biltmore.

Hospital Fund for Hollywood Showing Gains

That the Hollywood professional men are supporting the campaign now being conducted by the Hollywood Lions' Club to raise $100,000 with which to furnish the Hollywood Hospital was indicated today by the report made by Dr. E. J. Strathearn, chairman of the hospital division of the campaign organization. This report shows that $14,600 has been subscribed to date by medical men.

In making this report at the Lions' luncheon, Dr. Strathearn stated that the medical staff of the Hollywood Hospital, of whom there are 420, realize the serious dearth of hospital beds in Los Angeles. Hollywood as a community has no facilities of its own for healing or handling emergency cases, he stated. Even Los Angeles is greatly underhospitalized.

"Figures taken from surveys made all over the country show that the average number of hospital beds needed properly to serve a community is five beds for each 1000 of population," Dr. Strathearn told the Lions. "As Los Angeles has but one and five-tenths beds for each 1000 of its residents, Hollywood is even worse off than that. There are 100,000 persons in Hollywood, and there are no hospital facilities serving them. That is what the Hollywood Hospital will do when we raise the $100,000 we are after to furnish it."

Tuberculosis

Yields to New Home Treatment

The dread of tuberculosis is passing. Full recovery and completely arrested cases are being reported from all sections of this and other civilized countries. A new medicine and a new method of home treatment—now being recommended and prescribed by physicians—has been found to be marvelously effective in ridding the human system of tubercular infection and in rebuilding ravished physical constitutions.

This new medicine is called "Haelan"—a name derived from the Old English which means "to make in sound health.

"Haelan" is a mysterious concoction of roots, herbs, barks and fruits—discovered and compounded thru a secret process by an Austrian student of medicine in the University of Vienna and tested for the eradication of germs, bacilli and blood impurities in the Zara Hospital in Dalmatia.

It remained, however, for a group of Denver, physicians to discover its unparalleled efficacy for the treatment of tuberculosis. Scores upon scores of tubercular patients —in all stages of the disease—have been treated by these physicians with "Haelan" and in every case great improvement or complete recovery is reported.

And the astonishing part of the treatment is its moderate cost; its great simplicity; its pleasing taste, and the fact that it contains no harmful thing. In fact it is a marvelous tonic, stomach and bowel corrective and blood purifier. With "Haelan" the patient's digestion and appetite are restored, the complexion becomes ruddy, hands and feet warm, the lips red and a rapid increase in weight is noted.

One patient who has been very sick with tuberculosis for many years and who has recently started to take "Haelan," says: "I want to say that 'Haelan' reduces expectoration and fever, increases the appetite, powerfully promotes digestion and assimilation, increases the physical strength, purifies and builds more blood and thereby raises the resisting power and robustness of the patient and starts him on the way to recovery."

This Doctor Says:

"To Whom This Concerns:

"I will certify that I have used 'Haelan' put out by the General Remedies Company in a number of complicated and chronic cases of various kinds and find it a helpful remedy, especially in cases of tuberculosis, gassed cases, stomach and liver troubles, general nervous and run-down condition. I regard said remedy as one of the very best of tonics and blood purifiers. Does not interfere with any other form of treatment, but otherwise helpful."

DR. J. A. P., M.D., July 9, 1923.
Denver, Colo.

"Haelan" as now offered to the public is compounded and prepared under the personal direction of Marco Sacini, its discoverer. It is guaranteed harmless and IT IS GUARANTEED TO PRODUCE BENEFITS AND IMPROVEMENT TO THE ENTIRE SATISFACTION OF THE PATIENT or its full purchase price will be refunded. This guarantee is backed by a deposit of $1000 in a large Denver bank.

ONE LETTER

Selected from a Great Mass of Similar Testimonials

General Remedies Co.,
Denver, Colorado.

Gentlemen:

I have been a sufferer of tuberculosis for the past six years and the doctors told me that I could not live more than six months. I am a canvasser by trade but was compelled to give it up as I was unable to work for months at a time. While out on the street I would have severe hemorrhages and I thought each time I would not survive. When not having hemorrhages my sputum was streaked with blood and I was in constant fear of passing away while away from home. I had a temperature most of the time and night sweats. My sleep was broken as my stomach could not take care of the food that I ate.

I had lost twenty-five pounds in weight and my condition was growing worse very fast when one of my friends persuaded me to try "Haelan." Before ten days were over I felt like a changed man. My hemorrhages stopped, my sputum cleared up, my temperature left me and my hands and feet, and in fact my whole body began to warm up, my appetite was improving and I felt stronger each day. My stomach trouble is entirely cured and I sleep like a top every night. I have taken the medicine for six weeks and in that time I have gained seven pounds. When I meet my friends that I have not seen for two or three months they do not believe it is the same man as they say I look so much better. I am now back at work every day and am on my feet all day long and feel better than I have for twenty years. I will say that any one who is in the condition that I was two months ago will not make a mistake by taking "Haelan." My case is on file in the City Clinic in Denver. My age is 51 years.

J. A. KINEAVY,
1639½ S. Broadway, Denver, Colo.

Subscribed and sworn to this 17th day of October, 1923, before me. My commission expires January 12, 1926.
ROBERT F. NASH, Notary Public.

Doctor's Report on the Above Case

Gentlemen:

I examined Mr. Kineavy in July, 1923, and found considerable activity in the lower portion of the upper lobe on the left side of his lung and one or two small areas of moisture in the upper lobe of the right lung. At this time I made an X-ray picture of his lungs and the above findings were confirmed for there was evidence of activity in the areas mentioned. He was also suffering considerably with loss of weight, appetite and strength.

We prescribed "Haelan" and after two months' treatment, in our opinion, he has been entirely cured. We made several examinations during this period and each time a gradual improvement was noted both in the physical findings and also in appearance and strength of the patient. To my knowledge he had no other treatment than "Haelan" and I believe it is entirely responsible for his cure, which was effected in a period of two months.

Yours very truly.

FOUR BANDITS HOLD UP BANK

Quartet Take $1000, Flee in Auto

Stolen Machine Found by Police After Theft

Four young and well-dressed men in a large touring car descended upon the branch of the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank at Western avenue and Beverly Boulevard shortly after noon yesterday, held up the two employees alone in the bank at the time, and robbed them of $1000.

Half an hour later, Detective Lieutenants Kallmeyer and Aulbert found the car used by the robbers, a machine which had been stolen from B. J. Malone of Le Troulaine Midway last Sunday. A passer-by who saw the bandits leaving the bank had noted the license number.

R. Pelser, teller; and J. Watson, bookkeeper, were in the bank when the robbers entered. One of the four remained in the machine, one stopped at the door, and the other two with drawn guns entered. They ordered Pelser and Watson behind the counter, and while one man guarded them, his companion gathered up all the cash in sight.

The quartet worked smoothly, apparently having planned the robbery carefully. After getting the money, they walked to the waiting machine, and lost no time in getting away. There was a delay of about fifteen minutes in reporting the robbery to police.

SEND MAN IN MAIL CASE TO BAY CITY

Thomas J. Ryan, under indictment in San Francisco on the charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud, was yesterday ordered returned to that city by Commissioner Long for trial. Ryan is the inventor of what is known as the Ryan process of refining crude oil, and the asserted false statements charged against him were in connection with a stock-selling campaign in Texas, Canada and elsewhere, and the erection of an oil refinery at Pioneer, Tex., also a plant at Eldorado, Ark. Ryan was president of the company erecting the refinery at Pioneer, but asserted that he knew nothing about it, and he also denied any responsibility for the alleged false statements appearing in a number of publications signed with his name as president.

DINES TOO WEAK TO APPEAR

Physician Declares Wounded Man Must Not Venture Into Court for Forty Days at Least

Courtland S. Dines will not appear before Justice Hanby today for a retaking of his testimony in the preliminary hearing of Horace A. Greer, charged with shooting Dines on New Year's night at a party attended by Mabel Normand and Edna Purviance.

Furthermore it will be at least forty days before the injured man will be able to appear in court, according to an affidavit to be filed today by W. I. Gilbert, Dines's attorney. The affidavit is signed by Dr. Guy S. Cochran, who has attended Dines since he was shot.

FEVER CONTINUES

The physician states that his patient has not been entirely free of fever for any appreciable length of time since he entered the Good Samaritan Hospital and that it would be jeopardizing his chance of recovery to take him before the court. Dines's chest cavity was punctured in two places by the bullet, Dr. Cochran says, and since that time has been heavily charged with fluid.

On Friday an operation was performed and a pint of fluid removed from Dines's chest, it is stated. This will have to be repeated from time to time until the condition disappears, Dr. Cochran says.

He further states if the health of the patient is considered and if his testimony is not absolutely necessary at the end of forty days, he should not be required to appear for a period of at least sixty days.

Dr. Cochran's affidavit confirms rumors that Dines is not improving as fast as it had been hoped and that there is still an active possibility of his death from the gunshot wound said to have been inflicted by Greer.

HEARING IN DOUBT

Apparently the hearing of the chauffeur, which had been continued until today, will have to be postponed again unless the court chooses to go to Dines's bedside a second time. Dist.-Atty. Keyes has already indicated he will not recall Edna Purviance or Mabel Normand to the stand.

The announcement that Dines would have to repeat his story of the incidents occurring in his apartment on New Year's night followed a statement by Justice Hanby that it was his belief pertinent facts were being withheld from the court.

Dines testified under oath he "could not remember" many of the details leading up to the shooting. He had previously made a statement at the Receiving Hospital more illuminating, officers declare.

SENSATIONAL TRIAL LOOMS

Counsel for Man Sued by Woman for Support of Nameless Child Given Time for Depositions

Indicating that sensational testimony will be produced when the case comes to trial, counsel for William Hornbeck, film cutter of Edendale, who is being sued by Almeda Mathews, 20 years of age, for support of her alleged nameless child, yesterday appeared before Judge Archbald of the Juvenile Court and was granted a continuance until March 4 in order to allow the defense time in which to prepare affidavits and depositions which it is expected will be introduced as evidence.

R. A. Morton, attorney for Hornbeck, also sought to have the case transferred to a civil jury court, but Judge Archbald reserved decision on this point.

SUES FOR SUPPORT

Miss Mathews, who is represented by Attorney Lewis D. Collings of the law firm of Cooper, Collings & Shreve, named Hornbeck as the father of her child, and asked the court to award her the sum of $100 a month for the support of the infant, which, she said, is now eight months of age.

It was stated in her complaint that she had asked Hornbeck to contribute to the child's support, but that he had refused to do so. Hornbeck was alleged to be earning in excess of $125 a week.

In an answer to the suit, Hornbeck entered a general denial of the girl's accusations, declaring that she had been known in the community in which she lived as having been indiscreet with various men, whose names were not mentioned in the suit.

Hornbeck branded Miss Mathews's suit as an effort to blackmail him and his mother, Mrs. Katherine Davee. He stated he had been on friendly terms with the plaintiff prior to June 1, 1922, but that he severed their relationship on that date when he learned of her alleged improper associations with other men.

Later, according to his answer, Miss Mathews sought to resume their acquaintanceship, but Hornbeck declared he persistently refused to acquiesce. The plaintiff was asserted then to have begun an alleged blackmail campaign against Hornbeck and his mother, telling them, according to Hornbeck, that she was to become a mother and that Hornbeck was responsible for her condition.

ROYAL DANE DOCKS HERE BUT GOES ON

Son of Late King and Brother of Present Ruler on Way to Canada

Unheralded, His Royal Highness, the Prince Waldemar of Denmark slipped in and out of Los Angeles yesterday, passing up the capital of sunshine and cinemas much like the prince would pass up a cold legume.

Not for many moons has smart Los Angeles been offered opportunity to lavish its hospitality on such a son of the blood, son of the late King Christian IX and brother of the present ruler, King Christian X. And for the Prince to refuse to pause, exclaim and capitulate is deemed les majeste by proud Angelenos.

The Prince was aided and abetted in his vanishing act by Admiral Joehnke of the Danish Navy, who accompanied him. The two arrived yesterday morning aboard the Danish motorship Australien of the East Asiatic Line, of which the Prince is head and the admiral a heavy stockholder. The distinguished visitors were to disembark yesterday afternoon and take train directly to Canada to "visit friends," returning to San Francisco in time to board the Australien again for home.

The Prince paid a visit to Los Angeles a year ago on another of his vessels, and he was immediately recognized yesterday as he came out of his cabin in the uniform of a Danish admiral, and with Admiral Joehnke, stood smoking a cigarette as cameramen snapped him.

The Australien, Capt. S. J. Moeller, which brought 4200 tons of cement, rags and paper for this port, is one of the finest vessels in the East Asiatic fleet, and as immaculate as a prince's palace, which indeed it was during the voyage here.

LICENSE IS REVOKED

Second-Hand Dealer Purchased Stolen Goods

The Board of Police Commissioners yesterday revoked the second-hand dealers' permit held by Sam Sabbath at 107 East First street on the ground that articles stolen from the home of Mrs. P. J. Holmes at 309 South Berendo street were purchased by Sabbath from Alexander Mallette, who was convicted of the burglary of Mrs. Holmes's house. Mrs. Holmes testified before the Police Commission yesterday that Mallette, who has since been sent to San Quentin, told her in the County Jail that Sabbath had told him (Mallette) to "go out and rob some more homes. I won't tell the police and I'll buy everything you bring in."

Sabbath denied on the stand making this statement to Mallette and said that he (Sabbath) had bought the stolen articles unknowingly and had co-operated with the police in restoring them to Mrs. Holmes.

The residence of Mrs. Holmes was robbed on October 8, 1923, and jewelry and clothing taken was valued at $3500.

SCORES of women in your city are now using the most effective lotion ever made for the skin.

It is known as Espey's Cream, and is designed to help to train the skin to beauty.

True beauty lies in the skin. A soft, smooth, supple skin of velvet texture is a mark of gentle breeding. Many women lack that mark to which they are entitled, due merely to neglect.

The first step is to soften and smooth your skin.

See how this cream does that. Tomorrow note the difference in the feeling of your hands and face after today's trial of Espey's Cream.

Then, in a few weeks, after daily use, note the finer texture, the pretty pink-and-white tints, the suppleness and elasticity that distinguish youthful skin.

For forty-six years Espey's has been accomplishing these results.

The formula, discovered in 1877, includes ten rare ingredients—all used in different ways by beauty specialists everywhere.

The base is glycerine, refined by a special process to complete efficiency. The combination, in exactly these proportions, produces qualities which otherwise would be unknown today.

CITY ACCEPTS MONUMENT

Tribute to Soldiers of World War Will Be Placed at Corner of Pershing Square

The City Council yesterday formally accepted the $10,000 soldiers' monument to be donated to the city by patriotic citizens and placed at the Fifth-and-Olive-street corner of Pershing Square. The corner-stone of the monument will be laid on Washington's Birthday by Col. Arthur Williams, U.S.A. (retired,) president emeritus of the Association of the Army of the United States, which organization took the lead in obtaining subscriptions for the monument. Mrs. Martha Nelson McCann, president of the Board of Park Commissioners, will have charge of the corner-stone-laying exercises.

A model of the monument was shown to the Council yesterday by Maj. Robert C. Cotton, U.S.A., chairman of the monument committee, and H. C. Newton of the architectural firm of Truesdell & Newton, which is donating its services in building the monument. The figure of the American World War "doughboy" at the top of the monument is being designed by Humberton Pedretti, well-known local sculptor, and will be cast in bronze. The base will be of red granite and the monument will be flanked by two 15,000-pound cannon and forty cannon balls, donated by the War Department.

The monument will be twenty feet in height, and the figure of the soldier will be eight feet high.

The City Council yesterday contributed the $700 necessary to place the monument at the park. The monument will bear the inscription: "To the Sons and Daughters of Los Angeles who participated in the World War. 1917-1918. Erected by patriotic citizens of the City of Los Angeles."

On one side of the base will be cut in the stone a quotation from Gen. Pershing's famous order to the Army when the armistice had been declared, in which he said: "Your deeds will live forever on the most glorious pages of American history."

On one side of the monument appear these words: "Duty, Honor, Country."

The unveiling of the monument will probably take place on Memorial Day, May 30.

Mystery Phone Call Results in Arrest of Trio

A mysterious phone call received at the detective bureau early yesterday morning resulted in the arrest of three men on suspicion of robbery. A voice over the telephone stated tersely that "if officers would go at once to 431 South Grand avenue they would find three men sitting in an automobile worth investigation."

Officers Wilde and Hartmeyer were detailed. They found the three men as the phone call stated, and placde them under arrest. When submitted to a cursory search the pockets of the trio, according to the officers, disclosed two revolvers and a blackjack. The car in which they were discovered had been rented. All three were taken to the City Jail and the case turned over to the detectives for further investigation.

ARREST FIVE AT GODFREY HOME

Action Said to be Sequel to Family Quarrel

Man and Divorced Wife Both Claim House

Beverly Hills Officials Are Silent on Case

Some mystery surrounds the arrest by Beverly Hills police Monday night of five men at a house at 516 Beverly Drive, the ownership of which is being disputed by John Godfrey of Los Angeles and his divorced wife, Bertie H. Godfrey. At a late hour yesterday, the Sheriff's office was called in to help untangle the difficulty.

Mrs. Godfrey, who was granted a divorce recently following a maze of suits and countersuits brought by the two principals, by Mrs. Frances R. Barnett and involving Mrs. Mary Ayer Godfrey, Godfrey's mother by adoption, swore out a warrant Monday afternoon charging his divorced wife and her maid with disturbing the peace.

FREED WITHOUT BOND

Mrs. Godfrey appeared before Justice Powell of Sherman, who issued the complaint, accompanied by W. J. Clarke, her attorney, and after promising to appear at a future hearing, was released without bond.

Beverly Hills officers under Detective Sergeant Frank Barnes made a trip to the house on Beverly Drive with Clarke and Mrs. Bertie Godfrey and are reported to have there arrested several men then in possession of the house or near it. These men are said to have appeared Monday night before Justice Headley of Beverly Hills and were released after furnishing bond. The amount of the bond is said to have been $500 for each.

What the men were arrested for, what their names are, when they will appear and whether officers entering the house carried a search warrant have not been definitely determined. Justice Headley of Beverly Hills will not answer any of these questions. He has absolutely nothing to say.

CHIEF BLAIR SILENT

Chief of Police Blair says the justice has the names of the men, warrants and complaints connected with the case and that he must be the source of information given out.

It was learned last night, however, that the Chief had asked the Sheriff's office to send men out to have a "show down" in the case and that Deputies Catlin and Sepulveda were in Beverly Hills making an investigation.

John Godfrey admitted yesterday he was one of the five men arrested.

"I was not in the house at the time," Godfrey said. "The men there were personal friends of mine, who were there to see that no harm came to my property. The house is mine and my former wife is just a squatter there. I was arrested while walking down the street near the place. I was going there because I saw signs of activity."

Mrs. Bertie Godfrey, who was in possession of the disputed home yesterday afternoon, declared the property belongs to her.

"It was awarded to me by the court and this decision is now being appealed by my former husband," she said. "I have instructions from my attorney not to give out interviews, but I can assure you there will be an interesting 'follow-up' from Monday's happenings."

PROCEEDINGS INVOLVED

The court proceedings which resulted in the granting of a divorce to Godfrey and the award of $25 a month alimony to his wife, were of the most complicated nature.

They included a $50,000 breach-of-promise suit brought against Godfrey by Mrs. Frances R. Barnett; a $100,000 alienation-of-affections suit brought by Mrs. Bertie Godfrey against Mrs. Mary Ayer Godfrey, her husband's mother by adoption; a divorce action brought by Mr. Godfrey; a cross complaint filed by her, and an amended complaint by Mr. Godfrey.

Nonstop Airman Concludes Stay at Clover Field

Lieut. Oakley G. Kelley, of nonstop transcontinental flight fame, left Los Angeles in his plane for San Francisco yesterday after a visit with Lieut. C. C. Moseley, of Clover Field.

The airman flew to Los Angeles last Saturday in his De Haviland plane in four and one-half hours and was a guest of Lieut. Earnest Dichman, air service engineering representative. He flew to San Diego on business Sunday, returning the same day. Weather conditions caused him to remain here over Monday. He left Clover Field for San Francisco yesterday morning, and will soon go to Vancouver Barracks, Portland, Or., to take charge of a reserve officers' flying field.

The Falcon, a monoplane built by Lawrence Brown, was flown here from San Francisco yesterday, stopping at Fresno and Bakersfield. When he arrived at Clover Field, Brown said he had lost his way in the fog in the mountains after leaving Bakersfield and when he came out of it his plane was over the ocean off Santa Barbara. He followed the coast line to Los Angeles.

MUSICAL TASTE IDEA EXPLAINED

Phonograph Seen as Factor in Its Growth

Motion Picture Theaters Also Contribute

New York Authority in City to Give Lectures

The motion-picture, the phonograph and the player-piano have done more to create a love for music and develop musical taste among Americans than any other agencies, in the view of Dr. Sigmund Spaeth of New York, internationally known musical authority, lecturer, critic and song leader.

Dr. Spaeth, who is at the Biltmore, was for many years a writer on musical subjects for leading eastern newspapers and magazines, and is now devoting most of his time to lecturing on music. He will deliver a series of lectures before educational bodies and other organizations during his stay in the city.

"Musical programs have become an established feature of the motion-picture show," he said, "and the music provided at these entertainments is most frequently of the best type, especially in the larger theaters. The orchestras are composed of highly trained musicians whose rendering of classical and popular selections meets the approval of even the critic."

RUDIMENTS TAUGHT

Dr. Spaeth holds the view that an appreciation of good music is an inherent human quality, but that in this country it has come to be regarded as something of which only the highbrows are informed and hence a form of diversion without appeal for the masses. To overcome this notion he devotes his lectures largely to rudimentary musical instruction, pointing out the simplicity lying at the basis of even the most involved composition.

"I have embodied many of my teachings in a book, to be published soon, entitled 'Common Sense in Music,'" he said, "the title having been chosen because the contents seek to point out that musical appreciation does not depend on the possession of extraordinary intelligence and also because in this volume I stress the point that a sense of music is held in common by all persons. The book will be used as a text in my course of instruction at New York University next summer."

Dr. Spaeth in his lectures calls attention to the fact that it is possible to produce music by the employment of only two tones and that in some notable compositions only three tones are used. He also reminds his hearers that some musical productions, commonly supposed to belong to the trashy order, in fact contain fragments from well-known operas, referring to "Yes, We Have No Bananas," as a case in point.

MUSIC CLASSIFIED

"There are three classes of music," he says, "each with its specific appeal. The first is the combination of rhythmical sounds that appeals to the physical sense. This is the music of the savage to which he responds in the tribal dance. The second is the type that employs melody as its characteristic feature and evokes chiefly an emotional appeal. The third class, in addition to rhythm and melody, also has an intellectual appeal. It involves technique and other elements whose appreciation is mainly intellectual.

"One of the common errors in musical instruction is the attempt to inculcate the intellectual elements first. My theory is that the training should begin with the simplest forms, gradually leading up to the more complex. My efforts in teaching along this line have been satisfactory, and it is with a view to spreading information regarding this system that I have written my textbook and taken up lecturing."

What We Forget Between 15 and 50

Schools teach, and nearly every home applies the rule against coffee and tea for children.

When middle age comes, a great many people remember the facts about the caffeine drug of coffee and tea, and how its regular use may disturb health. Often they have cause to remember what it has done to them.

How much better it would be not to forget—and avoid the penalties!

Postum is a pure cereal beverage—delightful, and safe for any age—at any time. Good for breakfast at home, for all the family; good for lunch at the club or restaurant; good with the evening meal; good with a late night dinner—good on any occasion. Postum satisfies, and it never harms.

Why not be friendly with health, all the time?

Postum for Health

"There's a Reason"

Your grocer sells Postum in two forms: Instant Postum [in tins] prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal [in packages] for those who prefer the flavor brought out by boiling fully 20 minutes. The cost of either form is about one-half cent a cup.

GAIN IN SUMMER TOURISTS SEEN

Rail Head Forecasts Record Travel to Coast

Increase Credited to Work of All Year Club

Southland Attractions Are Now Better Known

A marked increase in summer travel to Southern California as a result of the efforts of the All Year Club is seen by the railroads, according to James E. Gorman of Chicago, president of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway, who is now visiting in Los Angeles.

Mr. Gorman, who is at the Biltmore, is here on a brief vacation and incidentally to look over the ground with a view to increasing the facilities of his road to enable it to meet the demands that will be made upon it when the summer tourist season opens.

"From all the information we have been able to obtain at our Chicago offices, it is apparent that the tourist traffic during the coming summer will exceed that of any former year," said Mr. Gorman, "and I am advised that the reports received by other lines from their respective territories are similar to our own.

CREDIT PLACED

"There is no doubt in my mind that the increase in summer travel is to be attributed chiefly to the advertising of the All Year Club, which has succeeded in convincing the public that Southern California is as attractive in summer as in winter. Of course, this is a fact of which I have personally been aware for many years, but the public at large is just finding it out.

"The Rock Island realizes fully the increasing importance if its Southern California business with the rapid growth of Los Angeles and the development of this territory in general, and we are laying plans to take care of it in a manner that we hope will enable us to increase our service to the people here at the same time that the road is benefited. One thing I discovered long ago as a railroad man is the fact that in order to do good business a road must deserve it."

BUSINESS IN EAST

Speaking of business conditions in general throughout the country at this time, Mr. Gorman stated that in his opinion the railroads constitute the best business barometer available, and that according to this test the prosperity which has prevailed for some time is still in evidence.

"The business of the railroads during the past year has been unusually good," he said. "Naturally this indicates that the sections on which they are dependent have prospered also. So far as the roads are concerned, however, a large volume of business does not always mean dividends to the stockholders. A railroad is never what you might call a fully established institution, or, at lease, the roads in this country have not as yet attained that happy state. Development or improvement is constantly going on, and this requires an enormous amount of money, hence the profits, if there are any, usually go into new equipment or the extension of old lines. The Rock Island, for instance, has spent tens of millions annually on improvements, and this has been the case with most of the other roads, especially the western lines."

RAIL RATES

The railroad man referred briefly to the hue and cry often raised by politicians and others against freight rates.

"Of course, if it can be shown that the rates are in hact exorbitant, probably no reasonable man would object to their being cut," he said. "But a great many advocates of rate cutting don't take time to study the situation. There is a point beyond which rates cannot be lowered without ruining the roads.

"Not infrequently the reductions demanded would mean but a trifling saving to the individuals affected in case the cuts were made. For instance, I was surprised to learn not long ago, from reports issued by the Secretary of Agriculture, that a 10 per cent reduction in the freight rates on farm products would mean a saving of only six or seven dollars a year to the average farmer.

"I argued this matter at one time with one of my farmer friends, whom I have known for many years, and who insisted that the rates should be cut 25 per cent. I asked this man how much corn, for instance, the average farmer in his locality shipped every year, and he replied about 1000 bushels. I then showed him that the reduced rate he wanted would mean a saving of only $12.50 per farmer in his section. He was flabbergasted, and admitted he had never thought it would amount to so little. It was small to the individual farmer, but such a reduction would absolutely bankrupt a railroad."

Dry-Law Agents Get No Evidence of Border Plot

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 29.—C. F. Galling and his assistant, Dan O'Leary, prohibition enforcement officers from Los Angeles, made a visit of inspection to the international border this morning and later announced there were no evidences of any concerted smuggling activities. They planned to return to Los Angeles tonight.

Galling said he knew nothing of any attempt to smuggle thousands of cases of wet goods across the border from Tijuana and that one purpose of his conference here was to instruct local officers to keep close watch on the regularly-constituted trade of smuggling.

BOY ADMITS HE SET FIRES, OFFICERS SAY

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

NEWHALL, Jan. 29.—Paul Young, 15 years of age, has been sent to the Juvenile Court because, according to the confession he is said to have made following his arrest, he had a penchant for setting forest fires. He said he had started the recent fires in Marshall and Cottonwood Canyons to see the blaze race through the brush and over the hills, it is asserted. Chester Smith of San Francisquito Canyon and Warren Losch of Mint Canyon also were arrested for permitting, it is charged, brush fires started by them to get beyond their control.

Seeks Separate Maintenance

Gladys V. Moran
The paternity of one of her children has been questioned in proceedings now before court.

TO DECIDE MARRIAGE CASE

Judge Sets Date for Decision As to Validity of Moran Ceremony; Man Denies Legality

Judge Fleming yesterday set February 18 as the date for making a decision as to the validity of the marriage of Gladys V. Moran, former model and actress, to Stanle yC. Moran. The couple were before Judge Fleming in alimony proceedings in connection with their contested annulment and separate maintenance actions, now pending in the Superior Court, and in which the husband questions the paternity of one of Mrs. Moran's children.

Moran brought the suit for annulment, contending he and Mrs. Moran were never legally married on the ground that he had a former wife from whom he was not divorced at the time he married his present wife in Chicago, March 19, 1921. While he admitted the paternity of one of the children, he asserted the other, Patsy Grace Moran, was the daughter of Mrs. Moran by a previous marriage.

The wife answered that she intended to offer evidence to prove her husband had caused her to believe they were married long before the date of March 21, 1921, and that the child in question was born while the two were living together as man and wife.

Moran, on the other hand, said he would produce records which would show there was never any legal marriage contract between him and Mrs. Moran.

Mrs. Moran came to Los Angeles from Chicago when she was served with papers in the annulment action and filed a cross-complaint for separate maintenance. She charged her mate with associating with another woman known as Miss Springer, who was in court yesterday prepared to defend herself.

Judge Fleming said he would decide the marriage validity issue February 18, providing Moran paid up $120 due in alimony and attorney's fees.

SHAKESPEAREAN PLAYS

The Gilmore Brown Players of Pasadena will present two Shakespearean plays at South Pasadena High School on Saturday, "The Merchant of Venice," at 2:30 p.m. and "Twelfth Night," at 8 p.m. Mr. Brown, the director, will play Shylock; Thyra Ruyland will enact the role of Portia, and in "Twelfth Night" Helen Jerome Eddy, motion-picture actress, will appear as Viola. The sets and costumes were designed by the art department of the University of California, Southern Branch.

ZONING CHANGE PROTESTED

Property Owners Oppose Permit for Establishment of Industrial Plant Near Baths

Property owners in the vicinity of Third street and Wesmoreland avenue filed a strong protest yesterday with the City Council against changes in the zoning regulations so as to permit the establishment of an industrial plant adjoining the Bimini Baths. The change in the zoning regulations was authorized by the City Council, by an ordinance which was adopted on the 8th inst., but which will not become effective until February 19.

The protest of the property owners reopens the matter, which will come before the City Council's Public Welfare Committee this afternoon. The Council has the power to repeal the ordinance.

PLANNERS OVERRULED

The request for the change of the zoning restrictions was filed with the City Planning Commission by the Gillette Realty Company and denied by the commission. The Council then overruled the commission and adopted the ordinance making the zoning change. Against this change the property owners protest, declaring that they had not been given opportunity to state their objections to the Council before the ordinance was considered and adopted.

The petition declared that the property, now zoned by the Council for industrial purposes, is close to a residential district of the first class, that the industries to be located on the land will prove a nuisance to the home owners and residents near-by, and will "ruin one of the most ideally situated residential sections of Los Angeles," and that every property owner in the district is opposed to the change of restrictions, "with the exception of the owner of the property" rezoned by the ordinance.

ICE PLANT PROPOSED

It was first declared that the zoning change was obtained in order to locate a laundry on the property, but Councilmen were informed later that if the zoning change stands an ice-making plant will be built there.

The petition filed yesterday is signed by almost one hundred property owners of the district, including the Westlake School for Girls, James G. Scarborough, Jr., R. L. Tatum, O. T. Ross, Frank Fulton, Richard C. Willis, Seymour Tally, O. W. Ott, Ralph G. Cole, the Bimini Hot Springs Company, which adjoins the property which is to be rezoned under the ordinance; R. C. Pilcher, Mary G. Dudley and many others.

SEWER CONFERENCE

Inglewood Seeking Connection With City Outfall

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, Jan. 29.—Frank D. Parent, president of the Inglewood Realty Board and chairman of the sewage system committee of the Inglewood Chamber of Commerce, with other members of his committee and City Attorney Clyde Woodworth, are to confer tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock with the Public Service Commission in Los Angeles relative to connecting Inglewood's proposed new sewer system with the Los Angeles outfall. In case no satisfactory arrangements with Los Angeles can be made, it is the intention to combine in a district with other towns in the southwest section of the county, or possibly build a system of its own.

FIRE ZONE ELECTION

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

NEWHALL, Jan. 29.—Tomorrow will be election day in the zone to be included in the projected Newhall county fire protection district. A petition for this by land owners in the district was favorably considered by County Supervisors, who adopted a resolution calling the election to authorize the formation of the district. The polling place is to be the Newhall Masonic Club Building. Election officers are W. H. Evans, inspector; Mrs. Emma Pilcher, judge; Mrs. Allie Carr, clerk.

Tram Company to Be Told to Lower Tracks

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Jan. 29.—The Pacific Electric Railway, whose Los Angeles-Long Beach line has occupied a greater portion of American avenue from Anaheim street north to the city line for several years, is to be ordered to place its tracks at the level of the street proper and eliminate the wide parking space of which it has had exclusive use. This decision was reached today by the City Council on representation of members of civic improvement associations.

Traffic on American avenue, the main artery into the city from the north, has grown to such proportions that the parts of the street given over to vehicular traffic are always congested. It is pointed out that the electric-car company monopolizes through its private right of way in the center of the thoroughfare the greater portion of the street. Estimates on the cost of grading the right of way to the level of the pavement and making the entire street available to vehicular traffic are to be submitted to the Council by the city engineering department.

ABOUT "CYTHEREA"

ALMA RUBENS WILL COME WEST TO PLAY LEAD

By Edwin Schallert

Yet another new personality and an especially bright one is to be added to the galaxy of the cinema stars that glow and gleam in the Coast studios, and this time it is the dazzling Alma Rubens. She has been here before, to be sure, some several seasons ago, but for a long time she has been appearing in features made in the East. Now she is to come West to assume the feminine lead in "Cytherea," which George Fitzmaurice will direct on the Coast.

"Cytherea," which Samuel Goldwyn is to produce, was originally to have been made in New York and abroad. All preparations to this end were carried out, and then Mr. Goldwyn decided to transfer the major portion of his picture activities to the West.

The production of "Cytherea" here definitely proves that he means to carry out this plan, for he has already been making arrangements for the picturizing of the next "Potash and Perlmutter" story, with Barney Bernard and Alexander Carr heading the cast, in Hollywood.

Practically all the principal players in "Cytherea" have been selected. The cast in order includes Lewis Stone, Miss Rubens, Irene Rich and Constance Bennett, the daughter of Richard Bennett. The adaptation of the Joseph Hergesheimer novel has been made by Frances Marion, and the filming will be done at the United Studios.

Mr. Fitzmaurice voiced his sentiments regarding working conditions in California in a statement made public yesterday, saying:

"At first, we planned to tour various countries to film 'Cytherea,' but after carefully analyzing the situation with Mr. Goldwyn and Miss Marion, we decided it would be a waste of time and money to carry out our original idea. We found that the picture can be made in Los Angeles in its entirety with the exception of some scenes already taken in New York.

"Our moving to Los Angeles comes as a result of experience in New York which clearly indicates that our picture must be made here if we wish to obtain the best artistic results at minimum cost. We are merely another example of the contention that Los Angeles need never worry about New York producing competition."

Selecting Soloists Early

Making early selection of soloists seems to be the policy started by the Philharmonic Orchestra, for Mrs. Caroline E. Smith, manager of the organization, is now in the east attending to the business details of this enterprise. The date of the concerts have already been decided on for the season of 1924-25, and that has made this early trip east possible. The orchestra is really only half way through the present season.

Mrs. Smith will visit Chicago, New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Washington personally to hear and choose the soloists who will appear with the Philharmonic and the list of artists will reflect even greater prominence and brilliance that heretofore, it is contended, as a result of this early search for celebrities to adorn the programs.

Norma at Palm Beach

Mr. and Mrs. Josept M. Schenck (the latter Norma Talmadge, of course) are now at Palm Beach, Fla., for a two weeks visit. Following this, they will leave for Key West and Havana aboard Irving Berlin's yacht. They spent aofrtnight attending plays in New York, before going southward.

Constance Talmadge is busy filming "The Goldfish" and Buster Keaton, "Sherlock, Junior," here.

"Listen Lester."

Well under way is the screen version of "Listen Lester," adapted from the musical comedy of the same name, which is being produced by the Sacramento Pictures Corporation. The leading roles are played by Louise Fazenda, Harry Myers, Dot Farley, Lee Moran, Eugenia Gilbert, George O'Hara, Eva Novak and Alec B. Francis.

The picture is being directed by William A. Seiter, and will be released through Principal Pictures Corporation, which distributed the producing concern's initial feature, "Temporary Marriage." The company has been filming at the F. B. O. studios, except for some time recently spent on location at Coronada Beach.

Sign Again With Warner's.

Marie Prevost and Monte Blue, who have been making such an impression of cleverness in "The Marriage Circle," directed by Ernst Lubitsch, have been signed again by Warner Brothers, according to announcement from that organization. It is stated that they will be featured in those books and plays particularly suited to their individual personalities.

Willard Louis has been engaged to appear in "Broadway After Dark," which Monte Bell is directing for Harry Rapf. Louis appeared as the Prince of Wales in the John Barrymore starring picture, "Beau Brummel."

Beaumont Directs Vi Dana

"Don't Doubt Your Husband," Viola Dana's new starring picture, is being directed by Harry Beaumont, who has to his credit such features as "Main Street," "The Gold Diggers" and "Beau Brummel," filmed during the past year.

Mr. Beaumont directed Miss Dana some time ago in "The Five-Dollar Baby," "Crinoline and Romance," "June Madness" and other features.

Concerning Miss Hammerstein

"Driftwood" is announced as the name of the first picture that will be made by Elaine Hammerstein, now that she has returned to the Coast. The picture is an adaptation by Roland West and Willard Mack of the story by Albert Payson Terhune, with the continuity by Hope Loring and W. D. Lighton. Miss Hammerstein, with her mother, is making her home at one of the Ambassador Hotel bungalows.

Bennie at it Again

The next picture to be filmed by Bennie Zeidman will be an adaptation of a stage play written by Owen Davis, it is announced. Eve Uhsell will do the continuity.

The New "Tess" Film

At last, "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" from the Thomas Hardy original, will be put into production by Marshall Neilan, with Blanche Sweet in the title role.

This picture, which Mr. Neilan has been contemplating for some time, is to be made by Goldwyn, and it is the first time that Miss Sweet has played under his direction since they have been married, or for that matter since Neilan made the war feature, "The Unpardonable Sin" in 1918.

Miss Sweet is still busy on "Those Who Dance," which is being made by Thomas H. Ince organization.

O'Malley is Winner

Pat O'Malley has been selected to play the lead in "The Throwback," which will be filmed from the prize-winning scenario in a contest arranged by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, among the universities. The scenario was submitted by William Oliver Elwell of the University of California. It will be directed by Tom Forman.

Cody May High-brow

Now it is Lew Cody who feels the high-brow urge. At least, he has made the announcement via the Goldwyn organization that he has purchased the rights of a one-act play of foreign origin, which, it is said, he will produce himself in a two-reel version during his spare time. There are only three people in the story, and the action takes place on a single set. The playlet is described as a dramatic vignette of remarkable power.

COLLEEN MOORE HEADS "THROUGH DARK" CAST

Presenting a cast of prominent screen players headed by winsome Colleen Moore, "Through the Dark," adapted from Jack Boyle's Boston Blackie story, "The Daughter of Mother McGinn," is described as one of the greatest crook dramas ever brought to the screen. The picture opens at the California Theater Saturday. That love levels all ranks and that the straight path is the only one to follow are the twin themes of this story.

Colleen Moore is seen in the role of Mary McGinn and Forrest Stanley is Boston Blackie. Others in the cast are Eddie Phillips, George Cooper, Hobart Bosworth and Margaret Seddon.

Marguerite de la Motte

SAYS ARTIST MUST SUFFER

"Suffering develops the heart and soul," said Vladimir de Pachmann, one of the most talked-of pianists in the world today. 'The mind," he continued, "is consciously developed, but of itself is cold. Those who do not have a warm heart, a deep soul and a brilliant mind are forever apart from those who do. I do not like people who are perpetually happy.'

De Pachmann, 75 years old, still strong and well, who touches all the gamut of adjectives between originality and eccentricity in the course of a two-minute conversation (and he talks nearer two hours when he is interested,) is one of the most unique figures in the music world today. He has been criticised by press, public and fellow musicians alike for his statement that he is the greatest pianist in the world. But somehow one gets an entirely different aspect of the matter when one hears him make the statement himself. He is in Los Angeles for two concert engagements, one of which will be tomorrow night.

"You see," he said, "Liszt was the greatest pianist in all history. As a composer he was second rate; he does not compare with Beethoven, Schumann, Chopin, Brahms and Godowsky. This latter I consider the greatest living composer, although I do not like everything he has done; notably the transcriptions. But as a pianist—ah, ah!" And De Pachmann held his hands in worshipful attitude.

"But now I would shake hands with him—not worship him as I formerly did. Liszt played with the great poetry which comes from the great soul. No one else loves their music so tenderly as I, and that is why no one else can play it like I do. A dozen times a day I pray to make my music more a beautiful message. Sometimes for hours I lay awake at night and think how I can make three or four notes a little more beautiful. People sometimes say a passage is dead when I am playing it slowly, so the beautiful, the lovely tones, will sing longer. One does not caress and love rapidly, nor display brilliance altogether. It is too much from the heart. That," he said with his inimitable smile. "is my playing. It is love.

"Rubenstein was a great pianist—yes. I have not heard Paderewski for twenty-three years. Then there were five pieces which he played better than anybody else—more poetry. I do not know how he is playing now.

"Today I am playing better than ever before. The wonderful Chopin "Ballades"—you know the ones in F minor and A flat? They are so often battered out, even by Pachmann till five years ago. But not now. I have been the greatest pianist for just five years. Do not think poor Pachmann is immodest. No. Soon I will be but a bit of dust, and I was 65 years learning how to play. I knew all the Bach fugues from memory when I was 13. Liszt knew them when he was 11. It is only since I have discovered the new method that I have been able to make real music. Now my music is transparent, like a glass of water, and there are no technical difficulties for me."

About his new method he talked considerably. He said that it is a perfect method because it is the natural method. Liszt, he said, had a perfect technique in the old method, and that if he had lived till today he would have discovered this modern method also.

"The hands are placed over the keys as easily and naturally as if they were laid on the table," he said. "Before there was too much curve in the fingers and too much striking of the notes. One sings the melody with the cushion at the end of the finger, as he sings it in his heart, pressing it out from his finger into the piano, so the tones are like beautiful jewels. The wrists do not wiggle back and forth. One plays easily and sweetly, so it is always charming, lovely music."

De Pachmann interests many people more by his eccentricities than his musicianship. Indeed, he has certain peculiarities which stand out all over him. He is first and last just himself, loving his music. It is to him a passion and an obsession. The truth, he avers, should be told, even if it hurts a bit, and if it is eccentric to tell the truth as he sees it about his fellow-musicians, then he is the living embodiment of that word. But to him the great masters of music are his most intimate acquaintances, and such faults as they have he knows and discusses quite as freely as their better points. At first some of his statements are a bit shocking, but on reflection they seem founded on fact. The fault which he finds with those whom we have placed on pedestals is only, according to his viewpoint, real weaknesses which he, being on the same level, is privileged to see and to understand.

CHICAGO REQUESTS GRAUMAN PROLOGUE

Chicago has sent Sid Grauman an S. O. S. call to come to the Woods Theater and personally stage the prologue for the opening of "The Ten Commandments" there on the night of February 15. Famous Players-Lasky wants "The Night in Pharaoh's Palace," the prologue Grauman staged at the Hollywood Egyptian, as a fore spectacle to the DeMille triumph in the Windy City.

Los Angeles saw "The Ten Commandments" first; New York second, and now Chicago comes third. It will be many months before it is shown elsewhere according to local Paramount executives. At both Grauman's Hollywood and the George M. Cohan Theater New York it is playing to capacity.

CLUBWOMEN PRAISE "MARRIAGE CIRCLE"

That the public is ever ready to indorse a good motion picture is shown by the enthusiastic welcome being given "The Marriage Circle," now on view at Grauman's Rialto.

Yesterday, Albert A. Kaufman received a letter from Mrs. Edward H. Jacobs, vice-chairman of previews of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, expressing her delight in the picture.

"It is," wrote Mrs. Jacobs, "a very fine feature film, wholly fascinating and highly entertaining. There is a great human charm about it and every character is spledidly portrayed."

NEW LASKY STAR

LEATRICE JOY IS ELEVATED TO HIGH RANK

By Grace Kingsley

It's all true, every word of it, what the copy-books say about all things coming to him that hath patience to labor and to wait, and all that sort of thing, take it from Leatrice Joy, who has been featured player and leading woman in many recent Cecil De Mille successes, and who is now to be rewarded by Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

According to Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president in charge of production at the Famous Players studios, Miss Joy is to be elevated to full stardom in Paramount Pictures, and all because she is now in great demand by the exhibititors throughout the country, no matter who else appears with her.

Joseph Henabery has been named as the director of the first picture which will reveal Miss Joy as a star, with Lucien Hubbard supervising the story. This story, however, is not yet selected, but will be within a short time, several stories being now under consideration. At any rate, date of production is set, with work to begin February 25.

"Leatrice Joy's promotion to stardom comes as a direct result of popular demand," Mr. Lasky declared yesterday. "Screen stars today are made by the public, not by the producer. Her work in Cecil B. De Mille's productions and other Paramount pictures has been of such high order that she has won for herself an enthusiastic personal following which was tremendously increased by her work in 'The Ten Commandments.' "

In speaking of the success of his latest discovery, Cecil De Mille, said:

"As she has been for several years a member of my official family, I regard with special pleasure the elevation to stardom of Leatrice Joy. In an amazingly short time, Miss Joy has developed her artistic capabilities, until now she is one of the most versatile and talented of our present-day screen players. It is not alone Miss Joy's beauty which makes her popular, she has in extraordinary degree that rare quality of naturalness which endears her instantly to the playgoing public."

Listen, Hold-Up Victims!

If you want to prevent being held up, put on a movie make-up. Anyhow it worked with Theodore Kosloff, according to the statement of that gentleman himself.

It all happened Monday night, when Kosloff and Julia Faye, having finished work at midnight in Cecil De Mille's "Triumph," Mr. Kosloff was driving Miss Faye home, neither having removed their make-up. At Western and Vermont avenues a rough-looking man leaped on the running board of Kosloff's car, and flashed a light into his eyes. But the rough-neck took one look at Kosloff, and nearly fell off the machine! Kosloff was wearing a dead white make-up with green around his eyes, and red marks under his chin.—his regular screen make-up. Kosloff asked the man what he wanted, and the man very pale, murmured something about wanting to know how far it was to Santa Monica, and hastily withdrew, still staring, fascinated, at the actor.

Denny Company Comes Home

The Reginald Denny company has returned to Universal City after spending a week at Los Olivas, Cal., filming exterior scenes for Denny's latest Universal-Jewel starring feature, "The Reckless Age."

Those in the cast who made the location trip are Ruth Dwyer, who plays the romantic lead opposite Denny, Hayden Stevenson, and William Austin. Harry A. Pollard is directing.

Mme. Dione War Heroine

Mme. Rose Dione, appearing in the prologue of "Scaramouche," is entitled to all the flags and lights she carries. Mme. Dione served as a nurse during the World War, working at picture-making in the day time and nursing by night.

Samuel Grand Announces

Samuel V. Grand has gone back East for a brief stay in order to still further perfect certain details of his distribution plan for independent producers, as recently outlined, but before leaving he signed up a number of important productions to be made at the Grand Studio for release by Grand-Asher.

"Rose of the Ghetto," R. William Neill's production, is now under way, but in addition, announces General Manager Samuel Bischoff, Mr. Neill will make four more all-star features as follows: "Back of the Beyond," "The First Violin," "The Way of All Flesh" and "The Furnace of Life." Of these two are famous novels, "The First Violin" being Jessie Fothergill's classic and "The Way of All Flesh" Samuel Butler's greatest work. The other two are originals.

Mr. Grand has also signed four I. W. Irving productions, features with all-star casts, title and directors of which will be announced later.

Another interesting announcement is to the effect that Charles Swickard, one of the pioneer directors of the industry, has signed for four all-star Swickard productions, which he will direct and in each of which his brother, Josef Swickard, will play an important role. The first of these is Harvey Gates's original story entitled "San Francisco."

Twelve two-reel comedies starring John Richardson, the eccentric English comedian, are also slated to begin very shortly.

EDITH ALLEN STARTS AGAIN AS HEDDA LIND

Why change Edith Allen's name to Hedda Lind?

This is the question that is going the rounds of the motion-picture industry, following the announcement by Whitman Bennett that he had signed Miss Allen to star in a series of pictures under the new name.

Local wiseacres are criticising Bennett for not capitalizing on Miss Bennett's work in Rex Ingram's production of "Scaramouche," now playing at the Criterion Theater, in which she portrays the role of Climene Binet. It is pointed out that the producers will have to spend thousands of dollars advertising the new name, "Hedda Lind." However, the name is changed, and local criticism will probably not affect Bennett's determination to use "Hedda Lind."

AUXILIARY LEADERS NAMED

Appointments Made by Episcopal Diocese Bishop at Organization Meeting

Rt. Rev. Joseph H. Johnson, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Los Angeles, reappointed the officers of the Woman's Auxiliary at a meeting of the organization conducted yesterday at St. John's Church and attended by more than 300 members. The officers to serve for the ensuing year are as follows: President, Miss Helen McGill, Los Angeles; vice-president at large, Mrs. Josiah E. Cowles, Los Angeles; vice-president of the Los Angeles district, Mrs. Spencer H. Smith, Los Angeles; vice-president of the San Bernardino district, Mrs. G. A. Hanson; vice-president of the San Diego district, Mrs. H. W. Sinclair; corresponding secretary, Mrs Page Brown of Los Angeles; treasurer, Mrs. Abiel Leonard, Los Angeles.

More than $13,000 has been expended for home and foreign missionary work in the Los Angeles district during the past year, according to reports made by delegates from various parishes.

ANNOUNCE NEW OFFICERS

Officials of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew yesterday announced that the following officers have been elected to serve that organization for 1924: President, W. N. Howard; vice-president, A. W. Shewan; secretary, E. K. Taylor; treasurer, Charles Beamish; treasurer of Camp Girkoffer, George Entz.

Nearly 300 young women attended the sessions of the Girl's Friendly Society conducted at the church yesterday morning, afternoon and evening. Announcement was made that the Girls' Friendly Society members will dedicate their enlarged lodge building at 1422 West Third street, some time in February. The new quarters will provide room and board for thirty-four working girls.

YOUNG PEOPLE STUDYING

That a great awakening, on the part of young men and women, to the value of the study of Christianity, both historically and from the standpoint of this challenging religion's deeper mysteries, is being increasingly manifested is the report made by Miss Barbara Simonds, diocesan secretary of the Every Laymen's Study League.

"It is a wholesome sign, in my opinion, that all the literature bearing on the life and teachings of the Master is receiving attention from earnest students whose desire is to learn the truth," said Miss Simonds. "It is natural that students should wish to find their deep religious convictions corroborated by the works of scholarly historians and masters of the scientific world."

A HOME FOR CHILDREN

An interesting report yesterday was that of Mrs. Catherine A. Power, secretary, and Miss Evelyn Wile, deaconess of the Church Home for Children at 940 North Avenue 64.

"Since the first start made toward the erection of the home in 1913 the institution has had a slow but steady growth," said Mrs. Power. "The children come to us through the avenues of the four ominous 'd's'—divorce, desertion, death and disease. We take these little units and try to weld them into one large family group.

"Our ideal is to get away as far as possible from the 'institution' idea," continued Mrs. Power. "We wish to approach as nearly as we can the normal home life for our charges. The assistants to the housemother are known as 'Aunty So-and-So' and there is even a beloved 'Grandmother.' Among the valued gifts presented to us within the last year is a splendid radio set, for which we are duly grateful."

At the session this morning Bishop Johnson and Dr. W. B. Stevens, Coadjutor Bishop, will deliver their annual addresses to the delegates. The feature of tomorrow's program will be the evening reception to the bishops and their wives at the Harvard school.

Beggar Out But Few Days, Again to Be Sentenced

Timothy O'Donnel, street begger, was found guilty by a jury of ten women and two men in Police Judge Frederickson's court yesterday on a charge of disturbing the peace and will be sentenced this morning. O'Donnel a few days ago completed a six-month sentence in the City Jail on a charge of begging.

O'Donnel's arrest was the result of a coincidence. About a year and a half ago, it is charged, he attempted to assault Mildred Winn, 17 years of age, of 726 South Flower street. About nine months elapsed and then one day J. A. Winn, the girl's father, was going down the street when a beggar stopped him and asked for a dime. Winn recognized the beggar as O'Donnel and brought him to the station.

Del Valle Again Elected as Head of Service Body

R. F. Del Valle was yesterday unanimously re-elected president of the Board of Public Service Commissioners for the year. He has served on the board for sixteen years, and his election yesterday marks the beginning of his ninth term as president.

In a statement issued following his re-election President Del Valle stressed the need of securing water and power from the Colorado River to meet the needs of the Los Angeles of the near future.

CHARGE OF BIGAMY ORDERED DISMISSED

ASSERTED WIFE OF GRAHAM IS GIVEN IMMUNITY BY PROSECUTOR

A charge of bigamy against Ruby knowles was dismissed by Judge Shenk yesterday on motion of the District Attorney, who stated Mrs. Knowles was acting as a witness for the State in the prosecution of a bigamy charge against George Graham, the man whom Mrs. Knowles is alleged to have married while she was still the legal wife of J. B. Knowles.

According to testimony given at the preliminary hearing of Mrs. Knowles, she and Graham had been childhood sweethearts.

Knowles testified his wife ran away with Graham and married him. Graham is now awaiting his second trial on the charge against him, a jury hearing the testimony in the first having disagreed last week in Judge Reeve's court.

MINORS ACCUSED

The two are Sylvia Sepeda of 162 Lacy street and Pedro Perez, 3671 Rollo street. Their cases have been turned over to the juvenile authorities. Detective-Lieutenants Catzenberger and Shannon, who made the arrest, declare that the two have confessed taking part in a long series of burglaries, and that police expect to recover a large part of the stolen goods.

BAGPIPES CLEW AFTER HOLD-UP

Police Strain Ears for Walls that Will Lead Way to Robbers

Two hold-up men with two bagpipes in their possession are being hunted by Los Angeles and Pasadena police. It is hoped that they will attempt to play the instruments, thus giving a clew to their whereabouts.

The bagpipes were taken from John Drummond of 31 South Catalina avenue, Pasadena, as he was driving along Van Ness street at Fifty-third. The robbers, who were walking, stopped his car and compelled him to get out, then drove off with the car and bagpipes.

A short time later, two men believed to be the same pair held up R. W. Miser of 4384 Moneta avenue, while he was walking at Fifty-fourth street and Eighth avenue, and robbed him of $32.

DYING MAN NEGLECTED IS CHARGE

County Ambulance Crew Accused of Eating While Victim Suffered

Supervisor Bean yesterday directed that Dr. N. N. Wood, acting superintendent of county charities, proceed to make an investigation of charges filed with the board that the crew of the General Hospital ambulance, on the morning of the 21st inst., stopped outside a restaurant in San Fernando and had breakfast while Isas Banales, a Mexican, wounded in the stomach, lay suffering in the ambulance. Banales died on the way to the hospital, according to the letter, which was written by F. D. Parker, president of the Board of Trustees of San Fernando.

The Mexican was shot at the corner of Workman and Kalisher streets, according to the protest, and on the recommendation of a physician, the county ambulance was summoned. The car arrived about 7 a.m. and Banales, who was then in an extremely serious condition, was loaded into it.

The crew is then reported to have driven down the street a short distance, and then went to a restaurant, where they stopped for some time at breakfast. Mr. Parker termed this action "Uncalled for and heartless," and asked that the board institute an immediate investigation.

The matter was referred to Supervisor Bean, who forwarded the facts to Dr. Wood, asking that he get statements at once from the men who went for Banales.

Suicide Victim Believed to Be Violin Teacher

A man believed to be Max Blumenfeld, 65 years of age, violin teacher, of 1349 Georgia street, took his life in his room yesterday by inhaling gas. As he sat with a tube in his mouth he started to write a letter, but got no farther than "Dear Sister," the police judged from appearances in the room, before he collapsed.

It was said the sister lives in New York, but her address was not found. His body was taken to the Robinson & Adair undertaking rooms.

ADVERTISING ERRORS SEEN

Speaker Tells Club of Money Spent Without Result Due to Lack of Judgment

If you have an intense longing to kill somebody and wish to satisfy that desire with safety to yourself and your victim, this is the way to do it: Go to one of the theaters of Los Angeles and view "The Crimson Trail," "His Father's Wife's Daughter," or any one of a dozen other "most thrilling dramas ever filmed" and when the villain does his worst just turn your imagination loose.

If you recall one of your incarnations when you were an Indian washing your sins away in the River Ganges and wish to re-experience the same pious thrill without traveling to India all you need to do is to take a dip in a well-advertised plunge, while allowing your memory or your fancy to work double time.

In short, if you wish to give legitimate expression to any deep-seated instinct or desire which civilization has cruelly compelled you to suppress, your way to satisfaction lies in buying and utilizing whatever may appeal to you out of the million and one objects constantly being presented for your inspection by the advertising fraternity.

ADVERTISING PSYCHOLOGY

That this appeal to the instincts and desires of the buying public constitutes the foundation of the psychology of advertising was pointed out by Elliott C. Hensel, a director of the Los Angeles Advertising Club, in an address given before the club yesterday at the Biltmore Hotel.

Placing a knowledge of the wants and requirements of the public as the first requisite for success in advertising, Mr. Hensel said that among other factors making for a successful advertising campaign are calculation of the cost, right decision as to the medium to be employed, understanding of the area to be covered and of patrons to be appealed to.

"As a matter of fact, most merchants overspend in advertising because the underspend, paradoxical that may sound," said the speaker. "They fail to spend liberally enough to pull their train over the grade to the top of the financial hill where the going is smooth. Yet these are the kind of men who damn advertising and say 'it doesn't pay.'

"We cannot reasonably expect miracles in the field of advertising any more than in the realm of nature," continued the speaker. "There are laws in the social, political and financial world just as there are in the natural world. The elements of time and circumstance enter into the operation of growth on all planes of life.

EXPECTS TOO MUCH

"It is rather strange, not to say ridiculously illogical and inconsistent, that the same man who would never dream of expecting to reap, tomorrow, the harvest from seed sown today, sometimes expects a $10 advertisement in a morning newspaper to flood him with orders before nightfall."

Another speaker was Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, who accompanied his address on "Music" with piano selections. The speaker declared that "tone patterns" are as old as the Garden of Eden and he illustrated how the composer of "Yes, We Have No Bananas" had cleverly woven his jazz quilt from tone patterns taken from "The Messiah," "The Bohemian Girl" and a score of old-fashioned ballads.

A. Carman Smith, president of the club, announced that the speaker next Tuesday will be Mrs. Charles H Toll, who will speak on "Advertising From the Woman's Standpoint."

SCOOTS INTO TRUCK

Boy's Collarbone Broken, He Asks About Vehicle

"Did my scooter get broken?" was the only inquiry made by Francis Moururian, 8 years of age, of 1317 Waterloo street, when he was taken to the Receiving Hospital yesterday with a smashed collarbone.

The boy had scooted into a truck driven by H. Thomas of 1472 Elk avenue, near his home.

GUARDS AUTHORIZED

The City Council yesterday granted the request of Health Commissioner Powers for authority to employ seventy guards for quarantine service in smallpox and other contagious cases. The extra guards will be employed for thirty days.

SEEK STREET OPENING

Wrong Numeral Brings Verdict in Robbery Case

A jury in Judge Walton J. Wood's court yesterday returned a verdict of not guilty, "due to a variance between the indictment and the proof" in the case against W. C. Patton and Alexas Patton, who were accused of stealing goods from a railroad car on the Southern Pacific line near Puente on November 8, 1923. The indictment read that the defendants entered Wabash car No. 23303, but the testimony showed that they entered Wabash car No. 23302.

Judge Wood ordered that the defendants be detained in custody to await further action by the grand jury.

PLEA TO TRANSFER BEACH CASE DENIED

The Long Beach gas fight again appeared in Judge Ira F. Thompson's court yesterday, when a petition to transfer one of the cases to the Federal court was denied. The matter will now go forward on a hearing to show cause. One of the injunctions is now being heard before Federal Judge Bledsoe, while two others are still in the county courts. The cases are entitled City of Long Beach against the Southern Counties Gas Company.

TREATED FOR POISONING

David Berkovsky 32 years of age, of 455 South Breed street, was treated at the Receiving Hospital yesterday for bichloride of mercury poisoning. It was said he had taken the drug accidentally. He is expected to recover.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MONTE CARLO, Jan. 29.—Sessue Hayakawa, film actor, is said to have lost more than 1,000,000 francs ($50,000) in the last fortnight at Chemin de Fer. Night after night the Japanese sits until closing time at daybreak at the green tables trying in vain to beat the cards.

One night Hayakawa lost 400,000 francs ($20,000) at a single sitting, but he took the blow stolidly.

It is reported that Sessue is the principal loser this season thus far.

Kurtz yesterday filed suit for divorce against Gordon M. Kurtz. The wife also alleged that during the eight months of their married life she found a wrist watch in Kurtz's pocket belonging to another woman, a letter couched in affectionate terms and signed "Charlotte," and a photograph of a girl who signed her name "Jeanette."

The couple were married February 4, 1923, and parted November 3, 1923, according to the complaint.

"LITTLE CONGRESS"

Secretaries of Senators and Representatives Debate Issues

The little Congress is also in session in Washington, and though no press gallery reports its proceedings, the debates there over the bonus and tax revision are just as fiery as any in the big Congress.

In the little Congress the fires of ambition blaze forth even more than in the big Congress. The ambition is some day to win a seat in the Congress that has a fame-making press gallery. And the members of the little Congress have already made one long step toward the goal. They are in the Capitol. The members of the little Congress consist of secretaries of Senators and Representatives and other attaches of Congress.

The other night at a session of the little Congress the bonus bill was up.

The likelihood is, too, that in the round of years some of these same voices will be lifted in debate in the House or Senate to plead as earnestly for other important measures as they did for passage of the bonus bill on the title Congress sessions. Senators William J. Harris of Georgia, Morris Sheppard of Texas, Representative Crisp of Georgia, Lanham of Texas, Mead of New York, Smith of Idaho and White of Maine all learned to debate and orate at little Congress meetings. The association intends to keep active pace this year with subjects under discussion in Congress. The World Court and repeal of the Volstead Act are listed for early discussion.

The personnel of the little Congress is as interesting as the way its meetings are carried on. The members come to Washington from all over the country, and are for the most part, college graduates. Some have been skilled debaters in school, others are afraid of the sound of their own voices. At the little Congress meetings they learn the fundamentals of government matters and how to express their views. Republican members discover that Democratic members have their good points even though they may not agree in matters of politics. Good fellowship results.—[New York Times.

The War on Crime

By Geo. C. Henderson

POLICE METHODS

From the time of the formation of the first police organization in the world in France in 1356 down to the modern departments in great cities, the methods of criminological investigation have undergone a tremendous improvement.

It is a long throw from the "trial by fire" to the ear of the "lie detector," which can spot a falsehood dropping from a man's lips by recording the beating of his heart.

The first police force, the marechausee, which later became the gendarmerie, relied on their chance of catching the criminal at the time the crime was committed or immediately thereafter by pursuit. Failing in this, they could do nothing.

The modern police bring criminals to justice twenty years after the deed has been committed by use of the Bertillion system, finger prints, handwriting identification, modus operandi and photography.

EARLY ENGLISH PLAN

In the early days in England every man was enrolled in the law-enforcing organization. The individual had to join a group of ten men called a decennary. Ten decennaries formed a hundred. If a crime was committed within a certain hundred the particular decennary involved would be indicated. And it was up to the ten men in this decennary to produce the guilty party.

Later, when this system broke down, authorities inaugurated a scheme for offering 40 pounds sterling for arrest and conviction of certain types of criminals. This resulted in men "framing" on their brothers and encouraging youths to commit crimes, that they might turn them in for the $200.

The modern London police force, organized in 1828, is said to be one of the most efficient in the world because of its nonpolitical control, autocratic government, methods of obtaining personnel, operation of Scotland Yard and its scientific applications. In 1820 no officer dared to go into certain sections of the city even with his comrades. Ten years later a single officer could make an arrest anywhere.

The Berlin police force is perhaps the most highly centralized organization of its kind in the world. It has the most arbitrary powers, its officers are arrogant and uncivil and all persons are considered criminals unless they prove themselves innocent.

CLOSE TAB ON TRIPS

No American would tolerate for one moment a system which forced him to register at the police station every time he made a motor trip from Philadelphia to New York, each time he changed his address or whenever he took a little jaunt down to the beaches. Yet this is done in Berlin.

A stranger entering Berlin must register immediately with the police, filling out a questionnaire giving business, reason for presence in the city, address, when he is going to leave and much other information. On going away he must register again. Not only this, but every lodging-house owner and hotel also must furnish identical data to authorities. This system is in effect in many French cities and in the more thickly settled regions of Continental Europe.

Any unregistered person is subject to arrest and imprisonment without trial before a magistrate. It is said that the Berlin police employ 100 men and women as stool pigeons to gain the confidence of suspected persons and ferret out their secrets. The Berlin police are divided into twelve distinct divisions, such as fire, health, prisons, buildings, charities, etc. They supervise markets, inspect foodstuffs, have charge of public assemblies, inspect lodging-houses and cafes, prepare plans for street improvement and do many other things which no other police department has authority to do.

MUST HAVE PASSPORTS

By the passport system of Continental Europe no person is allowed to travel about without a passport. Thus the crook cannot circulate so freely as he does in England and the United States. According to the continental idea, every man must be accounted for. No person can be a resident of a city unless authorities know why he is there and what his business may be. Thus the criminal is put to it to hide behind a disguise of legitimacy.

In the United States not even criminals are forced to register. Chief Vollmer contends that every jailbird and ex-convict should be forced to register with the police under pain of imprisonment. This would give the police the power to arrest any crook and imprison him if he had not complied with these provisions. It also would supply them with information concerning the whereabouts of known offenders at all times. This would be a tremendous factor, inasmuch as 75 per cent of all crime is committed by this very type, the recidivist or ex-convict.

THE AMERICAN POLICE

When the American colonies were still young, each town or village had one constable and a night watchman whose duty it was to ring a bell at stated intervals and sound the alarm in case of trouble or fire. Every man was subject to duty as a night watchman, but frequently he furnished a proxy in the person of some vagabond. This was the nucleus of the police system of the United States.

In 1840, when New York began to pattern after London, it was difficult to find men who would join a uniformed force, because they thought that a uniform was degrading.

In 1857 the police forces of Brooklyn and New York City were placed in charge of a centrally appointed commission, and similar departments were established in Baltimore, St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Boston, several Massachusetts cities, Cincinnati, Washington, Denver, Newport, Kansas City, St. Joseph and Birmingham. This was known as the metropolitan police. In New York, Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland a return has been made to local appointment.

The police powers in the United States are not confined to the uniformed officers of a city, and in using the term police I may refer to any officer endowed with such powers.

The town, city, township, county, State and Federal government all have their police officers. In the town and township the constable and his deputies or the town marshal are the agents of law and order. In the city there is the police; in the county the sheriff and his deputies, and the district attorney and his detectives; in the State there is the National Guard, constabulary, narcotic agents, pure food inspectors, motor vehicle officers and many others; in the Federal government there is the secret service, postoffice inspectors, prohibition officers, customs inspectors, narcotic agents, Department of Justice detectives, Army and Navy intelligence men and United States marshals. Besides these, there are private detectives and patrol agencies, some of them of nation-wide importance.

All these constitute the police force of America.

By far the greater number of arrests made are handled by the city police forces of the great metropolis, and it is upon these organizations that society must rely for its first and last line of defense against the crook. This is true primarily because criminals congregate in the cities, and if they are taken they are captured there by the local officers.

As in the case of New York, which has an organization of over 12,000 policemen, the metropolitan forces often are small armies. It costs New York more than $25,000,000 annually to maintain it.

In most cities the head of the police department is an elected commissioner. This commissioner appoints the chief or superintendent of police, frequently from the ranks. The chief is the active executive officer of the department. He may divide his crew up into various details, and appoint captains, inspectors, lieutenants, sergeants and corporals. Among the bureaus generally formed are detective, criminal identification, traffic, pawnshop, purity squad, reserves and the administrative group. Of course the main body of officers are patrolmen who "pound a beat."

The patrolmen are most in evidence, being seen constantly on the street in uniform. The public is familiar, also, with the traffic officer. The detective bureau is composed of the best minds of the department, who frequently rank as inspectors and draw higher pay than the patrolmen. All puzzling problems are referred to the captain of detectives or the captain of inspectors to some detective or pair. Detectives quite often work in pairs. The criminal identification bureau measures, fingerprints and catalogues the criminal, and compiles data from photographs and finger prints received from other cities. The purity squad may be assigned to the tenderloint to fight prostitution, gambling, and other vices. The pawnship detail makes daily inspections of all such places in search for stolen goods, and to see that the law requiring the registration of all material bought is complied with. The reserves are held for emergency, while the administrative group attends to the book work and office routine.

DETECTING CRIMINALS

Because a man is caught red-handed murdering another does not mean that no problem of detection is involved. I have known of cases where the fellow actually confessed and then later repudiated his confession, fought the case and was freed.

Every criminal case requires some detective work and for that reason all persons accused of felonies are turned over to an inspector or a detective.

The murderer is questioned. If he confesses, this statement is taken down by a stenographer in the presence of witnesses. The investigators do not rest here. They probe into the case for a motive if the motive is not clear. They photograph the premises and the body, preserve records of finger prints found on revolvers, knives, furniture, walls or windows. A Coroner's jury hears the first testimony and the authorities are careful to keep a record of the proceedings and present enough evidence to get a verdict against the confessed slayer. An official autopsy physician makes a thorough examination of the victim.

Nothing is omitted by the trained, intelligent operative even in a case so simple.

Now we will take a more complex case. A banker is mysteriously slain. The only clew is a finger print found on a window. It is difficult for the layman to understand how so unimportant an item as a finger print can lead to the capture of a criminal who has fled across a continent, yet this has been done.

The finger print is photographed and enlarged copies are made. Scores of smaller prints are made and sent to police and identification bureaus all over the country.

There is a Federal Identification Bureau at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., where the finger prints of all the criminals in the United States are supposed to be kept. A copy of the print is sent there.

The inspector in charge of the identification bureau of the city where the crime was committed classifies the finger print and begins searching him own records. If the slayer is an ex-convict the inspector may find his print in his records, thus not only identifying him, but getting a picture of him as well from the files.

Theoretically, every police department in the country is supposed to search its records for a similar print, and if a big reward is offered they do so.

The identification bureau in Boston may receive a telegram from San Francisco stating that the print has been identified as that of John Jones, who had been confined in the city prison for having narcotics in his possession. Photographs of John Jones are sent out over the country. The officers of every department everywhere are shown his "mug" and instructed to be on the lookout. If a big reward is offered they need no other stimulation.

Before the real criminal is found a great many innocent men will be picked up, but eventually John Jones is arrested by a "flatfoot" copper in Logansport, Ind.

Suppose that a jewelry store is robbed. The police know where crooks hang out. They send a stool pigeon or spy to all the hangouts with instructions to keep his ears open. This "stoolie" may be a crook himself and a hophead. Whenever a crime is committed everyone in the underworld learns of it and sometimes they get real information. If the robber has a girl who talks that makes it all the easier. If some crook seems to be spending a lot of money, or his "moll" is wearing a few "sparks," the stoolie reports this to the inspector. All manner of clews may be picked up.

Very frequently a crook may be arrested for a petty crime. When his finger prints are taken it is found he is wanted for some felony in another city.

One of the best methods the police have of catching suspects is in the "net" or "round-up." If some influential person is severely offended by a crime a round-up order is sent out. Every hobo, ex-convict, jailbird and vagrant is arrested. A "line-up" is held so that the victim may look on the faces of all the prisoners. Very frequently the criminal is caught.

The first thing that is done when a job is "pulled" is to look up and perhaps arrest all ex-cons who do that kind of work. Sometimes the guilty man is nabbed at once. If a safe is cracked all the yeggs are arrested. If a counterfeit note is passed the authorities round up all known counterfeiters.

IDENTIFICATION AND CAPTURE

Two important factors enter into the problem of bringing the criminal to justice. The first is identification. The second is capture. Sometimes the capture comes first and the identification afterward however.

Criminals are identified by being caught in the act, recognized by their victims, through disposing of stolen goods, through finger prints, handwriting, modus operandi, tracks, personal property, photographs, confession, self-betrayal or arrest.

Criminals are captured in the act of committing the crime, near scene of crime, disposing of stolen goods, fleeing, hiding, taking refuge with a false friend, in the "roundup" of suspicious characters, in foreign countries, while committing another crime in a "criminal hangout," through a woman's jealousy, through betrayal by a pal, through confession of another or through an accomplice turning State's evidence.

Most identifications are affected through recognition by the victim, although the other methods are of tremendous importance. If the crook is caught in the act the two problems of identification and capture are solved at once. Should he flee after being recognized, the victim tells the police to look for John Smith and the hunt is greatly simplified. But if the robber is not caught in the act or recognized, the authorities then must rely on the other means outlined.

Therefore where no identification has been made by the complainant or where it is doubtful, the authorities search the scene of the crime for other clews, such as personal effects that the outlaw may have dropped, finger prints, pieces of clothing, samples of handwriting and tracks. The study of modus operandi is considered very important as some criminals can be identified by the manner in which they work. There was the case of the finger-snapping bandit who always manipulated his digits and who was found working in a shop where this peculiarity betrayed him. There was the perfume burglary who always left a trail of perfume on the job. There was the fellow who always twisted off door knobs by using a stillson wrench instead of a jimmy.

The pawnshops are searched for the stolen goods and if pilfered articles are found, the seller is located. Finger prints and handwriting are photographed and sent out broadcast to be compared with those of known crooks where such clues can be obtained. If the man is identified as Bill Spiggs, an ex-convict, through his finger prints, his photograph can be taken from the rogues gallery and copies made and sent to all police departments everywhere. Or if Spiggs is known but has no record, a picture of him may be secured from his room, from his best girl, his friends or a photograph gallery that he has patronized.

The method of identification through confession or self-betrayal is self explanatory. Identification through being arrested on suspicion, in a roundup or for another crime also is accomplished quite frequently.

We now come to the question of capture.

The most simple capture is when the man is caught in the act, near the scene of the crime, in his room with the property, by confession, self-betrayal or while selling the loot immediately after.

Of course, the instant that a crime is committed, the entire police force of a city is on the alert for the particular crook. Whether the officers know his name, his description or the number of his automobile, they are on the lookout for him just the same. The pawnshop detail gets a description of the stolen articles and searches for them among the known "fences" and second-hand men. The patrolman on the street keeps his eye peeled for the person answering the description given. The traffic men watch the car numbers. Members of the purity squad question their lady friends in the underworld. If a "roundup" is ordered, every known criminal and ex-convict, every hobo and all unknown persons of disreputable appearance are immediately arrested on suspicion and "vagged." The vagrancy ordinances under which police may arrest and hold a man who has "no visible means of support" is of great value here. The victim looks over the suspect and quite frequently spots the guilty man.

And of course, the detectives are busy running down all the other clews, hunting out the crook's friends searching his residence if known, picking up the women with whom he has associated and sending out descriptions, telegraphic reports and queries to other departments.

This is a mere outline. Of course the actual accomplishment may be much more complex or much more simple, according to the individual instance.

Competent and willing, to give you the right advice

The art of photo-engraving is a highly technical one, in which a thorough knowledge is achieved only after years of experience.

It is no wonder then, that the average layman and even many printers are unfamiliar with all its varied possibilities.

Often certain effects can be achieved—certain savings effected—by some new process—entirely impossible with any other.

SEQUOIA PARK HIGHWAY OPEN

New State Road Ready for Travel of Autoists

Lindsay Postal Receipts Show Large Increase

Visalia Students Prepare for Graduation Day

THREE RIVERS, Jan. 29.—The new State highway to Sequoia National Park has been officially opened by District Engineer Woodson. This opens to auto travel the beautiful canyon of the main Kaweah River, generally known as the Middle Fork Section of the Sequoia National Park.

Giant Forest Road up the North Fork of the Kaweah has been closed for travel for the past three months, although owing to fine weather it might have been used had appropriations been made for its maintenance during winter months.

At the end of the new State highway there is a short detour which leads to Hospital Rock via Park headquarters at Alder Creek. This road is in good condition, although it is narrow and careful driving is necessary, but nowhere dangerous to experienced drivers. Park Rangers will direct traffic on Sundays and holidays. Autos and visitors are checked at Alder Creek but there is no fee.

From Hospital Rock the new Park road being constructed by General Foreman Small, the first link in the General's Highway, is open on good weather to Small's Camp, an easy run of but three hours from Hospital Rock. Then an easy hike places visitors in Giant Forest. Ranger and Mrs. Magley are in charge there with hotel accommodations for as many as eight people, or thirty who bring their own equipment may be given free shelter and cooking facilities. Groceries, with exception of bread, may be obtained at the park store.

Many are now making the trip to Giant Forest in a day, with time for forest sports and rest in camp. A light carpet of snow now covers the floor of the forest with conditions ideal for tobagganing, skiing, etc. An "ice palace" near the ranger station is proving a popular attraction.

POSTAL RECEIPTS SOAR

LINDSAY, Jan. 29.—Postal receipts at the Lindsay postoffice for the year 1923 amounted to $21,276.12, an increase of $1605.06 over the year 1922. During the months of October, November and December, 1923, the receipts were $7320.51, as compared with $6726.26 for the same period in 1922. The Civil Service Commissioner has announced an examination to be held at Lindsay on February 9, to fill the position of rural carrier and vacancies that may occur on rural routes.

Lindsay postoffice has two city carriers and recently extended its rural service, which now covers sixty-five miles, with two carriers.

GRADUATION NEARS

VISALIA, Jan. 29.—Pupils of Webster and Jefferson schools, numbering forty-nine, will graduate Friday afternoon, February 1, and will be eligible to enter the high school, according to De Witt Montgomery, city superintendent of schools. It is not expected that all of these pupils will enter high school but an added attendance of from forty to forty-five, including some from outside schools, is expected to tax facilities of the high-school plant temporarily.

LARGE SUM INVOLVED IN GRAPE SUIT

Commission Firm Asked to Pay $171,000 Damage by Fresno Man

FRESNO, Jan. 29.—Demanding one of the largest judgements ever asked in a civil action in this county, C. L. Caine today filed suit in the Superior Court against J. H. Steinhardt, New York commission merchant doing business under the firm name of Steinhardt & Kelly, for $171,000 for the alleged cancellation of grape contracts.

Caine is the defendant in a previous suit filed by Steinhardt asking judgment for $13,002.26 for freight advanced on cars of fruit, commissions earned in the sale of carload lots of grapes, cash advanced and numerous items of expense. In the action filed today, in the form of a cross complaint to the original action, Caine charges he was fraudulently led into a contract with the firm through false representations of the company's standing.

He also charges that after he had made the contract and had then entered into large contracts with San Joaquin Valley growers, Steinhardt refused to honor drafts or render an accounting on forty-two cars of grapes. Last September he alleges, Steinhardt, in order to coerce him, brought an action in Los Angeles, obtained an attachment on his money and property and forced him to enter into further terms and agreements concerning the sale, delivery and shipment of grapes.

COMMUNITY STILL FOUND TO BE IN USE

Oil Field Resident is Fined $500 Following Raid and Seizure

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 29.—Illicit-liquor distillers of the McKittrick oil-field district are using a "community still," according to W. W. Wiles of the District Attorney's office.

Wiles, with Deputy Sheriff D. D. Cornwall, arrested John Cicca near McKittrick when they discovered and confiscated on his property sixteen forty-five-gallon barrels of grain mash, one of the largest quantities of mash or liquor ever seized in Kern county, Wiles announced today.

The officers did not find a still on Cicca's place, Wiles said. He stated the evidence in his posession indicates that illicit-liquor makers in that locality alternate in the use of a "community still," taking turns at the use of one still when their mash is ripe.

Cicca was arraigned in the McKittrick Township Court on a charge of possession of illicit liquor, to which he pleaded guilty and was fined $500.

Aged Man Dies at Auto Wheel; Car Runs Wild

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 29.—After his machine had swerved, jumped a curb and collided with a telephone pole, Harvey Williams, 71 years of age, was taken from his post behind the steering wheel dead, by Police Officer C. C. Myers at 7 o'clock this morning.

It is the belief of the police that Williams expired just before the accident as the car was traveling slowly and the body suffered no injuries sufficient to have killed the aged man in the collision, which happened near the intersection of Nineteenth and R streets.

The body was taken to the Payne Mortuary by Officer Myers.

Williams is survived by a widow, residing at 2417 H street. He is the father of Mrs. Elmer Karpe, well-known local matron, and had been in California only two months, coming here from Minnesota. No funeral arrangements have been made.

BLUEBEARD CASE TAKES NEW ANGLE

Guardian of Boy, Whose Step-mother is Accused of Murder, Asks Funds

FRESNO, Jan. 29.—Another angle of the famous Potegian bluebeard woman murder case has developed with the filing by M. Potegian, guardian of 21-year-old Goorken Potegian, of a petition for authorization to use funds willed the boy by his father, Setrak Potegian, whose death last June is alleged to have been caused by arsenic administered by the lad's stepmother, Mrs. Eliza Potegian.

The petition states that the money asked by the son is needed to pay attorney's fees, expenses and claims against the father's estate, which is valued in excess of $40,000. Potegian's will, now being probated, leaves $1000 to charity, $1000 and an undivided one-third interest in the net income to Mrs. Potegian, an undivided one-third interest to Margaret Potegian, whose death last September from arsenic poisoning is also laid at the door of Mrs. Potegian, and another one-third interest to the boy, Goorken Potegian.

Through the death of Margaret Potegian, 18 years of age, the son is now chief heir to the estate, although Mrs. Potegian retains her interest in the income. Hearing on the petition of the son has been set for February 8 at 1:30 o'clock before Superior Judge J. E. Woolley. Besides cash, the estate consists of a sixty-acre vineyard near Fresno. Mrs. Potegian will go to trial before Superior Judge Woolley on February 4 on two charge of murder involving the deaths of Setrak and Margaret Potegian.

FOGS AND CROPS

Modify Night Temperatures Following Rains

FRESNO, Jan. 29.—The storm that visited San Joaquin Valley over the week-end has been succeeded by foggy weather which is declared by W. B. Bonnett, local observer of the United States Weather Bureau, to be ideal for vegetation. The fog, Bonnett declares, modifies the night-time temperature and prevents freezing following rain that has softened the earth. The fog has been accompanied by cooler weather during the day.

While the storm ended in California early yesterday, according to Bonnett, the fog has been general throughout the State, with indications of further unsettled weather here. Storms are continuing throughout Oregon and Washington, with another disturbance on the extreme northwest coast.

SNOWFALL HEAVY AT HUNTINGTON LAKE

PORTERVILLE, Jan. 29.—Heavy fog here this morning was followed by alternate clouds and sun with every appearance of continuation of the storm. Huntington Lake reports a fall of 21 inches of snow and the distant mountains glimpsed today are capped with white.
